Judge says D.C. goofed

By MARY STRATFORD

WASHINGTON

Roscoe Jones, landlord, broke his silence Wednesday in the celebrated case of a family who charged they were forced to move from an apartment after the doors and windows were removed during freezing temperatures on December 12.

At a hearing on charges that he failed to maintain heat at a legal minimum and had a defective fire alarm system at 1209 10th St., NW, Jones denied evicting the John Smith family and stated he believed the apartment was vacant when thieves broke the windows, dismantled the doors and removed the gas burners.

ANNAPOLIS DOINGS

By ELOISE RICHARDSON

This week has been the week of weeks . . . Christmas time. Christmas is birthday time, a time for rejoicing, for on Christmas Day the Savior was born . . . Christmas is a galaxy. We place at the very pinnacle of our tree a glowing star, earliest symbol of the Christ-child.

Christmas is a garland on doors of homes everywhere . . . Christmas is the children's season. Who can forget the child's super anticipation of the day . . .

Christmas is being together . . . the warmth, friendliness and happiness as families, friends and neighbors call are a heritage of that first Christmas when Shepherds, wise men and angels paid homage to the newborn king.

Christmas is a day for sharing . . . the idea of sending good wishes, of giving gifts and making others happy . . . a time for remembering not merely with gifts but with happy, kindly thoughts.

And now as this fine season terminates our year, we look forward to a wonderful New Year, 1963. May all of you have a very happy and prosperous New Year.

Elaine Blackmon Stevens, the former Elaine Smothers, daughter of Mrs. Marguerite Smothers and the late Wilson Smothers Sr., of Annapolis, received a "big" Christmas gift when she received a promotion on her job.

The lovely Mrs. Stevens, a former IBM operator and interviewer examiner at the Baltimore office of the Department of Employment Security, was promoted on Dec. 5 to the post of claims specialist.

Wife of George E. Stevens, Mrs. Stevens is a graduate of Bennett College. The couple resides in Baltimore at 3304 Elbert St.

Little Bruce B. Brown, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Brown of Washington, D.C., is enjoying his first Christmas with his parents and relatives at their home, 2411 19th Street, NE. He was born on Nov. 19.

Mrs. Brown, a native Annapolitan, is the former Olivia Parker and is a teacher at Bates High School in Annapolis.

Mrs. Mollie Harris was made very happy recently when her oldest brother and his wife and son, Sgt. McDonald Barnett and sister-in-law, Mrs. Fred Holloway and son, Maurice, and an aunt of the family, Mrs. Mollie King, all of Baltimore, were her dinner guests. Mr. and Mrs. Crutchfield of Annapolis were also her dinner guests.

Among those who dropped in for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. E. Long and Lt. Louis Boston, who has just returned from Germany where he spent three years.

THE PATTI THORPE North Carolina Club of First Baptist Church held its annual Christmas party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Thomas in Clay St.

Members who enjoyed the celebration were Mr. and Mrs. Lee Crutchfield, Mr. and Mrs. Jake Williams, Mesdames Mollie Harris, Gwendolyn Wright, Ethel Thompson and Rosie Taylor. Also Aaron Gillis.

Special guests were Mrs. Lillie Anderson, Miss Joan Crawford and Lt. Louis Boston.

The Charles Walkers in Spa Road had the pleasure of having their children at home and Christmas dinner together. Miss Rose Walker, a teacher in the public schools of Philadelphia, Miss Charline Walker, a teacher in the public schools of Baltimore, and Charles Jr., a student at Maryland State College, are guesting with their parents all the week.

THE HAYES family on Spa Road, Mr. and Mrs. William (Virginia) and all the children, Deborah, Charles Albert, Jonathan and Janice, enjoyed Christmas dinner with Virginia's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Phelps Sr. on South Street.

Janice, five - year - old gifted child, played Christmas carols on the piano for the clan.

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Pindell Sr. had their family home for Christmas dinner. There were her daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. John Weatherford (Helen) another daughter, Miss Carron Pindell of Wilmington, a teacher in the public schools of Delaware, and their young est daughter, Miss Carole Pindell, a junior at Morgan College.

Mrs. Weatherford is the senior secretary of Bates High School and her husband is the head of the vocational department.

inmates traditionally enter and have left the auditorium hall first while colored prisoners stand and wait.

No integrated barber shop facilities were found for colored prisoners.

Dormitory G, the attic room housing colored prisoners, would not have been seen unless prisoners had called it to the attention of the visitors. It is on the top floor of the prisoners' right wing. This dorm had no shower facilities for the 63 inmates housed there.

Divorcee dead; cops mystified

WASHINGTON

The strangulation death of a 33-year-old divorcee, Mrs. Christine Burke, was described as a "mystery" by police this week after the body of the nightclub waitress was found in her apartment.

Pajama clad, Mrs. Burke was discovered lying on the floor of the apartment at the Rhode Island Plaza by a friend, Joseph T. Torney Jr., the same block 16th St., NW, Sunday, police said.

SGT. BERNARD KELLY of the homicide squad stated Torney entered the apartment with a key. Torney had last seen Mrs. Burke Saturday morning, Kelly said.

Police disclosed that a broken bed in the apartment indicated there had been a struggle. About $14 in cash was found on the floor, apparently knocked there from a table. Mrs. Burke had not been sexually assaulted, police said.

FUNERAL arrangements incomplete at Washington AFRO press time, were being handled by Melvin Burton, attorney, a long time friend and legal advisor to the family.

Burton said Mrs. Burke was adopted by Raymond and Francine Bayhard; now deceased, in 1927. The Bayhards had three other children, Marvin, Raymond, Jr., and Frank.

THE ATTORNEY said he did not know why the adoption took place but speculated the elder Bayhards wanted a daughter in addition to their three sons.

He recalled the death of Raymond Jr., in about 1958. By then, the elder Bayhards were also deceased. During a contest over her adopted brother's $10,000 estate, Mrs. Burke was permitted by the court to share equally in the estate on grounds that an adopted child has the same rights as blood relatives.

Burton stated that Mrs. Burke, the former Miss Bayhard, had been married at one time but was divorced. She is survived by Marvin Bayhard of the District and Frank of California.

Police said Mrs. Burke was employed at the Lion's Den, 6209 block Georgia Ave., NW.

alleged leader of the "Bandits," Diggs, sent a letter to the State's Attorney's Investigation Bureau, clearing Webster of any part in the crime.

CAPT. VINCENT D. GAVIN, Bureau commander, assigned Det. Sgt. Dennis F. Mello and Dets. Thomas Coplinger and August Loetz to investigate.

Following several months of interviews, tedious and plodding investigations, including administering lie detector tests, Sgt. Mello and his squad obtained signed statements proving Webster's innocence, George Hebinski, prosecutor, said.

Thursday Judges Carter and Harlan heard testimony from three convicted robbers who admitted the drug store holdup. All testified that Webster did not take part.

DIGGS, 25, of the 2400 block Allo Rd., testified that he confessed to the holdup because "I didn't want to see that man in the penitentiary because he didn't belong there. It's bad in there." He said he the police, his mother and "a lot of things" caused him to confess.

Judge Carter imposed an additional 20 - year term on Diggs. It is to run concurrent with the 25 - year penitentiary sentence he's now serving.

That one was imposed by former Judge Joseph H. Niles who found him guilty of nine of 18 counts of armed holdup, earlier this year.

McCoy and Coates, who testified they were Diggs' accomplices during the Rosedale St. robbery are also serving sentences for their part in the "Shotgun Bandits" string of holdups.

THURSDAY Judge Carter sentenced Coates to 20 years for the Rosedale St. holdup this term will begin at the conclusion of a five year House of Correction term.

Charges against McCoy, who is serving a 25 - year term, were dropped by the state.

Sgt. Mello, who testified the case "grew into a big one," said he wanted to be certain that Diggs was left out the trail when he took the blame for the drugstore holdup.

Every possible lead in the complicated Rosedale St. crime confusing case was checked and double checked, the veteran investigator testified.

In answer to questions from Judges Carter and Harlan, Sgt. Mello said, "there is no doubt in my mind" that Webster is innocent.

Oddly enough, Sgt. Mello, who is chiefly responsible for Webster being cleared, is well acquainted with his beneficiary.

The detective arrested Webster on an armed robbery charge several years ago and he was subsequently sentenced to 16 years in prison.

—37 in race

City Council president, and Hyman A. Pressman for comptroller.

As yet, no indications have come that any one of these tickets will carry colored candidates, though colored citizens comprise one-third of the city's population.

Observers are saying it looks as if these tickets want everything for themselves.

Observers are also saying it would be in the interest of good politics and ethics if all white City Council candidates in the Fourth District would withdraw so colored citizens could have at least one district in the city, and at another year a full complement in the General Assembly.

If this is to be regarded as segregation, just look at the present situation and anything would be more tolerable than this.

None of the candidates for mayor, president of the City Council, comptroller, has said if they were elected they would appoint a city solicitor, as this newspaper believes they should do.

There are over 200 candidates presently filed for the 30 Council seats covering the city's six districts.

Over half of these are expected to pull out of the race, however, by the deadline for withdrawals at midnight Monday.

One of the most heated primary battles for City Council nominations is seen in the Fourth District.

Here the independent Democratic organization, built around Senator - elect Verda F. Welcome, Murray Abramson, House of Delegates member, and Lloyd Rabinowitz, veteran political leader, is fielding a complete slate of its own.

This organization, fresh from victory in the past State Legislature campaign, will again be bucking the Pollack faction which controls the three incumbent councilmen in this district.

The Welcome-Abramson-Randolph forces are expected to field a ticket consisting of two colored members and one white person.

They are Mr. Parks, president, Parks Sausage Co.; Mr. McAllister, former assistant state's attorney, and Mrs. Maureen Michelson, an ardent worker in the organization, who lives at 2101 Park Ave.

This ticket will be bucking the Pollack incumbents, Maxwell Alpert, Walter T. Dixon and Maurice J. Soypher.

Chief organizational concern at the moment is that too many of the other colored candidates do not remain in the primary race to split the vote in the lower end of the district.

There are seven other such candidates in the race so far, none of whom can claim any backing of worth.

The matter of organizational backing could play an important part in the success or failure of some of the colored candidates in the Fifth District.

Chief among these is Mrs. Victorine Adams, head of Woman power, who on her first bid for public office in the State Legislature primary, polled a highly respectable vote in defeat.

At that time, Mrs. Adams ran as an independent, though she and her husband, William Adams, businessman, are close friends of Mayor Goodman and Irvin Kovens, who head the strong political faction in that district.

This time, it is expected that Mrs. Adams will be a member of the Goodman-D'Alesandro-Hergenroeder Council ticket in this district, though there has been no open indications.

What support Messrs. Roger, Law, Williams, Daniels and Humphrey, to name the more well known colored candidates expect other than the independent Democratic vote is not known now.

Out in the Sixth District, Mrs. Madeline Murphy, wife of William H. Murphy, well known attorney, is making her first bid for public office.

Mrs. Murphy, a popular civic and church worker, is a housewife with emphasis extending the public schools in the Cherry Hill community where they live.

Being the lone Democratic candidate of her race in this district, she hopes to gain organizational support should a factional fight develop.

In the Second District and in the Third, an organization headed by Paul J. Cockrell, attorney, has fielded complete slates of colored candidates.

Colored voters, vastly out-numbered in the Third District, number 9,467 Democrats to 15,880 whites in the Second, and are a power to be reckoned with.

Yet, Mr. Cockrell says neither of the two white factions in the Second District would consider a colored candidate.

A clear picture of the situation in the Council race in the districts can be obtained after the deadline for withdrawals Monday, and there can be seen who remains in the running.

NIP COUNTERFEIT RING

Big spenders real; money was funny

CAMDEN, N.J. — Three men and a woman were arrested early Tuesday in connection with the passing of two counterfeit $10 bills in two South Camden taprooms.

The men, one of whom had 26 spurious $10 bills on his person, according to detectives were held on charges of possession of counterfeit money and the woman was held as a material witness. They were arraigned Monday before Municipal Judge Sklar.

The victim was Russell Gee, 54, listed at 2717 Lehigh Avenue, Philadelphia; Herbert Collins, 20, of Atco; Willie Spence Sr., 45, listed at 1463 Bradley Avenue, Camden; and Mrs. Christine Brown, 26, listed at 746 Cherry St., also of Camden.

DEGGY GRAYSON of 603 Chestnut St., owner of Deggy's Bar at 705 Chestnut St., told police a man came in his bar at 1 a.m., purchased a drink and tendered a $10 bill. After receiving change the customer left, and Grayson examined the bill, and became suspicious. He telephoned police.

Patrolmen David Daniels and Harry Harris examined the bill in question, and said it was obviously counterfeit. They sent a radio broadcast description of the suspect.

Meanwhile at Walt's Bar, 700 Mount Vernon St., a block from Grayson's, bartender John Hunter of 506 Trenton Avenue, served a customer a single drink and received a $10 bill.

Hunter told police he suspected the bill was bogus, and went to Deggie's Bar, which he knew was open, to check.

Detectives Robert DePersia, John Troutman, and James Faison, were summoned. They took the woman into custody at Walt's Bar after learning the man who tendered the $10 bill there, had offered to buy her a drink.

The police and Miss Brown toured the neighborhood in search of the bill passer.

At 2 a.m. three men were spotted in a car at 8th and Thurman Sts. The investigators questioned the trio and placed them under arrest, when they found the 26 bogus bills in the possession of Gee. Police reported Gee attempted to toss away a $10 bill when the police approached their car.

Secret service men summoned to the detective bureau, pronounced the bills counterfeit. They said the bills were very light and made of poor grade paper.

Shotgun suspect held without bail

Robert Hayes, 45, 2300 block Edmondson Ave., has been charged with the shotgun killing last week of Albert Harris, 39, 1900 block Pulaski St.

Hayes is being held without bail at the City Jail.

The victim was dead on arrival at Lutheran Hospital, Saturday an hour after the shooting occurred at a home in the 2400 block Westwood Ave., where he was visiting.

He has asked for a writ of habeas corpus, which would enable him to be freed on bail.

Criminal Court Judge Michael J. Manley will rule on the request after a hearing today (Friday) at 2 p.m.

State's Attorney William O'Donnell is opposed to the writ.

Also in the home at the time of the shooting were Mr. and Mrs. Willie Ricks, Mrs. Harris; their nephew, Nathaniel Jordan, a Miss Vivian Wallace, and two small children of the Ricks.

POLICE REPORTED Mr. Hayes first came to the house complaing that his mother had been insulted.

Told they didn't know his mother or what he was talking about, Mr. Hayes left.

He returned a short time later, brandishing a shotgun. Miss Harris unlocked front door, and herded all the people in the house into the kitchen, police said.

At gunpoint, Mr. Hayes ordered them all to sit down.

Mr. Harris refused and started moving toward Mr. Hayes.

Police said Mr. Hayes toyed with the shotgun briefly until Mr. Harris was almost upon him. He then raised it and fired point-blank into Mr. Harris' stomach, police said.

FUNERAL SERVICES for Mr. Harris will be held today (Friday) at a funeral home in the 600 block Gilmor St. Burial will be at National Cemetery.

A native of Baltimore, Mr. Hayes attended city schools.

Drafted into the Army in 1942, he served until the end of the war, and was discharged, as a corporal.

He had worked for a local mattress company for the past ten years.

Survivors include his wife, four children; his mother, Mrs. Mary Harris; three sisters, Mesdames Willese Hines, Jamie Laborad and Margaret Harris, and a brother, Green Harris.

DR. JOSEF M. YOSCICO, House of Correction staff physician, told the AFRO on Wednesday: "If you are asking if he got treatment for the nulcemia, then I would say no for we had no way of telling that at the time."

Dr. Yosucico also reported that his record showed one entry on Braxton Allen's hospital card for "nose-bleed" and that on the following day the prisoner complained of a cold.

The doctor also stated that all prisoners received complete medical examinations upon admittance to the House of Correction but that a blood smear test such as would reveal acute lukemia was not part of that examination.

"Acute lukemia is one of the conditions we would be unable to tell just by looking at the man," the House of Correction physician said.

The doctor also reported that Allen had been undergoing treatment for a papilloma of the mouth which had been bleeding.

Yule marred by auto crash death

PHILADELPHIA

A 22-year-old Ardmore man died in Presbyterian Hospital from injuries received when the automobile in which he was a passenger rammed a parked beer truck.

The victim, William Jubray, 23, of 50 Holland Ave., died four an a half hours after the accident which occurred at 5104 Wyalusing Ave.

Accident Investigation Patrolman Joseph Reichner said Jubray was riding in the back seat of the car when it hit the truck.

Reichner said the driver, Richard Gregory, 28, of 5525 New place, who has uninjured was held under $500 bail on charge of unvoluntary manslaughter.

$500 fine

RICHMOND

Convicted on a third-offense drunk-driving charge Robert E. Johnson, 43, of the 1700 block N. 23rd St. drew a $500 fine and one-year jail term last week.
