The games will be played Nov. 9 at Morgan State College.

The men's harvest supper is a kick-off after the annual King and Queen rally.

Prayer of the Week

"Lord, I do believe we shall overcome.

Our Heavenly Father, this is the spiritual that clergy and lay people sang in Baltimore County prison yesterday as they prayed together for a new freedom without discrimination in our state.

We thank Thee for these new evidence of Thy presence as the clergy are moved to emulate the Apostles and Martyrs of old in their suffering and imprisonment for the cause of right.

Lord we believe.

Remove Thou our unbeliefs, unite all Americans until we sing together,

"I really do believe

We shall overcome."

DEATH SCENE—Birmingham police set up this guard outside the 16th Street Baptist Church Sunday, following the bomb blast there that killed four young children attending Sunday School.

Sen. Humphrey asks public to mourn Birmingham victims

WASHINGTON (NNPA) — "We ought to be wearing ashes and sackcloth," Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (Dem., Minn.) said Tuesday in calling for a tribute to the children killed in the bombing of a Birmingham church last Sunday.

The Senator urged the nation to "go into a period of public mourning" and joined with three colleagues in asking President Kennedy to proclaim Sunday (Sept. 22) as a day to be devoted to this purpose.

Humphrey inserted these remarks in a letter prepared for the Congressional Record:

"I DO NOT think that any single act could have been committed that would more humiliatingly lay bare the raw and ugly shame of this most massive failure of our society, than the bombing of last Sunday.

"I have today joined with Senators Hart, Kuchel, Javits and others in requesting the President to set aside next Sunday as a day of national mourning for the victims of last Sunday's bombing.

"But there is more — far more — that we can and must do.

"If we are ever to hold up our heads again, let us resolve that the public laws of this country shall be written so as to provide for our fellow - citizens of color more than a mockery of the brave words of the Declaration of Independence and the Emancipation Proclamation.

"WE SHOULD never again attempt to lecture any other nation until we have cleansed this blot of racial injustice from our shield.

"The President has sent to Congress a civil rights program. He has called on the Congress to act — and to act now — to ensure that the full weight of the majesty of the Federal Government may be brought to the support of our colored friends and fellow-citizens.

"When the colored American shares in truly equal opportunity, when he has at last gained his full citizenship in our society, then, perhaps, we can look back on Sunday, Sept. 15, not simply as a day when a group of American children lay dying in the debris of their Sunday school classroom — but the day when the conscience of America at last awakened to the horror that lies beneath the surface of American life."

HE ALSO cited Newspapers which follow a policy of playing up colored crime to "inflame race prejudice and make any reasonable accommodation among the races almost impossible.

Further, he cited the lack of educational opportunities for colored, as clearly a part of "a calculated policy of the southern establishment" and said the scheme is "unique for advanced nations."

Real and terrible problems created by the migration of uneducated colored persons into the northern ghettos . . . are "directly traceable to the callous and cynical policy of denying the colored southerner the opportunity to better himself through education," the Senator charges.

He condemned that leadership which has sought to keep wages down throughout the South by keeping colored "uneducated and untrained."

HE ALSO vpmfrmnrf southern leaders for preventing the growth of labor unions by pitting white workers against colored workers, and that leadership that "made professional political careers of race - baiting."

No one can refuse the colored man a decent education said Mr. Humphrey, and then say "the colored person is too ignorant, he cannot be employed."

The country cannot follow a policy of apartheid (South Africa system of racial separation) and then accuse colored persons of having social habits that make him "undesirable" for white company.

Father Wilson to receive key in church service

Father Donald Wilson, rector of St. James Episcopal Church, will be presented the keys to the church in a special ceremony, Sunday, at 6 p.m.

The ceremony is a symbolic passing of authority to the new rector.

The Bishop of Maryland, the Rt. Rev. Noble C. Powell, will officiate and the Rev. Lloyd E. Gressle, dean of Cathedral Church of St. John will give the sermon.

Senior Warden C. R. Campbell will present the keys of the church to Father Wilson.

There will be a reception after the ceremony.

—The Birmingham massacre

...ed in Alabama.

IF THE State of Alabama and the people of Birmingham cannot uncover, arrest and punish the bombers of colored homes, colored people are almost helpless.

The Supreme Court dispenses justice for the whole U.S., and the United Nations in New York to the whole world, but there is no justice in Alabama.

To this day the colored voter in that state is restricted, public jobs are denied, there is not a single colored cop and, what is worse, they can be sure the Sunday school bombers will not be found.

If found, they will not be indicted. If indicted, they will not be found guilty.

THESE are not idle words.

The confessed killers of Emmett Till are free.

The confessed slayer of Medgar Evers has never been indicted.

There is not the slightest indication that while Alabama wants these bombings stopped.

RESOLUTIONS in the north expressing grief, testimonials of public guilt from the west are not enough. The bombings are in Birmingham where the governor defies the law and public opinion within the state or outside it.

THAT brings us face to face with the people in Birmingham. Forty percent of them are colored.

There is no one to help them but themselves.

No other town we know of has experienced 40 bombings, one after another.

Dr. Martin Luther King's nonviolent movement, so far, has produced no results.

How much longer does he counsel turning the other cheek—30 days, 60 days, 90 days?

PEACE, as Father Divine says, is wonderful. However, if two races cannot agree on fair and equitable terms to live together, a showdown is inevitable.

And where this showdown has taken place as in the Chicago, New York, East St. Louis and Atlanta riots, race relations have improved overnight.

Wherever there is war, peoples re-evaluate their thinking.

LET THE people of Alabama stop appealing to Governor Wallace in Montgomery or to President Kennedy in Washington.

Let them depend upon themselves.

They can stop violence if they want to.

When the colored people of Birmingham have had enough bombings, when they have endured all they can take, we suggest it is time to protect their homes, their children, their churches and their right to work and to vote.

Bad conduct cited in tourists drop

KINGSTON (NNPA) — "Bad behavior on the part of a certain section of the community" was the reason given the Chamber of Commerce for an 8 percent fall in Jamaica's tourist industry.

Dr. Eldemire, Minister of Health, said he was ashamed of the way some Jamaicans had treated foreign guests. The Island had 260,000 visitors last year, but fewer are expected during the coming season.

CHALLENGE TO NEGRO YOUTH
Young Negroes who fought with slendid courage to break down the barriers of job prejudice now face a new challenge, says Louis E. Lomax. "Speaking Out" in the September 21 Post, he points out that thousands of well-paying, integrated jobs are going begging. Personnel officers from major industries are scouting Negro Colleges every year, looking for talent. Read about the new challenge these job opportunities create. And learn why this may be an even tougher one to lick than prejudice. Read Louis Lomax's weekly opinions in the Saturday Evening Post this week. On sale now at Newsstands everywhere.

...ored families there for shelter.

Israel D. Shapiro, one of the owners, said that a phasing- out plan will be used to depopulate the run-down units.

Under this method all families should be relocated within two years as no units will be rented once they become vacant.

The crackdown set rigid standards the project must measure up to before owners are permitted to rent units for residential purposes.

CONTINUED USE of the dwellings as living quarters must be approved by the County building engineer.

Approval hinges on whether the owner's comply with the standards, which did not exist heretofore.

Failure to do so will result in condemnation proceedings, it was announced.

A-T researchers make important discovery

GREENSBORO, N.C. — An important scientific breakthrough may have been accomplished by a husband - wife research team at A. and T. College.

Dr. Gladys W. Royal, professor of chemistry at the college, reported what could be a major development in a research study which has been conducted at the college for the past five years.

In a technical report, presented before the 146th meeting of the American Chemical Society at New York City, she reported success in the use of bone marrow tissue from beef animals in the treatment of radiation injury.

THE TITLE on the paper is, "In-Vivo Fractionation of Donor Marrow As A Factor In Bone Marrow Therapy of X-Irradiated Mice."

She and her husband, Dr. George C. Royal Jr., professor of immunology and dean of the A. and T. College Graduate School, have collaborated in the study, "Biochemical and Immunological Studies of Irradiated Mice," supported by the United States Atomic Energy Commission.

The study, which has been conducted at the college since 1958, seeks to find sources of foreign bone marrow compatible to, and can be used as a treatment for, other animals which have been exposed to lethal doses of radiation.

The report discloses that bone marrow from the lower hind leg of beef animals is highly compatible to the bone marrow of mice and has been highly effective as a therapeutic agent for mice which have been exposed to X-Ir- radiation.

Republicans name Douglas for seat on NY high court

NEW YORK — Delegates to the Republican Judicial Convention for Brooklyn and Staten Island nominated Stanley M. Douglas for the New York Supreme Court. He would be the first colored representative from that district if elected to the court.

Mr. Douglas, 65, is a native of Danville, Va. and a graduate of Howard University and Fordham Law School. He is former president of the Brooklyn NAACP chapter.

March leaders ask JFK act in B'ham

WASHINGTON

The ten chairmen of the March on Washington for Jobs and Freedom have called upon President Kennedy to guarantee federal protection for the beleagured colored citizens of Alabama.

Signed by Mathew Ahmann, Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, James Farmer, Dr. Martin Luther King, John Lewis, Rabbi Joachim Prinz, A. Philip Randolph, Walter Reuther, Roy Wilkins and Whitney Young, the telegram to the President warned that "when people cannot look to their government to defend them they will take steps to defend themselves."

"The chain of responsibility for mass murder in Birmingham," asserted the March leaders, "extends directly to the Governor of Alabama. . .If no federal protection can be found for the colored citizens of Alabama and elsewhere in the South, the links of that chain will extend to the national government, . because helplessness in Washington is an invitation to lawlessness in Birmingham."

IN ADDITION, the March chairman announced that they were calling on Americans across the country to observe Sept. 22, as a Day of Mourning for the slain children of Birmingham.

They directed the appeal especially to the quarter of a million people who participated in the Aug. 28 March on Washington and who pledged "my heart and my mind and my body, unequivocally and without regard to personal sacrifice, to the achievement of social peace through social justice."

The appeal, issued by the March on Washington office, urged Marchers to fulfill their pledge "in this hour of national grief and shame." At the same time, it called for dramatic action by all Americans of good will.

"WHAT FORMS this action will take will be determined locally," according to Bayard Rustin, deputy director of the March. But a list of suggestions has been rushed to March committees and contacts from Boston to Los Angeles. Included is the wearing of black armbands "until the murderers are found and punished."

Colored ministers are also being urged to lead their congregations in silent marches in cities across the country and to dedicate their Sunday morning services to the dead children.

In addition, prominent intellecturals and celebrities have been urged to ask their tellectuals and celebrities join them in walks and vigils in Public places to be chosen by local groups.

IN THEIR strongly worded telegram to President Kennedy, the March chairman declared:

"There must be an end to racist power in the United States, and the full force of the government of the United States is required to end it. Enactment of the civil rights legislation now pending, augmented by across-the - board authority for the Justice Department to intervene to protect basic rights, and including federal guarantees against the permeating evil of employment discrimination, is the essential minimum needed to demonstrate that government is genuinely concerned."

REV. U. J. HOUSTON

Rev. Houston new minister at local church

The Rev. Ulysses J. Houston, who for the past year served as assistant pastor of Plymouth Congregational Church in Washington under the Rev. Theodore S. Ledbetter, on Sept. 15 accepted the leadership of the newly-formed Northwest Baltimore Congregational Church, United Church of Christ.

This marks the first time an integrated church has been sponsored in the Baltimore area by the United Church of Christ and is one of the few such ventures in the country.

A relatively new venture in its own right, the United Church is itself a merger and a blending across ethnic lines, combining the Congregational Christian churches of predominantly British background with the heavily the Evangelical and Reformed traditions.

A native of Washington, Germanic congregations of Mr. Houston is a 1962 graduate of the School of Religion, Howard University. He is married to the former Rae Anderson of Wahington. There are two children, Anthony 10, and Jacqueline 7.

Representative of many highly complex facilities employed in Hamilton Standard's Project Apollo Moon Suit and other life support equipment programs, this pressure-test rig helps assure optimum product reliability.
Engineering Opportunities at Hamilton Standard
Highly specialized test facilities are deployed across a number of advanced programs in our Space and Life Systems Department. Among spaceflight problems being investigated are: improved cryogenic storage systems for zero g application, carbon dioxide removal and reduction, two-gas atmosphere pressure control systems, and rejection of metabolic and equipment heat via space radiators.
To work on programs associated with Project Apollo, Gemini, and others, we need men with strong analytical bent . . . men with experimental test experience . . . men with knowledge of vacuum theory, flow, heat transfer . . . men with hydraulic, pneumatic, and cryogenic (O_2/N_2) design skills.
If you are one of these—and if you qualify for one of the positions listed below—please summarize your experience in a letter today to:
Mr. H. O. Wahman, Personnel Dept.
DESIGN ENGINEERS—with background in design of aircraft components. Familiarity with mechanical design of heat exchangers; rotating machinery; hydraulic and pneumatic valves, or equivalent design experience. Familiarity with system analysis involving establishment of schematics and trade-off studies. Some experience in structural and thermodynamic analysis.
ANALYTICAL ENGINEERS—with experience that has emphasized analytical studies in thermodynamics and heat transfer. Familiarity with environmental system concept, analysis, and trade-off studies. Knowledge of turbine, fan, compressor, and heat exchanger design and test analysis.
DEVELOPMENT ENGINEERS—for varied assignments on mechanical systems involving heat exchangers, rotating machinery, hydraulic and pneumatic valves. Knowledge of fabrication and test procedures for such systems. Preferred background includes familiarity with techniques of reliability analysis, reliability testing, and failure analysis, and experience in applying these techniques to setting system reliability goals, experimenting reliability to system components, and monitoring component and system development to achieve assigned goals.
for tests, manufacture, and procurement. Familiarity with thermodynamics, heat transfer, hydraulics, pneumatics, and electricity.
ADVANCED PLANNING ENGINEERS—to conduct preliminary design and research studies, prepare and present new product technical proposals. Require knowledge of thermodynamics, heat transfer, environmental system analysis, control dynamics, and cryogenics. Some experience in hardware development and cost estimating of engineering programs.
TEST/RELIABILITY ENGINEERS—with experience in structural and failure analysis of mechanical systems involving heat exchangers, rotating machinery, hydraulic and pneumatic valves. Knowledge of fabrication and test procedures for such systems. Preferred background includes familiarity with techniques of reliability analysis, reliability testing, and failure analysis, and experience in applying these techniques to setting system reliability goals, experimenting reliability to system components, and monitoring component and system development to achieve assigned goals.
