How to get thrown out, without even trying

By JAMES D. WILLIAMS
Assistant Managing Editor

Well, I've been put out of another meeting.

It happened last night at the Mt. Hebron Church of Christ, North Ave., and Bentalou St. The occasion was a meeting called by the political allies of James Jacks Pollack, political leader of the Fourth District.

The report had reached my ears that the Pollack forces were about to reveal official-ly what they were going to do in the Fourth District—whether they would support Mrs. Verda Welcome, the Democratic nominee, or Dr. John C. (Reany) Woodland, the Republican hopeful.

With trusty pen in hand, I entered the meeting place—the basement of the church. Scattered all about the room was a profusion of signs urging the nomination of Dr. Woodland and the Pollack backed candidates for the House of Delegates.

Trying to wring one of the Pollack House candidates, I was speaking as I entered. He acknowledged my appearance by a nod, but all of the audience's attention that I had entered.

Enter, I did, but remain, I did not.

IN A FEW moments a bespectacled gentleman in a brown suit approached me, and informed me that my person was not desired on the premises, and would I remove same.

I attempted to explain to the gentleman that my purpose for being at the meeting was to obtain a news story, and that I could see no reason why there should be any objection to my getting such a story.

The gentleman grabbed me by my arm in such a manner that I had no course but to move in the direction in which he was pushing me—and it was to the door.

Finally, at my request, he released his tenacious grip, and I was allowed to negotiate the rest of the distance to the exterior of the building myself.

ONCE OUTSIDE, he joined me. I wandered around the yard, wondering if the sound would carry from inside . . . and he was right with me.

My friend in the brown suit suggested that I leave the premises.

I suggested to him that since it was the church's property, that perhaps it might be better if the minister, or one of the church officials, asked me to leave.

He departed, to return a few moments later with a gentleman who identified himself as the minister.

I explained to him my purpose for being there, and assured him that if he wanted me to leave, I would.

He returned to the church, and a few minutes later, reappeared with an invitation to come back inside.

Having been thrown out once, I declined the invitation.

A similiar invitation from Mr. Young was also declined.

A few minutes later, Mr. Young made his speech, during which he urged the support of Dr. Woodland, the Republican.

"We do have Dr. Woodland." I heard him say.

"Dr. Woodland will take care of the people," he added, as he spoke about the candidate's attributes.

This went on for several minutes, and I was getting a little chilly.

As I headed from the grounds, one of the persons who had been inside, came outside and spoke to me.

"Kinda chilly out here tonight?"

"Brother," I said, "you don't know how chilly it is."

And that's how I was thrown out of another meeting.

Wife wouldn't pay off on 146, hubby on trial

Ferdi A. Miller, 24, went on trial Wednesday before U.S. District Court Judge Edward Curran on a charge of first degree murder in the strangling of his estranged wife, Mrs. Ollie Miller, 24.

Arthur McLaughlin, assistant U.S. Attorney, told the jury that Mr. Miller killed his wife after she filed a petition for divorce.

BUT THE HUSBAND, at police he was angry with his wife because she refused to pay off on a numbers bet he placed with her on 146 combination.

Mr. Laughlin asserted, in his opening statement, that 286 came out on March 7 instead of 146 as contended by the defendant.

The defense made no opening statement. If Mr. Miller is convicted of first degree murder, he faces the death penalty should it be recommended by the jury.

Cohen: color bars a must; Barnes: tell it to the judge

A District resident who wanted to move his family to a suburb nearer an elementary school north of Rockville, Md., where he is principal, has filed suit in U.S. District Court, Baltimore, Md. because he has been denied a home in the all-white community.

Roland E. Barnes, principal of the primarily White Travilah Elementary School, charges breach of contract in the suit against A. Sind and Associates, 8226 Fenton St., Silver Spring, developer Abraham A. Sind of 2716 Kenilworth Terrace, Chevy Chase and builder-contractor Israel Cohen of 6411 East Halbert Rd., Bethesda.

MR. BARNES, who has been in the Montgomery County school system for the past three years, commutes with his family, to Maryland, daily. His wife is employed by the Montgomery County School Board as a specialist in giving assistance to partially-seeing children. Her office is in Rockville, Md. Their children are enrolled at the West Rockville and Richard Montgomery Schools.

The Barnes family must travel 44 miles per day.

Because of this inconvenience, Mr. Barnes decided in August, 1961, to purchase a home in Montgomery County.

ON OCTOBER 7, 1961, Mr. Barnes read an advertisement by A. Sind and Associates in the Washington Post, inviting the public to examine and purchase homes in the "Georgetowne Hill" area in Montgomery. Models mentioned in the ad ranged from $22,950 to $25,900.

Two days later, Mr. Barnes visited the Georgetowne Hill area which is approximately eight miles from the Travilah Elementary School and his wife's place of employment and his children's school.

After examining three of the models, Mr. Barnes visited the office on the premises maintained by The Harmony Corporation, a real estate agency which is handling the settlement for the owners, Sind and Associates.

MR. BARNES met Mr. Glenn, a sales agent for Harmony Corporation, who showed him other available locations where the model house could be constructed and Mr. Barnes selected a lot.

Mr. Glenn, according to the suit, drew up a formal contract for purchase of the model and location with an estimated delivery date of March 15. Mr. Barnes purportedly gave Mr. Glenn a deposit, a check for $200 and a personal note for $800, making a total of $1,000, the required deposit stated in the contract.

TWO DAYS later, Mr. Barnes received the deposit in the mail from Harmony Corporation, with an accompanying note that "We are sorry but this deal cannot be consummated at this time."

When Mr. Barnes protested, through his attorney, Sind and Associates sent representatives to meet with his attorney—and with him but made it clear that Mr. Barnes was unacceptable because of his race, the suit states.

The company, the petition says, contended that if the Barnes family resided in the project of 42 houses, the company would suffer from the public authorities on such matters as zoning, sewer and water and other potential buyers would go elsewhere.

THREE MONTHS later, Mr. Barnes threatened to take the matter to court. Mr. Cohen, one of the owners, then telephoned Joseph L. Rauh, one of the attorneys for Mr. Barnes, and agreed to settle the matter by offering Mr. Barnes the house on an equivalent house in the same area, the suit states. The agreement was put in writing.

Question No. 2

Candidates not represented here, did not respond to questionnaire.

1. Will you support legislation for the opening of places of public accommodations throughout Maryland on a non-discriminatory basis?
2. What is your position on state-wide fair employment legislation?
3. Thousands of Marylanders exist on sub-standard wages, and as a result, many soon become Welfare Department recipients. Would you favor intra-state minimum wage legislation to raise the living standards of these citizens?
4. Would you support legislation proposing an open-house policy for areas where such racial restrictions still remain, to alleviate the drought of adequate housing for colored families in Baltimore and throughout the state?
5. Is there some particular legislation you would like to have enacted?
6. Will you use your influence to have qualified colored candidates appointed to governmental positions? Do you have any particular jobs in mind?

Mr. Raith, 46, a native of the 5th District of Baltimore, is now an insurance company broker. Married—a daughter.

The former chairman of the speakers committee, Junior Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Raith says he is "Free of allegiance to any political Boss." One of his principal platform planks is that he is a candidate for all the people."

ANSWERS

1. Inasmuch as I will be serving in the State Senate as a representative of all the people of my district, I naturally am against any type of discrimination and would certainly support such legislation.
2. My position on state-wide fair employment legislation is that it needs improvements in many areas, but requires intensive research and at the present time, in my judgment, a group of specialists in this area would have to give me a conclusive decision.
3. Inasmuch as this is a highly specialized field and many experts have been trying, or attempting to try, to arrive at a fair solution, it would be presumptious on my part to be specific in my answer without having all the facts before me at the present time. However, I feel that every citizen who is hard working and deserving should receive a livable income.
4. I naturally am against any type of discrimination and

—There was a

nice Mayth, president of this group, was pouring tea or coffee from a handsome silver urn.

This certainly was something to think about: Democrats suddenly endorsing a Republican just six days before election.

With the photograph, the Democratic Ladies Guild, Inc. sent an announcement that "in keeping with its aim of better government for all Marylanders irrespective of race or color, the Democratic Ladies Guild has given its full backing to Dr. Woodland . . ."

About the tea party itself:

Dr. Woodland recalled it as being held in the 3900 block Callaway Ave.

The AFRO photographer, when turning in the picture of the affair, said the party was two blocks further down at 3706 Callaway.

But the lady who lived at 3706, Mrs. Catherine (Kitty) Young, when telephoned said no such party had been held at her house. Mrs. Young also said she did not personally know any of the ladies who had been pouring tea in her house on Sunday. She did say she was in the 5th district of the guild.

"Oh yes I was there, it was held at Mrs. Catherine Young's house and she was the hostess as far as I knew. She may have had some help but I don't know anything about that."

She also provided the telephone number.

AFTER THAT the mystery deepened rapidly. Mrs. Young had said no there was no party, shortly after 7 p.m. Wednesday but Mrs. Scott had said yes there was a party, at 8 p.m.

At 9:50 p.m., Wednesday Mrs. Marie Bacote, who had also attended, called to report that the party was not held at Mrs. Young's home but at Mrs. Mayth's residence in the 4th district on North Avenue.

Thus in less than an hour, the party had suddenly jumped 30 blocks across the city.

Why Mrs. Bacote phoned in the first place and asked by name for the reporter who talked with Mrs. Young earlier was never explained.

Ten minutes later, a Mrs. Lillie Butler telephoned, to further explain that not only was the party not held at Mrs. Young's but it was an afternoon affair, not eleven o'clock at night when the photographer said he took the picture.

"Only the nucleus of the organization was in the picture," explained Mrs. Butler, "it was a large affair, men and women, it began at 3 o'clock and I left at 6 p.m."

MRS. BUTLER, who said she was chairman of publicity for the group, explained that the Democratic Ladies Guild, Inc. had been formed in 1948 and had supported Alvin Jones, the Pollack-supported candidate for 4th district state senator in the spring primary.

But Mrs. Butler did not explain how she happened to be in a picture taken in a house Sunday night at 11 p.m. when she had left five hours before.

She did report, "I was at two parties myself."

At this point, the Democratic Ladies Guild, Inc. and the party for Dr. Woodland seemed such a confused situation, that to clear up the conchaos, Mrs. Scott who was the only person who remembered being at Mrs. Young's house on Sunday evening was telephoned again.

This time, after several busy phone signals, Mrs. Scott finally contacted, explained that "Dr. Woodland (who at least got as close to the party as the 3900 block of Callaway) must be confused. The party was at Mrs. Mayth's house on North Ave."

Asked why she had told a reporter that Mrs. Young's Callaway Ave. home was site of the affair, she answered: "Well the first time you called, I didn't know who I was talking too."

That completely threw everything into bedlam.

THE DEMOCRATIC Ladies Guild, Inc. in its 1958 literature, distributed just before election day, urged Fourth District voters to vote the straight Democratic ticket.

The editor of this pamphlet that year was a Mrs. "Kitty" Mueller, who stated:

"We urge the colored voters to vote the Democratic Party 100 per cent on Nov. 4. Special interest groups and a certain publication would distort the fact and have you split your vote. NOW WHAT CAN YOU GET FROM A SPLIT-TICKET?"

Four years later, this week, the Democratic Ladies Guild, Inc., announced its support of a Republican, thus attempting to get voters to split their ballot — the same thing they had campaigned against in 1958.

THE LADIES Guild, which campaigned so vigorously in 1958 to defeat the Republican, who was challenging the Democratic candidate of Jack Pollack 14th District boss—now fights the Democrat who is fighting Mr. Pollack.

There have been strong rumors that the Pollac korganization, is working to defeat this Democrat, Mrs. Verda Welcome.

The Ladies Guild is the only Democratic 4th Dist. faction which so far has gone along with this plan.

Veteran political observers see an oddity in a Democratic group fighting a Republican in 1958, and then fighting a Democrat in 1962.

Now the group which campaigned in 1958 to defeat the Republican who was challenging the Democratic candidate of Mr. Pollack's — is now fighting a Democrat who is for Mr. Pollack.

If all this were not confusing enough, a check Thursday of the Maryland State Department of Taxation and Representation revealed that no records of any such corporation as the Democratic Ladies Guild, Inc. are now or ever have been on file. Under state law, corporations must be so registered.

Thursday morning, the day-after-confusion, the AFRO received a post-card announcing a coffee sip in honor of Senator Paul Dorf, 5th district state senator seeking re-election, held today (Friday, No. 2)

And who is Paul A. Dorf when he isn't state senator? Jack Pollack's son-in-law.

This story can end on a familiar phrase from the television show "To Tell The Truth:" Will the real tea party, for Dr. Woodland please rise?"

Survey shows Tawes over Small

A two - day AFRO spot check in the Fourth Legislative District points to easy wins there by Gov. J. Millard Tawes and Del. Verda F. Welcome.

For one reason or the other, an unusually large 25-30 percent of the voters either haven't decided how they will vote or they won't say.

Those decided at this point and willing to indicate their preference favor Democrats Gov. Tawes and Mrs. Welcome by more than a 5-1 margin over Republicans Frank Small and Dr. John C. Woodland.

WITH THE NOV. 6 election just a few days away, a surprising number of registered voters feel they've "got to think more about it."

Others, like Mrs. Mabel Denkins, 2051 Bentalou St., say "I have made up my mind and I have a right not to tell anybody what I think."

Gov. Tawes, despite some grumbling ("He never did nothing for us," said unemployed Fletcher Proctor, 1624 McCulloh St., and "I don't like Tawes, period," said housewife Mrs. Yvonne Hopkins, 21, 1510 McCulloh St.), is far ahead of Small.

"Gov. Tawes has served us well. We know what he has done, but all we have from Mr. Small are promises. Besides, I like to stay with a winning side," said Mrs. Alease Bland, 1549 Fulton Ave.

A big drawback for Small in the district is that a lot of people don't know him. "I don't know much about Small," said housewife Mrs. Minnie Banks, 509 Wilson St. That was heard a lot.

"Typical of Small's supporters was James Ellis, 1222 Gilmor St.: "I like the platform planks of Mr. Small and I think the change would do us some good."

IN THE Welcome - Woodland contest, an undecided voter, Mrs. Katherine Marsh 1818 Walbrook Ave., touched on some of the things swaying the selections:

"To be frank, I just can't make up my mind. They both seem to be good. I knew of Dr. Woodland's father. He seems to be a good man.

"But then, I think of the experience in political affairs behind Mrs. Welcome. You know I just can't decide."

SOME FOUND NO trouble taking Mrs. Welcome.

"Mrs. Welcome has already served a term in the House of Delegates and has the experience. I'm sure that during this time she has served to the best of her ability the cause of the colored people," said Mrs. Helen Parson, 1338 Argyle Ave.

For Dr. Woodland you get things such as:

"I'm going to vote for Dr. Woodland. I'm sure he can make things worse and I know things could be better. At any rate I think the man can do more.

Another, thinking along the same lines, was Linwood Jeter, 537 Presstman St.:

"That's a man's job. A woman's place is in the home."

Mrs. Welcome says again that Pollack backs GOP man

The political battle for the State Senate Seat from the Fourth District continued hot here this week as Democrat Verda Welcome and her Republican opponent, Dr. John C. Woodland, carried their charges and counter-charges to the Morgan State College podium.

Describing her opponent as the "little man who wasn't there during all the four years when I was working for good government," Mrs. Welcome renewed her charges that Dr. Woodland's candidacy is being financed by "Boss" Jack Pollack.

"My opponent is being supported by Jack Pollack. My money is coming from the people who gave an appreciation dinner for Verda Welcome and from the Democratic party of which we are a part," Mrs. Welcome said.

But, she continued, "The Republican Party is broke." And she said, "the man who is my worse enemy is supporting my opponent. She claimed that this man, had pledged to support any one who "would run against Verda Welcome."

DR. WOODLAND, speaking to nearly 1400 freshmen and other students of the college assembled in the Murphy Auditorium, first said to the charge that "I am being boss by Jack Pollack, I give a categorical no.

"The only person who can boss me, is my mother," Dr. Woodland repeated. "And she is 89 years old."

Dr. Woodland then flung a charge at his Democratic opponent, alleging that "She accepts the backing of Tawes who backed equal accommodations to death."

Morgan Student Government President and Young Democratic Club President Reginald Lewis asked Dr. Woodland, "Dr. Woodland, are you now reversing your stand and repudiating Pollack support?"

To this question, Dr. Woodland replied, "I am a Republican. I'll take Democratic votes wherever I can get them."

MRS. WELCOME and Dr. Woodland were two of five candidates who addressed the Morgan students in a program co-sponsored by the Morgan Institute for Political Education and the College assembly series.

Also speaking were Newton I. Steers, Republican candidate for Congressman at large and Mrs. Carrie Ramsay, Republic candidate for Congress.

DR. WOODLAND spoke before Mrs. Welcome on the program. He won scattered applause from the students when he "commended" them for your superb effort on the Eastern Shore especially in Governor Tawes' hometown of Crisfield." Said he:

"I congratulate you for the courage and just plain guts you have demonstrated in picketing and sit-ins for civil rights."

"We should have had civil rights yesterday. Because of you we are getting it today."

He also won applause when he pledged to work for appropriations for Morgan State College, for FEPC, for a minimum wage bill.

He promised to "fight to death" to oppose the Curlett plan which "Governor Tawes has endorsed."

He also won applause when he promised to work to get "scholarship s for Morgan graduates to the University of Maryland."

MRS. WELCOME, last of the four candidates to take the podium, found her appearing last "just wonderful" and she proceeded to describe her opponent as the "man who wasn't there."

"When I was out here fighting for the rights of individuals, when I was picketing, and carrying signs, from one establishment to another, I don't know where my opponent was," she said as the audience clapped.

And continuing Delegate Welcome said: "When I was working trying to improve living conditions — getting liquor licenses from getting hold in our community, I never saw this gentleman.

"When we were fighting to get the public accommodations bill passed — and we organized in every county except three — I don't know where my opponent was.

Mrs. Welcome was unable to continue her charges of Pollack support for her opponent, because time ran out as she was building up her contention that Jack Pollack is supporting her opponent.

But she won tremendous rounds of applause from the Morgan student body.

Students serving on the panel included in addition to Mr. Lewis, Warren Jones, president of the Young Republicans, and Evelyn McLeod, a Scholar in the Political Education Institute.

Dr. G. James Fleming, Director of the Institute, presided, while Dr. Gilbert Ware Assistant Director, introduced the platform guests.

Yes, the judge has a heart — gives teen break

Criminal Court Judge Joseph L. Carter, often called a "hard man," showed a teenager Wednesday that he does have a heart.

The youth, star athletic, high school student with a clean record came before Judge Carter on a stolen car charge.

Rather than give him a record, Judge Carter ordered probation before a verdict upon the condition his parents pay the cost of damage to the car and court cost.

But he ordered the youth to get a job after school and reimburse his parents through the Probation office.

"I don't want to hear of your parents making any payments to the Probation office for you," Judge Carter warned.

"I am doing this because I don't want to interfere with your future since you have a clean record," the judge continued, adding:

"But I want other boys who might be tempted to do what you did to know that they can't get away with it.

"It will do them no good to trot their teachers, coach, and families down here when they get into trouble. They will not get away with it."

SHE INTIMATED that Rep. Dawson's campaign for re-election this year was more taxing than previously due to his district being enlarged as a result of re-apportionment.

Earlier this week the congressman's Chicago office denied reports that he was ill.

Rep. Dawson, 76, elected to Congress Nov. 3, 1942, has served 10 terms. During six sessions he has served as chairman of the powerful House Government Operations Committee.

He also is vice chairman of the National Democratic Committee.
