Maj. Norman Parker, 44, given military burial

Funeral services were held Thursday morning for Maj. Norman Earl Parker, 44, who died suddenly in Ingrandes, France on Oct. 14.

The Rev. Reginald Daniels, pastor, Madison St. Presbyterian Church, officiated at the church rites.

Clarence Henderson was soloist. Miss Almira Miller was at the organ.

Military burial was in Baltimore National Cemetery.

Major Parker, an Army career man with 19 years service, was remembered as "a personality embued with the highest ideals . . personified in the function of practical service to his country, loving service to his family, and intelligent attention to his friends . . "

* * *

MAJOR PARKER died in his quarters at the Ingrandes General Depot.

Major Parker collapsed in his quarters at the Ingrandes General Depot, and died shortly afterwards at the nearby dispensary.

He had not previously complained of illness.

Col. Irving Yearwood, Montclair, N.J., accompanied the body from overseas. He is assistant to Major Parker, who was the SI, administrative officer and acting deputy for the depot commander.

Among those in attendance at the funeral were Major and Mrs. Charles Laken, who recently returned from Ingrandes, and is now stationed at Ft. Meade.

* * *

SURVING Major Parker are his wife, the former Miss Eugenia Hardy, onetime Baltimore teacher; three children, Norma Jean, 8; Norman Jr., 6; and Miss Olive Parker, a University of Maryland junior.

Also, two sisters, Mrs. Rosemary E. Lilly, Buffalo, N.Y., and Miss Marion L. Parker, Portsmouth, Ohio;

And two brothers, Lt. Col. Albert J. Parker, professor of military science at Fla. A. and M. University; and Police Detective Lt. Ronald Parker, Portsmouth.

* * *

AMONG OTHER relatives and friends who occupied cars to the burial ground were:

Mrs. Ronald Lilly, Miss Mary Jo Parker, Marshall Pyles, Mrs. Lucretia Parker, Mrs. Olga Yearwood, Mr. and Mrs. Archie J. Lewis Jr., and Mrs. J. Brown Harby, Miss Marion Parker, Bailey Conaway, John Bul-

Convicted

Det. Lt. Anthony Gover, Dts. Sgts. Clarence Roy and James Cadden.

In it the youth said he entered the store early on Nov. 17 after attending a party while visiting Baltimore.

Bagley stated he went to the store to make a telephone call, but the store owner ordered him out.

An argument ensued and Davis grabbed his gun from under the counter and was shot to death while they struggled over the gun, according to the statement.

He returned to North Carolina the same day, Bagley told police.

* * *

MR. ADLER said the youth was picked up on a parole violation charge by North Carolina police in February and told them he had killed a man in Washington.

When Washington authorities reported not having any record of a homicide on that date, Baltimore detectives were contacted.

Lt. Glover and Sgt. Cadden went to Durham and returned Bagley to Baltimore where he re-enacted the crime, the state charged.

However, Hyman Greenberg and Fred Oken, defense attorneys, condemned the statement as a figment of Bagley's imagination, created by police, who were guilty of exerting mental duress and pressure to get the statement.

* * *

"THEY HELD him in isolation and questioned him for five days," Mr. Greenberg, a New York attorney, charged.

Bagley re - enacted the crime, Mr. Greenberg said, at the suggestion of police, who showed him pictures of the scene of the crime and the victim.

The lawyers polled the jury after the verdict. Each juror personally gave his findings.

Mr. Greenberg said the defense is considering an appeal.

Rites held for Rev. Woodford

Funeral services were held Wednesday at Berea Temple for the Rev. William A. Woodford, 73, 4122 Woodhaven Ave., a Seventh-day Adventist minister.

The Rev. Mr. Woodford died last Friday at City Hospitals.

A native of Staunton, Va., he was son of the late James and Harriet Woodford.

He came here to live with his daughter, Mrs. Margaret Brown, several years ago.

Others surviving include two other daughters, Mrs. Raydell Smith, Washington; Mrs. Susan Gumbs, Long Island, N.Y.; four sons, William, Preston, Gilbert and James Woodford, all of New York City.

Also, a brother, Edward Woodford, New York; a sister, Mrs. Mamie Harris, Satunton; 21 grandchildren and 17 great-grandchildren.

Burial was in Mt. Auburn Cemetery.

Fall came blowing in with a swirl of color. The Grace AME Church Hall, Catonsville, was garbed in autumn hues when it became the setting for a gala array of fall fashions.

The fashion show sponsor was Mrs. Pinnie Ross. Mrs. Ross introduced popular fashion show narrator, Willa Bland, who described the stunning garments and maintained a fast moving show.

Darling were the little girls' fashions modeled by cute little Misses Diane Gordon, Ree Ross, Edna Ringold, Gina Roberts, Gina Dunlap, Darleen Sands, Patricia Manokey, Edria Jackson, Jamndora Waddy and Michele Grace.

Adult models were Reba Hollinsworth, Rosetta Goldberg, Dorothy Monroe, Diane Johnson, Myrna Clements, Jackie Terrill, Cleaver Poag and Vera Smith.

On hand to launch Pinnie's first showing of hats were Anne Dayton and Mrs. Mattie Harrie plus a host of friends and well wishers. Door prize winners were Tijuana Poage and Yvonne Young.
