speaker on the convention theme, Five Steps to Freedom."

Rosalie brought back three certificates earned by the Baltimore Club, one for the sesquicentennial program theme "The City In The People," one of general excellence of program and first prize for the club scrapbook, to Ethel J. Day, former president.

Florence Allen Holmes, national president, presented life memberships pins to Lillian S. Watty and Mattie Whord, Philadelphia, editor.

OTHER Baltimore members who attended part or all of the sessions were Margaret Wilson, Jeanetta Wilson, Hattie Tyler, Helen Fowlkes, Harriette Howard, Alice F. Ford, Rosa Gaskins, Lillie A. Ross, Edna D. Johnson, Rosa Gaskins, Maybelle Weaver and Phyllis Smith of the Junior club.

India Silver presented reports from the cultural committee, Rosa Gaskins from the ways and means committee, Susie Strother, travel opportunities and Loretta Watty, plans for the Christmas dinner meeting. The club reserved two tables for the Baltimore Fellowship anniversary dinner and attended Union Baptist Church Sunday for its annual worship service.

Hostesses for the meeting were Thelma Ashe, chairman; Victorine Adams, Mary Burns, Margaret Bryan, Delores Hunt, Susie Strother, Helen Benton, Gwendolyn Brown, Anna Bennett and Alice Truiett.

The Ladies of Today knew they were on a good footing when they elected Esther Morris as president. She has really kept the ball bouncing for The Provident Hospital Fund, and they have decided to make another contribution to the fund.

Format for the year includes the following sponsoring a youth group of teen-age girls and help to mold their character through skating party for the youth, worship services together, Christmas tokens for the needy, a spring western round up and their annual spring dance.

The hostesses at the recent meeting included Ann Blair and Margaret Singletary, who served an Irish menu, which included English biscuits, black walnut muffins, iglazed apples, and delicious chicken salad.

New officers for the next two years are Esther Morris, president; Vicki Jones, vice-president; Sylvia Briscoe, secretary; Hattie Green, corresponding secretary; Mildred Johnson, treasurer; Margaret Singletary, financial secretary; Sara Redmond, business manager; and Ethel Day, chaplain.

Other members are Vivian Moody, Lucretia Datcher, Meldora Datcher, Elizabeth Carter, Ann Blair and Bettina Baker.

ON THE EVE of the Homecoming activities, the Charm Club at Morgan State College entertained at a Homecoming soiree in honor of Miss Jacqueline Shears, "Miss Morgan," in Tubman House Lounge on the campus at Morgan State College.

The lounge was a glitter in blue and gold decorations, the school colors, and twinkling signs bid the guests to enter and welcome "Miss Morgan." "Miss Morgan," and her guests were received by the officers of the Charm Club. After an evening of dancing and a buffet service, "Miss Morgan" was presented with gifts from the Charm Club and the Dean of Women and staff.

This year's officers of the Charm Club are: Muriel Burruss, president; Rula Williams, vice president; Joyce Swann, secretary, and Patricia Bryant, treasurer.

The club is sponsored by Dr. Thelma P. Bando, dean of Women.

SIX HUNDRED AND thirty-seven town folk gathered in the Alcazar Ballroom on Sunday night to show their appreciation for Fellowship House. Twas the 25th anniversary of the movement in Baltimore.

But actually, the success of the Sunday anniversary was a tribute to believing, hard-working Ruth Fegley, whose determined effort breathed life into an almost expired concern. Each time my eyes fall upon Ruth it brings home again the dedication of such women, and men, who give so much of themselves to bind up the wounds this rowdy old world has brought upon itself. Her loveliness on Sunday night came through like the steady glow of an altar taper.

The foreword of the program said of Fellowship House:

"Fellowship House is many things to many people. It is men and women, scores of them, who give their time and their means in order that children and adults through activities of various kinds may be inspired to become their best;

"That strangers to the city may be helped to feel welcome and at home; that whole families may spend a few unpressured hours together;

"That one may gain knowledge and understanding through discussing ideas found in books; that people may become better acquainted with the beauty found in the customs and rituals of other faiths."

Need more be said?

KAY CARTER, (another who stints not when it comes of giving herself for the civic good) was general chairman of the anniversary dinner...and never looked prettier, in a frock of pale blue satin, the top glitter sparkled. Mrs. Silven Wittberg was chairman of hospitality. To keep things on top shelf they had a battery of hosts and hostesses, including:

Donald Bloomquist, Hermain Balnder, Dr. Jessie Colson, Dr. and Mrs. H. Garland Chissell, Jr., Dr. and Mrs. George Pendleton, Mrs Katherine Gorsuch,

Mrs. Erna Gordelyeff, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Jones, Mrs. and Mrs. Roland Henson, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Palmer, Mrs Ruth Redwine, Mrs. Olivia Searon, Mrs. Ada Jenkins,

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Starks, Mr. and Mrs. Silven Wittberg, Dr. and Mrs. Simon H. Carter, Jr., Dr. and Mrs. Albert LaForest, Mr. and Mrs. William Day, Dr. and Mrs. Elliot Michelson, Dr. and Mrs. Philip Butcher, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Sanderson, Miss Edna Abrahamson, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Hollander, Mrs. Geraldine Bastfield, Dr. Robert J. Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Veney, Mrs. Roland Williams and Mrs. Paul Beckham.

THE DOUBLE FINESSE BRIDGE Club played its Monday night game at the Druid Hill "Y". Carter Wood was presented with a trophy which he retired from play by winning the third leg at a previous meeting. A new trophy is now in play.

Winners of the duplicate game were: North - South pairs, Alfred Woolridge and Carter Wood, second Clagett Bowie and H. Head, third Mrs. Beulah Garrett and Mrs. Mary Ann Wallace. East West Pairs, Orrin Nixon and Dallas Nicholas, runners up Mrs. Pearl Brockett and Mrs Nettie Auxerson, third Herbert Augustus and Clement Venture.

CHI ETA MU WIVES held their second regular meeting of the season Monday night at Wilson's. Hostesses for the evening were Dorothy Hawkins, Maude Lee, Jean Butler, Eugenia Williams, and Mamie Williams.

Prizes were awarded Virlan Madison for bridge, Charlotte Shervington for scrabble and Tudy Luck for pinochle.

Following the fellowship hour and business meeting supper was served.

Members present were: Eugenia Williams, Dorothy Hawkins, Mabel Allyne, Maude Lee, Jeannett, Christmas, Jean Butler, Minnie Smoot, Vivian Madison, Vashti Christmas, Bernice Robinson, Eloise Brown, Rita Ross, Trudy Luck, Charlette Shervington, Alice Sykes,

The Astronette's Social Club met in the home of Mardelphia Grimes last Friday night. The club presented Charles Tildon chairman of Clubs and Organizations of the Provident Hospital Development Program a check for $150.00 at the meeting.

Plans were also discussed concerning a pre-Christmas dance. Members present were Rosetta Sands, Lauretta Winfrey, Ella Stovall, Carlean Owings, Geraldine Desbordes, Barbara Owings Barbara White and Mardelphia Grimes.

DATE DATA — The Just Us Club is back in stride for the season. Carrie Lovell entertained the members on Sunday in her Harlem Avenue home...when they added the final touches to plans for their dance to be held in the Alcazar Ballroom this Sunday night. In addition to Mrs. Lovel, Mary Jones, Betty Gibson, Levada Johnson, Anna Waters, Georgia Wyatt, Rose Pinacle and Hilda White make up the group.

The Chesapeake Club will have their annual oyster and bull roast on Sunday afternoon at the Winchester St. Armory. Vernon Savage and his Five Pennies will provide the music, and just to clinch their masculine following they have set up T-V's all over the place for game viewing.

The Woman's Society of Christian Service and the West Baltimore District will honor Mrs. Adelaide Barnes and Miss Doris M. Handy at an appreciation luncheon Saturday at one, in Ames Methodist Church. Mrs. Barnes is president of the Washington Conference and Miss Handy, Conference and Guild secretary.

Another item on Sunday's program is a tea and exhibit at 3:30 p.m. in the Cherry Hill Recreation Center, which is a benefit for the Music Therapy Clinic for Retarded Children. Mrs. Serena Mann and George Faulkner are co-chairmen. Faulkner are co-chairmen.

Cardigans entertain with cabaret dance
