BALTIMORE AFTER DARK

On the TOWN with the Pub Crawler

To all our comrades along the gay beat, a belated, but swinging New Year greeting. Didn't realize we haven't chatted since last year.

Frankly, there's been so much popping on the sunlight side of the Crawler's wanderings, we've been grounded as far as the doings of the nite people are concerned.

Now that we're back, let's see what's shaking here there, and everywhere.

FIRST WE'D like to extend sincere, though late, sympathies to two pals of this corner—North End's Floyd Bartz and Kleeco's Walter (Tall Man) Thomas.

Floyd lost a brother, Leon Jose, in an auto smash-up a couple of weeks back and Walt's mom passed in her native South Carolina.

Among other items of interest kicking off the brand new 365 is the bang-up job vivacious Vi Clark is doing at Red Fox.

An accomplished songbird, Vi has chalked up a couple of solid recordings and graced the TV camera's eye since she sang prettily for local folk.

Now she's doing just that at Red Fox, ably assisted by Jimmy Wells and his sound men.

• • •

THE FOG brought on by those wild New Year's Eve parties has finally cleared and most gaylifers have settled down for a long cold winter, ducking out occasionally to dig the happenings.

To say there are plenty of happenings around this burg at present would be winking at the gospel truth.

But there is still plenty to do and here are spots that can brighten your night out of hibernation.

Maceo's, where Bus and Joan are dishing out some pretty nice chow to go along with the soothing sips.

Casino, where Al Brown and his Tune Toppers are belting out swinging, hot music, interwined with much soul.

Bamboo Lounge added to the weekend carryings-on by Flink Johnson. Andy has brought in a mid-week session of limbo, featuring Sammy Ambrose, Tuesdays and Thursdays.

• • •

UPTOWN — Genial host Walter Brown's, who has made this meeting place of "name" visitors to our town, is on hand to greet and treat you to fine foods and his special brand of hospitality.

Down on the farm, Dotson's, we understand Frank Reddish's year - end party was so way out that the big snow had come and gone and the partakers were none the wiser.

Adams Cocktail Lounge down Turner Station way; East Baltimore's Rally, New Colony, Clubs and Alpine Villa are offering their usual fare entertainment, special doings for weekenders.

A hearty hello and welcome to the fine folks at Sess who joined the stroll this week. Sess, you must know is the longtime favorite feeding station for those looking for the home away from home treatment at the table.

DATE TO REMEMBER: The month - end appearance of "THE GOSPEL SINGER," Mahalia Jackson herself. She is skedded into the civic center and you don't want to miss her.

ANNAPOLIS DOINGS

By ELOISE RICHARDSON

When one rides an airplane in such unpredictable weather as we have had in the past few days, one can come up, in many instances, with the most unusual experiences . . . and that is one of my stories this week.

First of all, in order to get a good non - stop flight from our area to my destination, Indianapolis, Ind., it was necessary to go to the National Airport in Virginia.

Just about the time we started for the airport, there was a steady flow of rain and snow coming down at the same time. This meant that the drive there was hazardous and slow, for as the precipitation fell, it froze.

Upon arrival at the airport we faced another problem. There was so much water and ice on the runway, it was necessary to have all passengers (44 in number) shuttled over to the hanger, a longdrawn - out situation, and a very new experience.

There we sat in the air ex-press office (those who were lucky enough to find a seat) for two and one half hours before the plane could take off.

In the meantime, yours truly had left about $250 worth of jewelry in the ticket area of the airport and did not miss it until the plane was getting ready to take off.

• • •

WHAT A PREDICAMENT! Was I upset? That is mild word but I kept it inside me and reported the incident to the airport police and the lost and found department . . . and our passengers were sympathetic and patient until I could make my report.

What a ride! Planing in my usual way of traveling long distances and I always relax. But this time I was really frightened (not of traveling) but of the outcome of my big error.

You can just imagine the mixed emotions . . . will I get my jewelry back? (some which held very deep sentiment for, because it had been given to me out of deep appreciation and love.)

At last we arrived at our destination two and one-half hours late. Again I report was made at the ticket office this time, the making out of a claim sheet. Several of the most outstanding jewelry pieces were described and a wire was sent back to Washington.

Did I sleep that night? Yes, I did, for I just decided that one must have faith in humanity and God and that if I didn't have this faith, I would be lost and my jewelry too.

Then came rest, peace and quiet until the bringing in of the New Year. On Sunday evening friends greeted me at the J. Wallace Halls' home for cocktails with interesting news of their travels here and abroad.

Many of you in Annapolis and Baltimore remember the Halls, who were house guests of the William H. Richardson in Annapolis. Others of you met them at a social function in Baltimore.

Albertine, a former Washingtonian, is the daughter of the late Dr. Albert Johnson, former practicing physician of Alexandria, Va. and Washington. She also taught in the public schools of Washington.

New with friends at the home of Mrs. Lorene Harden, whom many of your remember from her visit here last summer. Other than dinner here and there, we had a very happy New Year's week visiting the family and resting.

But the real news, which has been saved until the last, is that the lost and found office of Weir Cook Airport called on Wednesday morning to pick up the jewelry, which was found in Washington at the National Airport . . . all intact. What a relief! By the way, the movies the Halls showed included scenes of our beautiff Chesapeake Bay and friends in the Baltimore and Annapolis areas.

Practically all the guests at the annual Fourth of July party given by the A. Jack Thomases, in 1960, were shown. Among those we were able to point out were Mr. and Mrs. Everett A. Lane (Kitty the Riches (Ethel), the R.L. Richardsons (Isabelle) of Annapolis, the Henry Welcomes (Verda, now our first woman senator), Mrs. Lula Patterson, woman's editor for the AFRO- AMERICAN Newspapers, the William H. Richardson of Annapolis; Theresa Waters, Blanche McRae . . . and oh, how good it was to see A. Jack Thomas himself, just as alive and distinguished-looking as ever.

I believe, too, the now Mrs. Carl Murphy was in this picture, and, of course Jack's charming Anita, our hostess.

Swinging on down to Arundel-on-the-Bay, several of the beautiful homes were shown including those of the Herbert S. Hillards and the John Weatherfords. In fact there were pictures of the Hillards and Richardsons sitting out on the lawn under umbrellas and Weatherfords and Mrs. Richardson were playing a game on their lawn.

Mrs. Emily Johnson Hillard was caught in a cute pose against her pretty home. It was quite a thrill to see all this way out in Indiana in color and very much alive.

• • •

SCENES . . . W E R E also shown in Annapolis of a historic nature the beautiful old St. Anne's Church, the U.S. Naval Academy, the Richardsons' home, and best of all "Skippy," the Richardson's dog, who died Christmas Eve in "infinite love and devotion" as he had lived, of cancer.

Enceeing the rare opportunity was a real thrill, telling who you were and acquainting others in another community with a number of those in our communities who represent us in our educational, civic and social life in Maryland.

New on my return to my work in the Rehabilitation State Hospital, where I a setting up a library for the colony, patients and staff, I have been made aware for the delightful task of finishing up preliminary work for a formal opening sometime in February.

And now that the new year of 1963 has come into being, keep in touch with me and let me know all about your activities so we can publicize them to others. A call on the phone at Colonial 3-3338 will do the trick.

MT. WINANS NEWS

Attorney general asked to rule on ballot row

The Board of Supervisors of Elections has placed its disputed arrangement of city-wide candidates on the March 5 primary ballot before the attorney general for a ruling on its validity.

In doing so, the board was complying with a telegram Tuesday from Hyman A. Pressman, a candidate for comptroller, that this be done.

Two opposing Democratic mayoral slates are protesting that the board's arrangement of the names favors the Goodman - D'Alesandro Hergenroeder ticket, placing their names illegally on the top line.

Mr. Pressman is a member of the Boyce-Angelos-Pressman ticket, and has been pointed in lodging these protestes by members of the Graham-Liso- Lacey ticket.

"When a legal controversy arises, it is the long established practice for your board to request an opion from your legal adviser, the attorney general," Mr. Pressman said in a wire to the board Tuesday.

"Since a controversy has risen over an interpretation of the law, I challenge you to request an opinion from the attorney general."

THE BOARD sent Mr. Pressman this reply Tuesday evening:

"At your request we are submitting the make-up of the mayoralty primary ballot, composed by this office, to the attorney general with a request for an opinion on

"Your request is legitimate and understandable. You are challenging the board's use of its discretion in this matter.

"We have repeated to surrel you that we acted impartially and atempted to compose an equitable and consistent ballot conforming to Article 33.

"You and your slate apparently do not take us at our word.

"We regret that very much, but e are perfectly willing to submit our judgment for review by the attorney general."

Collegians stage 'The Winslow Boy'

On Friday and Saturday nights, Jan. 18 and 19, at 8:15 p.m., The Baltimore City College will present in its auditorium at Alameda and 33rd Streets, it's production of Terrence Rattigan's fine play "The Winslow Boy."

Tremedously successful on Broadway and on the Road, "The Winslow Boy" is a Heart-Warming, exciting, fine play that has fascinated theatergoers for decades.

An all-time city college favorite, "The Winslow Boy" is one of the few plays ever to be presented for a second time. Its initial presentation was in 1949.
