Planned Parenthood takes to the radio

Through the cooperation of Morgan State College, radio and The Planned Parenthood Association of Maryland, Inc., a series of soap opera - type of dramas and interviews will be broadcast starting Nov. 3 at 3:30 p.m. over WEBB.

Planned Parenthood felt that it was imperative for the public to be accurately informed about its services and philosophy; however, felt that to present through the medium of a story would be most effective.

To this end the scripts were prepared by writers at WEBB in conjunction with Mrs. Laurie S. Strauss and Mrs. Annett F. Lieberman of Planned Parenthood.

To present the dramatic portions of the series The Morgan State College Drama and Speech Department was called into action through the efforts of Arthur Lamb and his students.

An audition was held and those chosen to enact the roles included Mrs. Betty Hawkins Miss Carol Pulley and Bill Goins.

In addition to these fictitious characters, real experts, were called in — woven into the story — to give their opinions and worthwhile information on various aspects of the program of Planned Parenthood.

Among these are Sgt. Violet Hill Whyte, policewoman at Western Police Station; Mrs. Anne G. Hupperman, executive director of Planned Parenthood; Dr. Claude Hill, Chief of Obstetrics and Gynecology of Provident Hospital, Rabbi Abraham D. Shaw, Oheb Shalom Congregation and Chairman of the Clergymen's Advisory Board of Planned Parenthood; the Rev. Marion Bascom, Douglas Memorial Community Church and member of the Clergymen's Advisory Board of Planned Parenthood; and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Alexander; patients who volunteered to tell of their experiences with Planned Parenthood.

These programs will be heard every other week on Sundays at 3:30 p.m. over WEBB radio.

Teacher termed second most important group

The chances of national survival are in the hands of teachers, termed the second most important group in the world, H. Donald Spatz, declared here, recently.

Mr. Spatz, public relations director of the Peabody Conservatory of Music, spoke to members of Phi Delta Kappa and their guests, who packed the ball room of the Sheraton-Baltimore Inn for the Sorority's annual breakfast meeting.

The sorority membership is composed of women in the field of education.

Said Mr. Spatz:

"I believe that yours, as teachers, is the second most important take in all the world. If you fail over march toward a decent destiny is slowed, perhaps stalled.

"If you fail our relative chances for national survival are reduced, perhaps eliminated."

• • •

MR. SPATZ, who spoke from the topic "Of What Use Education?" pointed out that he considered education of international scope. "All people everywhere, must be exposed to true education. But we are concerned with the problems of America, a land said to be the leader among nations. And I say we must put our own house in order or we have no right to lead," he told the group.

"In so vast a system as ours there is sure to be a few bags, such as under-appreciation and under-payment of teachers. These are major problems. I suppose it will be a long time before we stop paying professional baseball players $80,000 a year and give that money to the people who really matter in the scheme of things. I suppose it will be a long-time that we will pay a beautiful but corrupt movie star an annual income that incredibly runs into the millions of dollars while we find it impossible to finance the receipt of much needed schools and other facilities," Mr. Spatz added.

Pointing out that the home is really the keel upon which character is built, the speaker praised teachers for their well-done job with material, oft altered, when they reach the school room.

He said that teachers must give of themselves because of their dedication to the job. This he said brought happiness which money, though delightful to possess, can never buy.

As illustrations of the "happiest people," Mr. Spatz pointed to first, an artist or craftsman whistling over a well done job; second, a child building castles in the sand; third, a mother at the end of a long hard day, bathing her child; and fourth, a surgeon, finishing a difficult and dangerous operation, saving a human life.

• • •
