JOSH WHITE

Josh White due at Lyric

The "immortal" Josh White, billed as the world's greatest blues singer and universally acclaimed folk singer, moves into the Lyric Theatre Oct. 18 at 8:30 p.m. for a single show.

He currently is on a national tour with recording dates being sandwiched in.

Josh White still is going strong 30 years after he cut one of the first phonograph records in America.

He is noted as a singer with a voice that has a liquid quality that is as intimate as a caress, plus his accompanying guitar which his millions of fans find sensuous and brilliant.

Josh White's feeling for phrasing is flawless but there is something greater about him—the true artist's understanding of the dignity, the humility and the pride of human beings.

Born in Greenville, S.C., son of a minister, Josh White had seen 21 lynchings before he was nine years old.

Nat (King) Cole bringing in a delightful show

When Nat (King) Cole brings his "Sights and Sounds" revue to the Civic Center on Sunday night, Oct. 20, the audience will be treated to one happy evening of deft, delightful showmanship.

The show he's bringing to the Civic Center seems conventional enough — consisting of star, chorus, combo and orchestra. But the ingredients are unexpectedly mixed.

For one thing, Nat King Cole is in the show all the way through. During the first half he entertains all by himself.

During the second half, Mr. Cole shares the stage with a group of Singers and Dancers called The Merry Young Soul.

There's also a new young comedian, Pete Barbutti, an original — offbeat, satiric in a delightfully broad and funny way, with material that ranges from a clowning performance on the piano to a riotous dialogue between Att. Gen. Robert Kennedy and Governor Wallace.

Arrested on roof

IN ANOTHER burglary attempt, Tuesday a 13-year boy was apprehended, reported police.

Police said that the youth was taken into custody after a window at Mells Bargain Store, 50 SW. Lexington St., was broken and two pen and pencil sets were taken.

Both cases are under investigation by juvenile court authorities.

Baltimore opens pro cage season

The eighteenth season of the National Basketball Association will get under way Wednesday evening, when the Boston Celtics answer the whistle against the host Baltimore Bullets here at Civic Center.

One half hour later the Detroit Pistons will play host to the newly fielded Philadelphia 76'ers while the Cincinnati Royals answer the gong on the home court of the St. Louis Hawks.

On the following night, Boston will open Cincinnati's home season the same time that the New York Knickerbockers lift the Madison Square Garden curtain against the Baltimore Bullets.

• • •

EIGHT TEAMS will see action Saturday, (October 19) when the 76'ers open their home campaign against the Pistons. That same night New York visits Cincinnati, San Francisco travels to Baltimore and Los Angeles goes into action at St. Louis.

A total of 360 games will be played with each of the clubs slated to engage in 80 contests before play - offs commence during the middle of March. At that time, the top six teams in the league will begin competition for the national championship.

THE NBA will present a total of 11 weekly regular season contests over television commencing Thursday, January 2.

Games will be viewed over a special network created by the nine teams in the league with the game site city blacked out.

It is anticipated that approximately 60 cities will join the NBA network by the time it gets into operations early in 1964. In addition play - off games scheduled for Thursday nights will be telecast during the post -season championship tilts.

Colts' comeback hopes rely on rookie crop

Hungry to hit the comeback trail after losing three of their first four 1963 outings, the Baltimore Colts will take their second whack at the San Francisco 49ers in Memorial Stadium Sunday.

The 49ers were claimed as the Colts' only victims thus far - three weeks ago in Kezar Stadium by a 20 - 14 count.

The Colts lost to New York, 37 - 23, in their only previous home engagement this season.

It's been a long time since the Colts have experienced as many disabling injuries to first stringers as they have this fall. Neither the starting offensive or defensive array has been able to remain intact for two successive games.

• • •

FORTUNATELY, what is probably the club's best rookie crop since 1955 has helped to ease the situation considerably - but not enough to prevent the Colts from getting off to their most unsuccessful start since 1956, when they also bowed in three of their first four decisions.

Even in defeat the Colts' freshmen have gleamed. The lastest to make his mark was pass - catcher Willie Richardson, the 6 - 2, 198-pound speedboy from Jackson State.

• • •

WITH JIMMY ORR idled by a sprained knee, Willie opened on the flank for the first time in last Sunday's 10-3 setback at Chicago.

He snared six throws for 53 yards to jack his season's budding totals to eight for 86 yards.

Willie the Wizard hasn't dropped a ball yet. Along with tight end John Mackey they provide the Colts with a pair of top - flight future offensive prospects.

Tackle Bob Vogel has been a starter on the attack since he reported to training camp, while defensive tackle Fred Miller has improved steadily after making his debut as a regular in San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, will be seeking its first 1963 victory.

The 49ers' attack will be aided by recent additions Lamar McHan, at quarterback, and Joe Perry, at fullback.

Both of these classy NFL vets started the current campaign in Colts uniforms. Like the rest of the S. F. crew they'll be spoiling for that first win.

MARKED FOR ACTION

Some wood chuck hunters that went over hillsides year after year ease spotting chores by cutting branches and sticking near especially productive chuck holes.

Coach Bob Leonard sees winning year for Bullets

Baltimore Bullets coach Bob Leonard puts himself squarely on the spot as he and his team prepare to open the National Basketball Association campaign at Civic Center, next Wednesday night.

The newly - adopted local club is scheduled to clash with the classy Boston Celtics, but Leonard appears not to be awed by the fact that his first assignment will be a match with the club which has won five consecutive world titles.

Bob says he has a fine team and openly predicts that it will be a serious contender for NBA honors.

"AS WE open our first season in Baltimore, and I start my first full year of coaching, I can call on one of the finest one-two punches in professional basketball, Walt Bellamy and Terry Dischinger.

"Bellamy, a 6-11, 235 - pound center, gives me one of the finest big men ever to enter the pro game. In addition to being a fine shooter a man of his size, Walt gives me excellent rebounding and good defense. He's the man in the middle any coach has to have to start a great club.

• • •

"I'VE SWITCHED Dischinger, last year's rookie of the year, to guard this season. He's 6-6, 205 pounds, and was a three - time All - American at Purdue. Terry came into the league last year, and despite playing in only 57 of our 80 games, while finishing school at Purdue, became the highest scoring, rookie forward in league history.

"I feel that Terry will do equally well, or better at a guard slot. He's an excellent outside shooter, an adequate ball handler and defensive player.

"ONE OF the main reasons I've switched Terry to guard has been the outstanding play of rookie forwards Guy Johnson and Don Kojis.

"Johnson, our number two draft selection, is 6-6, 235 pounds, and as strong as a bull. He's an excellent rebounder and will give me a good scoring forward who can also play defense.

"He could develop into one of the league's outstanding forwards. He's 24 years old and a veteran of AAU play.

"Kojis, whom general manager Paul Hoffman signed after a two-year chase, gives me another fine rebounding forward, who can also hurt our opponents with his inside scoring ability.

• • •

"HOWEVER KOJIS will have to beat out another young player, 6-8, 225-pound, second year man, Charlie Hardnett, for a starting job.

"Hardnett, who gives me 100 percent every time he steps on the floor, is an outstanding example of what hustle means to a player. He's one of the most willing workers I've come across in my basketball career.

"My other starting guard will be 6-4, 185-pound, Rod Thorn. The former West Virginia All - American was our number one draft choice, and is a very adequate outside shooter.

BEHIND Dischinger and Thorn in the backcourt I've got veteran's Si Green and John Cox, and rookies Mel Peterson and Bucky Bolyard.

Green, who finished fourth in the league in assists last season, should see a lot of action.

Si is a fine passer and ball handler, a good defensive player, and has the veteran's coolness under pressure which our young club can use.
