MILTON OWENS, member of Boy Scout Troop 257, demonstrates to Sister Naomi and Sister Laura the proper handling of an axe. The Demonstration was held at Broad Creek Memorial Scout Camp, which was visited, recently, by 500 School Sisters of Notre Dame. Troop 257 is sponsored by Sharon Baptist Church and Mr. Owens is a senior at Morgan State College.

Funeral held for Rev. James Moore

The plans that the Rev. James A. Moore, 77, 4307 Liberty Heights Ave., made for his own funeral were carried out today (Friday) at the Sharon Baptist Church.

The minister died Monday, two days before he and his wife would have celebrated their 59th wedding anniversary.

He had made his plans for his funeral in June of 1962, indicating whom he wanted to officate and what order the service was to follow. His family adhered to his wishes. Burial was in Carver Memorial Park.

The service was held at the Sharon Church, pastored by his son, the Rev. James L. Moore. His son-in-law, the Rev. J. Timothy Boddie gave the eulogy. The Rev. Charles Churn officiated.

The minister was born in Atlanta, Ga., on April 28, 1886. He was baptized at the Wheat St. Baptist Church. He became actively involved in the church.

* * *

THE MINISTER was licensed to preach by the Bethel Baptist Church, Brooklyn, N.Y., June 23, 1924. He was ordained at the Wheat St. Church in 1925.

During his career he served as executive secretary of three of the largest churches in the country—Pilgrim Baptist in Chicago, Wheat St., and Mt. Siani in Chicago.

His pastorates included Mt. Siani, Metropolitan Baptist Temple in Kansas City, Ka., Pleasant Hope Baptist Church in Baltimore.

He was moderator of the Kaw Valley Association in Kansas City, vice-president of the state convention and a member of the school board.

REV. JAMES MOORE

The minister was married Sept. 24, 1904 to Mrs. Rossye L. Strickland. They had a daughter and five sons.

The Rev. Mr. Moore was the author of the Moore System, a financial system for churches that has been patented and is in current use.

Survivors include his wife; a daughter, Mrs. Emery M. Boddie; four sons, the Revs. James L. Moore and Virgil S. Moore of Baltimore, and Eddie and Eliihu of Detroit; a sister, Mrs. Mamie Bethel of Atlanta; a brother, William T. Moore of Chicago; 11 grandchildren; four great grandchildren and other relatives.

Bishop Powell to retire on Oct. 27

Plans are being made by officials of the Episcopal Diocese of Maryland for a Service of Thanksgiving for the episcopate of The Rt. Rev. Noble C. Powell, D.D., who will retire on October 27th.

The service marking his retirement is set for Friday, Oct. 18, at 6 p.m. in Emmanuel Church, Baltimore, where Bishop Powell served as Rector from 1931 to 1937.

Following the service, a testimonial dinner will be held in his honor at the Alcazar, to which church people of the Diocese have been invited, as well as representatives of the civic, cultural and commercial communities.

Bishop Powell has headed the Diocese of Maryland for 20 years, having succeeded the late Rt. Rev. Edward T. Helfenstein, D.D., as Bishop of Maryland in 1943. He served as Coadjutor Bishop of the Diocese for two years prior to that.

Students mourn bombing victims

AUSTIN, Texas — Colored and white students paused at the University of Texas to mourn the bombing of four little girls in Birmingham Sept. 15.

About 65 persons bowed their heads for 15 minutes in a misting rain, mourning the victims of the brutal killing.

Bruce Maxwell, former university student, and Booker T. Bonner, a colored waiter, passed out handbills asking demonstrators to stand with heads bowed around flagpoles at the university, Huston - Tillotson College and two East Austin public schools.

FAMILY of William (Babes) Jones entered Ames Memorial Methodist Church, Saturday, to attend the funeral of the well-known sports figure and public school placement counselor. Mr. Jones died following a heart attack during a tennis match. Among the survivors are his mother, Mrs. Maude Jones (second from left) and brother, Wallace Jones (right).

HAMPTON INSTITUTE, Va. — W. G. Archer, keeper of emeritus of the Indian section at Victoria and Albert Museum in London, will lecture on "The Loves of Krishna" at Hampton Institute Oct. 4.

MILLIONS OF TOPS

More than three and a half million decanter type bottles of spirits, designed for the Christmas holiday gift market, will be sealed with hand assembled stoppers now being produced at the Maryland Workshop for the Blind's subcontract center at 2020 W. Mosher St.

Forty blind adults and four partially sighted material handlers are producing approximately 100,000 hand assembled decanter stoppers daily to meet the production needs of the Seagram Distilling Company.

The job will last a total of about 12 weeks.

* * *

ESPECIALLY molded glass tops, in three different styles, from plants in Florida, Indiana and New Jersey; cork imported from Portugal; and plastic seal and lock washers molded in New England are being assembled to provide leakproof, decorative, grugling tops for custom designed decanters of whiskey, gin, and rum.

THIS IS the seventh consecutive year blind adults at the Maryland Workshop for the Blind have earned the contract to assemble decanter tops for Seagram's Christmas packages.

Based on the production record achieved at the Maryland Workshop for the Blind in 1956, similar contracts have been awarded to blind workers in Cincinnati and Louisville for the past six years.

Two truck loads of materials arrive daily for the assembly job, and a shuttle service operates to maintain a regular supply of decanter tops to the bottling lines in two local distilleries.

A special shipment of 55,000 tops for rum decanters left the Maryland Workshop for the Blind Tuesday to be delivered in San Juan, Puerto Rico for next week's bottling schedules.

A modern roller conveyor system is used to supply the parts and take away completed tops from the 40 handicapped assemblers.

* * *

WHEN THE decanter top contract is completed in mid-October, the same assembly line will be used to assemble special Christmas gifts for the American Sugar Refining Company.

More than a dozen varieties of sugar packages will be assembled and packaged in zipper type sports bags which will become sweet Christmas gifts for recipients in all parts of the world.

A NEW GARBAGE CAN

By GEORGE W. COLLINS

"Build a better mousetrap," an old saying goes, "and the world will beat a path to your door."

Bureau of Building Inspection supervisor William R. Smith is not as concerned about catching rats as much as he is about starving them to death.

To accomplish this rather collossal feat, he has turned to an ancient object which to date, hasn't been too successful in this regard—the garbage can.

During his 11 years as a building Inspector, Mr. Smith has learned that the chief source of food for the city's estimated 200,000 rats — the four-legged variety—is open-garbage cans.

It should be pointed out here that Mr. Smith does not vouch for the accuracy of the stated rat population since it's not easy to conduct a nose-count of the furry creatures.

* * *

HOWEVER, IT has been authenticated by John A. Childs, head of the city's Rodent Control Bureau.

At any rate the ever-swelling population of the dangerous and destructive pests became a gnawing problem that plagued the inspector endlessly.

Five years ago he engaged in a debate of logic with himself and came up with this conclusion:

"Nobody has found a way to keep the tops on garbage cans. Because of this, rats have no problem getting food.

"Cut off their food supply and you'll get rid of the rats."

Because uncovered garbage cans mean an automatic meal for the ever-hungry rodents, the inspector reasoned that if a top was put on the containers that would stay, the rat colony would be in for lean days.

He did—or at least, he has made a start.

* * *

IN HIS SPARE time, the 35-year-old Morgan College math major designed a garbage can that promises not only to drastically reduce the food supply for the elusive pests, but to revolutionize the garbage can industry.

Mr. Smith's container is a striking contrast to those now in use.

It is of conventional weight, rectangular in shape and the top is attached by hinges, similar to those used on regular doors.

Dual springs hold the top firmly on when it's closed and keep it snugly against the body of the container when it's open.

Convinced that he's made a giant step toward a solution to an age-old problem, Mr. Smith, with his drawings, specifications and $600 of his personal funds, completed preliminary steps to get the revolutionary model registered in the U.S. Patent Office.

The first part of a five-year dream came true Aug. 13 when the container officially became known as "3,100,500, Refuse Receptacle," invented by William R. Smith, Baltimore, Md.

Registered just short of two years after the application was filed, the garbage can has been given serial No. 141,052.

* * *

NATURALLY elated that he has full claim to an invention which holds out bright promise, the inspector feels that the "first mile" is not necessarily the hardest.

Although it is registered, the design is still on the drawing board and the native of Annapolis feels that getting it off will not be the "easiest job in the world."

"The next hurdle is to get a manufacturer interested," Mr. Smith said this week.

So far he hasn't been given a flat "no." The inspector recalled his conference with garbage can manufacturers with a "I have gotten an enthusiastic reception."

* * *

MAJOR PROBLEMS, as related to him, Mr. Smith said, is the cost of retooling to mass produce square containers in plants equipped to manufacture round ones.

Limited funds and the absence of experimenting-minded makers have delayed the creation of a pro-type model featuring his innovations, the inventor stated.

Mr. Smith, who is married to the former Miss Carolyn Matthews, and father of two children—Wendell R., 7, and Lorraine V., 10—said he is now searching for a "sponsor and a willing manufacturer."

Displaying the enthusiasm and determination that were the driving forces in getting the invention registered, the building inspector left no doubt as to how his spare time will be spent after completing his tour of duty for the city.

"I've gone this far, and I don't intend to stop now."

* * *

RELAXING IN his comfortable home at 2305 Riggs Ave., Mr. Smith quoted city health commissioner Dr. Robert E. Farber, while underscoring the need for the new concept in garbage cans:

"You can hire 200 sanitarians and run a massive campaign to rid any city of rats, but you won't be successful until the public finally realizes the importance of keeping lids on garbage cans."

"Making cans with lids or tops that stay on all the time is the only answer," was the footnote added by Mr. Smith.

N.Y. store chain, CORE sign pact

NEW YORK — Some 40-45 persons have been hired by the White Castle restaurant chain here following an agreement reached by CORE representatives and the company officials.

Madison S. Jones, executive director of the City Commission on Human Rights and chief mediator in the CORE - White Castle dispute, disclosed Monday that the accord had been reached.

To Lighten Dark, Dull Skin
...a New Cosmetic Substance Has Been Found!
To lighten dark skin pigment itself required a new discovery—a new cosmetic substance. Now available in Palidia.
This grateless, vanishing cream penetrates the skin. Here it reduces production of dark pigment by about half... while excess pigment naturally present is steadily carried away.
"Significant Lightening"
How dark skin can be lightened! For dark skin is bound to lighten when dark pigment formation is reduced. On face or neck... hand spots or elbows. Or merely dull, muddy complexion. For Palidia really works.
Palidia acts with nature... gradually but steadily. Look for lighter skin in 4 to 8 weeks. And as skin lightens, it seems to bloom with a fresher, clearer look.
Palidia was found by West German scientists and clinically tested by American doctors. "Significant lightening" are the words they use in their reports. And now Palidia is produced in America by a trustworthy 41-year-old laboratory.
PALIDIA
BY MITCHUM
