Burial in national cemeteries

By MINNIE H. FREEMAN

Applications for burial plots to honor the memory of a member of the Armed Forces and his immediate family must go to the Quartermaster General of the Army for national cemeteries which are administered by the Department of the Army.

Applications are also accepted by the Director of the National Park Service for national cemeteries administered by the Department of the Interior, through superintendents of the various cemeteries.

Burial is available to any deceased veteran of wartime or peace-time service whose last period of service terminated honorably, by death or otherwise.

Also, those who died or were killed while serving in the Armed Forces, without having been removed from the rolls of the service concerned.

Eligible for burial in a national cemetery in the same manner as veterans of the U.S. Armed Forces are United States citizens who served in time of war in the armed forces of governments allied with the United States.

This memorial plot is also available to eligible veterans' wife, husband, widow, widower, minor children, and under certain conditions, to unmarried adult children.

If an eligible veteran's spouse dies before the veteran does, the spouse may be buried in a national cemetery, providing the veteran writes intention to be buried with the spouse.

THE INDEPENDENT FUNERAL DIRECTORS association is an organization which has detailed and intimate knowledge of eligibility and other important facts in all areas, for burial of veterans.

This organization provides expert service to families of all veterans, and with the assistance of any VA office will provide information and other assistance in filing memorial plot applications.

Application should be made only at the time of death of the veteran or that of an eligible dependent, since gravesites are not reserved in advance of immediate requirement.

'I feel a little bit dizzy,' Prof. Goodwin's last words

RICHMOND

Three persons were with Professor William J. Goodwin of Virginia Union University when he was stricken, Saturday afternoon, near the gate of the football Stadium at Hampton Institute.

The three were Mrs. Perzealia Goodwin, his wife; Miss Sherrilynn Goodwin, daughter, and the Rev. Alfix B. James.

The Rev. James, a close friend of the family, said the fatal illness apparently came without warning.

THE MINISTER quoted the famed choir director as saying: "Oh, I feel a little bit dizzy."

The minister said Prof. Goodwin suddenly sank to the ground without saying anything more.

An ambulance was called. It arrived in a very few minutes and the choir director was rushed to Dixie Hospital where he was pronounced dead a few minutes later.

Although the news spread to hundreds in attendance at the game, it is understood that Union's team did not hear about the tragedy until after the game was over.

MR. GOODWIN was a native of Steelton, Pa. He had been choir director at Virginia Union University for 19 years.

John B. Harris, the university's public relations director, revealed that the choir had gained such popularity under Mr. Goodwin's direction that it traveled over 4,000 miles each year presenting concerts in the mid, west and east.

These concerts, Harris said, did much to attract support for the 97 - year-old institution.

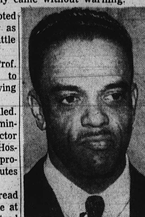
THE UNION CHOIR first was invited to perform at Radio City Music Hall in New York City four years ago in the United Easter Dawn service. It was invited to return for a repeat performance, this year.

Since 1961, the choir has given an annual winter concert here at the City Mosque, attracting an estimated total of 9,000.

Additionally, the choir performs yearly on the Tonight Show.



WILLIAM J. GOODWIN

"Under his dynamic leadership, over the years, he has had a direct influence on the lives of many young people and has distinguished himself as an outstanding director," Harris said.

MR. GOODWIN, who had a master's degree in music, was educated at Howard University in Washington, D.C., and New York University, NYC.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Perzealia Goodwin; a daughter, Miss Sherrilynn Goodwin, both of Richmond, and a brother, the Rev. Kelly O. P. Goodwin, Winston-Salem, N.C.

The Real Thanksgiving

The following article by Joy Sterling of Towanda, Kans., appears in the current issue of Guideposts:

Until this very Thanksgiving my idea of Thanksgiving was really a very narrow one.

Until today it seemed large by a matter of Pilgrims and Indians, and plenty of turkey to eat.

Tonight, however, I am exhausted and it is past bed time, but before I sleep I want to set down what I have learned about the real Thanksgiving.

Only a week ago my minister - husband John and I were in the normal rut of having too many demands on our time and not enough money to go around.

RELATIVES of Mrs. Justine Jarvis Snowden enter Arlington S. Phillips Funeral Home for last rites on Monday. Mrs. Snowden, 50, 1720 Ruxton Ave., was wife of Samuel Snowden, AFRO composing room superintendent. He is shown in rear. In front, Mrs. Sandra Scott, a daughter; and the deceased's mother, Mrs. Ruth Jarvis.

2,500 attend Goodwin rites

A solemn throng of approximately 2,500 persons sat in stunned silence, Tuesday afternoon, as a quartet of memorial services speakers paid final tribute to Professor William Jeffers Goodwin of Virginia Union University.

Services for Mr. Goodwin, director of music at the university, were held at Ebenezer Baptist Church where he also was choir director.

MR. GOODWIN's three basic characteristics, the chancellor declared, were "unqualified commitment, unqualified loyalty and honesty."

Dr. Ellison added: "He was a dedicated teacher, who loved great things. Seeking no disciples for himself, he taught many."

Delivering the tribute for the university, President Thomas H. Henderson said Mr. Goodwin possessed "Human warmth, depths of soul and deep spiritual reserve."

He recalled that Mr. Goodwin directed his last musical rendition on Thursday of last week.

The Rev. O. D. Brown, pastor of Second Baptist Church, called him "our brother who was precious to us and from whose soul melody flowed."

The Rev. David T. Shanno, minister at Ebenezer, presided at the services. He also read the old and new testament lessons.

Music was by Virginia State College Choir, with Aldrich Adkins, directing, and David-E. Carroll, organist.

HONORARY PALLBEARERS were Samuel H. Brown, James W. Cotton, Ivan G. Fraser, Allix B. James.

Mrs. E. Robinson dies, wife of AFRO carrier

Mrs. Edna Robinson, 60, of 1141 Whatcoat St.; was buried at Mt. Auburn Cemetery today (Friday) following funeral services at Mt. Zion Methodist Church.

Mrs. Robinson died Sunday at Mercy Hospital.

She was the wife of Augustus Robinson, for some 25-30 years an AFRO salesman. Mr. Robinson has been blind most of his life as a result of a hunting accident in his childhood.

A native of Baltimore, Mrs. Robinson regularly attended church until illness prevented her from going.

In addition to her husband, surviving are: a son, Garland Robinson; two daughters, Mrs. Gladys Chesley, Elkridge, Md.; and Mrs. Dalsy Wilson, Baltimore. She is also survived by 10 grandchildren and 20 great-grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements were by the Kelson Funeral Home.

nurse took Jeanne from my arms.

For an hour and 15 minutes she was in the operating room. We prayed steadily.

"It was a very large and deep tumor," the doctor reported.

"Malignant?" Our eyes asked the question, not our voices.

"We won't know for several days — until the pathologist reports."

We stayed at the hospital over night, and then this morning brought Jeanne home.

This was an unusual Thanksgiving Day. We were alone.

No family gathering.

Preparing a turkey had been the farthest thing from my mind, but a neighbor thoughtfully had left an enormous and delicious kettle of vegetable soup for us.

After lunch, we took Jeanne into the yard. She watched while we raked leaves.

It was a warm fall day — rare in Kansas in November.

This evening, we reheated the soup and ate it at the picnic table in the backyard. Tired, dirty, smoky, happy.

Of course, we are anxious to know the truth about the tumor, but we no longer feel on our own.

God is very close.

We have learned that Thanksgiving isn't a day; it's a state of mind.

Yes, we're thankful for that lovely neighbor who brought us the soup; thankful for the prayers of countless friends; and thankful for our family.

But more than anything, I shall go to bed shortly knowing that there is nothing that can separate us from Christ's love and care.

This is the real Thanksgiving.

(P.S.: Jeanne Sterling today is a healthy child.)

WASHINGTON

Willie Lee Stewart will be sentenced to death by electrocution for the fourth time today (Tuesday) in U.S. District Court.

Convicted by an all-white jury Thursday of first degree murder in the nine-year-old robbery slaying of Harry Honikman, white, a grocery-man, Stewart will be sentenced by District Court Judge Alexander Holtzoff.

THE JURY left Judge Holtzoff no choice but pronouncement of the death penalty after it failed to recommend punishment.
