With James Burns and June Thorne in the roles created in New York by Ossie Davis and Ruby Dee, the play will continue here through Oct. 20 and resume again October 23, 26 and 27. Curtain 8:30 p.m.

Seen in other leading roles will be Ben Prestbury, Jerry Levin, Dorothy Husketh, Vacoustess Payne, Delores Stokes, John Taylor, Leo Burroughs, and Keith Hineline.

Staff for this production: director, Sam Wilson; sets, John Taylor; costumes, Joyce Smith; properties, Ella Leak; makeup, Marie Bailey; lights, Tom Ross; music, Margaret Armstrong.

COMING-OUT PARTY CANDIDATES — These high school seniors are preparing to make their debuts under the sponsorship of Delta Pi Omega Chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority at Annapolis. They will be presented at their Fashionetta Cotillion on Nov. 29 in Annapolis. The group put on a talent show recently for their sponsors at the home of Dr. Faye Allen at Arundale-on-the-Bay. First-Run Films

The most complex casting problem for producer-director William Asher for "Johnny Cool," Henry Silva - Elizabeth Montgomery co-starrer, held sway at the Met Theatre through United Artists release was the finding of a pair of loaded dice for a crap game involving Silva and Sammy Davis Jr., who plays the role of "Educated," a dice-throwing technician.

The "game," which has a New York city setting in the movie, required Sammy Davis Jr. to throw "educated dice" in a high-stakes game. The camera had to show a succession of winning sevens and elevens without a stop.

FIRST COLLEGE

WASHINGTON — Alcorn University, established in Mississippi in 1871, was the first colored land-grant college.

DENMARK, S.C. — The first in a series of outstanding lyceum features at Voorhees College will be the presentation of "the Broadway Theatrical Extravaganza," under the direction of Clyde Turner, Friday night.

By ELOISE RICHARDSON

Distinguished visitors in our city recently were the Rt. Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Lawrence Greene of Atlanta, Ga., who were house guests of Rev. Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Powell (he's pastor of the Mt. Moriah AME Church)

The Rt. Rev. Greene serves as bishop for the Second Episcopal District of the African Methodist Church and ir senior bishop of the denomination.

A member of the clergy for over 50 years, Bishop Greene was elected to the bishopric at Chicago in May, 1928, and has served all over the country in such a capacity.

He came to the Second District from the Florida conference. Recently he was cited as one of the 100 of the most influential people of col- and is senior bishop of the world, and is a member of the executive bodies of the national and world church groups.

On Saturday afternoon the Women's Missionary Society honored Mrs. Greene at a tea, at which time a lovely corsage of fall flowers was pinned on her by Mrs. Mary Queen.

THE CHURCH dining room was interestingly and beautifully decorated with a profusion of colorful fall leaves, wild plants and red geraniums. The tea table was centered by an arrangement of the fall leaves and geraniums and on one end was the silver tea service. Mrs. Louise Stewart poured.

Welcome remarks were made by Miss Joyce Ann Johnson of the Youth Group. Mrs. Ruby Powell, wife of the minister, and president of the society, presented Mrs. Greene, who made friendly and interesting remarks.

On Sunday Bishop Greene was the morning speaker at the services. He took his text from St. John 3:9 and used as a subject "The Most Significant Interview."

His sermon was based on the Christian experiences of Nicodemus, biblical character, and emphasized the meaningfulness of Christianity.

"Without Christ there is something innately lacking, something missing and one's life is like a spanless chasm in a bottomless pit," said Bishop Greene.

Music for the service was furnished by the senior and youth choirs under the direction of Mrs. Joyce McManus.

James Lewis, retired conductor of Handel Choir, cited at dinner

BY Adah R. Jenkins

James Winship Lewis, recently retired conductor of the Handel Choir of Baltimore, was honored recently at a dinner held at the Park Plaza.

Over 100 of the choir personnel, and former members as well as patrons, gathered to pay tribute to the director who guided the choir for 15 years. He retired for reasons of health.

High praise was paid to his outstanding musicianship by Dr. Joseph Stephans, president of the choir and organist at Grace and St. Peters Episcopal Church and by Gillard French, vice president.

The extensive degree of interest by the local chapters of the American Guild of Organists in securing fine organs of notable workmanship in our local churches was attributed to Mr. Lewis.

Amusing anecdotes in the history of the choir were related by representatives of the four sections, Miss Lalue, an honorary member, Dr. Richard Pharop chairman of the dinner. Mrs. Constance Hand was the witty mistress of ceremonies.

• • •

MR. LEWIS consistently encouraged young local artists to appear as soloist with the Handel singers and was among the first conductors to integrate a community musical group.

In addition to presenting one of the few local full length renditions of "Messiah" and other well known works of the classic period, he has cultivated local taste for works by contemporary composers.

The choir presented the honoree with an honorary membership and a handsome stereo player. Among those present were Mrs. William Cassell, widow of the singer who was an officer of the choir and choir master and organist at Ames Methodist Church; Lorenzo Handy, rehearsal tenor of the Handel Choir and Saul Lilienstein, new conductor.

• • •

THE EPP'S Chorale was received with marked enthusiasm at Zion Baptist Church last Sunday when the group appeared in concert for the benefit of the Baltimore City Chapter of CORE.

Due to the press of several engagements on the same day, the Chorale was obliged to limit the program to four anthems and a spiritual, all of which were accompanied by Calvin Milbourne, organist.

The Chorale, which is conducted with rare style by Andrey Epps-Phillips, has become increasingly popular since its inception six years ago. This month the ensemble will celebrate its anniversary with a festival program at Mt. Pleasant Baptist Church.

Mrs. Epps assured Edward Chance, president of CORE, that the group will give a return engagement for the organization later in the season.

CALENDAR: Sunday, Oct. 20 at 8 p.m. in the auditorium of the Jewish Community Center, 5700 Park Heights Ave. Juanita Jones will appear in her homecoming concert, the opening event in the annual Recital Series at the Center.

This is the first concert the Baltimore-born soprano has given since winning a top place in the Metropolitan Opera auditions last spring.

A gala reception will follow the concert which is being arranged by the ACC Music Committee, of which Mrs. Joseph Sherbow is chairman.

Sunday, Nov. 3 at 5 p.m. at Sharon Baptist Church, Stricker and Presstman Sts., Clarence Henderson, baritone, and the Morris Queen Chorale will be presented in concert by the Sharon Senior Choir. Mr. Henderson, vocal teacher and choir master at Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church, is a soloist of extensive training and experience.

The Morris Queen Chorale, which was organized in 1953 by Mrs. Francis Ashley Tillman, has grown from twelve voices to its present group of thirty-five, under the direction of Morris Queen.

For ticket information concerning the November concert, call Miss Alice T. Ford, publicity chairman for the Chorale; Miss Mildren Williams, director of Sharon Choir, or Mrs. Geraldine Griner, president.

On Oct. 18, 25 and Nov. 8 at 1 p.m. in the concert hall of Peabody, there will be given lectures dealing specifically with the music to be presented by the Baltimore Symphony the ensuing week.

Speakers will be Dr. Elliott Galkin, Dr. Peter Adler and Louis Cholock. Lectures are free to symphony subscribers, Women's Committee members and Peabody students.
