Welfare visits hit by attorney

By MOSES J. NEWSON

GEORGE L. RUSSELL, JR.

"These unlawful trespassers and infringements on individuals' constitutional rights are a greater wrong than those the Welfare Department is attempting to suppress...

"The outrageous practice... of intruding in the darkness of night into the homes and sanctuaries of those on public assistance ... shocks the conscience. The Welfare Department should cease and desist...at once."

This sharp dissent from States Attorney William J. O'Donnell's statement declaring legal the Welfare Department's warrant-less night searches, came today from George L. Russell Jr., attorney.

Mr. Russell is regarded as an expert on defective-warrant cases and has won a number of cases in this area, some of which went up to the Maryland Court of Appeals.

* * *

IN A STATEMENT carried in Tuesday's paper Mr. O'Donnell said welfare recipients sign an application blank agreeing to visits by the welfare investigators and added:

"Legally, one cannot complain of a search to which consent has been given..."

Taking issue with this position, Mr. Russell argued:

"The State's Attorney upholds the practice on the theory of consent, alleging that when one applies for public assistance, they consent to an unannounced visit and search of their home at midnight.

"Assuming that 'consent' is obtained at the time the needy person applies for public assistance, is this consent the type required by law?

* * *

"THE COURTS generally have held that in order for the State to justify a search on the theory of consent, the state must show that the consent is unequivocal, specific, freely and intelligently given. There can be no duress or coercion, actual or implied.

"The threat of loss of public assistance to one who is destitute and in need can hardly be said not to be coercion in obtaining consent. Invitations to enter one's house, extended to state officials in the middle of the night, who demand entrance to the home of the poor must be considered as invitations secured by force.

"Viewing the totality of the circumstances, the conclusion is inescapable that intimidation and duress are almost necessarily implicit in such situations.

"The mere demand for admission to a home at night is inherently coercive. One certainly does not lose or forfeit his constitutional rights and immunities because he is poor and in need of public assistance."

* * *

AT ANOTHER point in his statement State's Attorney O'Donnell said:

"The public is entitled to be protected from fraudulent practices which may be resorted to by some recipients."

Commenting on this, Atty. Russell said:

"Further, it is stated that the public is entitled to be protected from fraudulent practices which may be resorted to by some recipients of public assistance, who attempt to conceal the fact that they are receiving other income from individuals who may be living in the household and for this reason, the practice is justified.

"It should be clearly understood that the interests and views of society cannot and must not ever be balanced against an individual's constitutional rights.

"There exists no compelling reasons or emergency to justify the absence of a search warrant. The constitutional barrier that protects the privacy of the individual cannot and should not be hurdled so easily.

* * *

"THE REQUIREMENT of a search warrant was not made to shield criminals or to make the home a safe haven for illegal activities.

"However, the right of privacy was deemed too precious to entrust to the discretis of those whose job it is to detect law violators, especially legally untrained welfare workers who show no regard and respect for the constitutional rights of welfare recipients. Power is a heady thing and inspectors of the Welfare Department cannot be trusted, acting on their own, any more than the police.

Innocent Man dies in holdup

Haywood L. Roscoe never had the chance to eat his dinner of hamburger, spinach and rice on Thursday night.

A place had been set at a table for him in a third floor apartment in the 1800 block Greenmount Ave.

But the parking lot attendant say dead outside the building, in an alley.

In his forehead was a single hole where a .38 caliber bullet struck him shortly before 8 p.m.

The shot was allegedly fired by Daniel Bierer, 46, owner of a liquor store in the same building, and also Mr. Roscoe's landlord.

* * *

SHORTLY before the 33-year-old victim fell to the ground in the dark alley, three young men, carrying knives, held up the liquor store and escaped with an estimated $400 to $500.

At the very moment that they ran out of the store and turned into the alley, which runs along its side, Mr. Roscoe was standing there talking to a friend, Mrs. Melinda McMillen.

The storekeeper followed the men, and according to witnesses, two shots were fired, one of them striking Mr. Roscoe.

The bandits escaped and Mr. Bierer returned to his store, where he was told a few minutes later, that his third floor tenant had been shot.

Mr. Brierer was taken to the Central Police District where he has been charged with homicide. Mr. Roscoe was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Joseph's Hospital and his body taken to the City Morgue.

* * *

IN RETRACING Mr. Roscoe's movements before the shooting, it was learned that he met a friend, James Samuel of the 2600 block Robb St., at a tavern near his home, shortly after he left work.

Mr. Samuel said that he walked with Mr. Roscoe to the alley, which has to be used to reach his apartment over the liquor store.

At that moment, Mrs. McMillen, who had prepared dinner for the victim, came down the stairs on her way to the store, and met him.

Mrs. McMillen recalls what happened during the next few moments:

"I saw these boys running through the alley and the men behind them. Someone yelled get back and I moved back to the wall.

"I heard the shot and I thought Roscoe was behind me. When I turned around he was lying on the ground and his eyes were open. He didn't say anything and blood was coming down his face."

A neighbor, Mrs. Mary F. Watts of the 400 block E. Lanvale St., tried to take his

Rift grows in county

The hassle between Michael J. Holofcener, chairman, Baltimore Human Relations Commission, and county executive Spiro T. Agnew has brought a warning from the NAACP that if the chairman is removed from office, it would result in renewed demonstrations against county segregation.

Mr. Agnew called Wednesday for the resignation of Mr. Holofcener as chairman of the agency which was formed at the height of anti-segregation demonstrations at Gwynn Oak Park.

The chairman defied Mr. Agnew and told the AFRO Thursday he would only resign if the majority of the commissioners wanted him to.

* * *

IN ASKING Mr. Holofcener to step down, Mr. Agnew said commission members "lacked cohesion" and the agency has lost its impetus.

Mr. Juanita J. Mitchell, NAACP president, in a telegram to the executive, protested the attempt to oust the chairman and warned:

"It (removal) can only result in the increase, rather than decrease, of racial tensions in Baltimore County. Colored Citizens are not fooled.

"We are at the period in our history where we cannot tolerate political expedience in the efforts to eliminate racial injustices. We have been denied our Constitutional rights too long."

Mrs. Jackson praised Mr. Holofcener for his "forthright leadership" in exposing "disgraceful practices of racial discrimination," and warned:

"If you remove Mr. Holofcener then you give us no alternative but to take all of our problems to the streets."

Mr. Holofcener told the AFRO the dispute grew out of the fact that he and Mr.

Missing coed found

Through a routine check of missing person reports police were able to discover the identity of a 16-year-old high school co-ed whose decomposed body was found under mysterious circumstances Tuesday.

The identification of the co-ed, Carolyn Dent, of the 2200 block Aiken St, was verified by her parents Mr. and Mrs. James Dent, who had reported the girl missing on Saturday.

Police said the 11th grade Dunbar High School Student whose body was found under a bed in a vacant room of an apartment house in the 500 block E. North Ave, had been dead for several days.

Robert Chase, a painter of the 2400 block N. Calvert St. found the body as he was looking for a can of paint in the first floor vacant bedroom of the house.

Mr. Chase told police that on entering the room he detected a strong odor and at. He said he found the body fully clothed under a bed and covered by a mattress.

Carolyn was pronounced dead at the scene by Dr. John Adams, assistant medical examiner, at 4 p.m. She was taken to the morgue, where an autopsy was performed. The results will not be known until further tests have been made.

Dr. Adams told the AFRO Thursday, "Although I have not completed the post mortem examination, there has been no evidence to substantiate four play.

BLAST HITS HOME

'Sounded like a bomb,' says Bill Taylor

The home of William (Bill) Taylor, long prominent in civic affairs, was the scene of a shotgun blast Thursday night.

Mr. Taylor, who lives in the 3100 block Herring Run Dr., told police that he, his wife, Mrs. Amber Taylor, and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Belle L. Greene, were watching television when someone shot through the living room window.

The Taylor family is the only colored family in the block. No one was hurt.

Seconds after the blast, Mr. Taylor, onetime ace AFRO carrier, phoned the news to this newspaper. "It sounded like a bomb. There was glass everywhere," he said.

Mr. Taylor is community organization advisor for the Baltimore Urban Renewal and Housing Agency.

He is former director of the Eastside Community Council and a Morgan coach.

Mrs. Taylor is a Morgan State College librarian.

Tydings quits DA office, to seek U.S. Senate post

By GEORGE W. COLLINS

Joseph D. Tydings, U.S. District Attorney of the Maryland District since 1961, quit his post today (Friday) and is expected to enter the race for U.S. Senator from Maryland momentarily.

Mr. Tydings, 35 - year - old son of former U.S. Senator Millard E. Tydings, likely will oppose State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein, in the Democratic Primary.

Mr. Goldstein, with the backing of state Democratic leaders is expected to announce his candidacy Monday for the seat now held by Republican Sen. J. Glenn Beall.

The retiring DA, personal friend of the brothers Kennedys, gained the reputation of a racket buster when he headed investigations leading to the indictment adn conviction of prominent political figures in the state's savings and loan scandal.

* * *

A. GORDON Boone, self-suspended Speaker of the House in the Maryland General Assembly, is awaiting trial in Federal Court growing out of the government's crackdown on the savings and loan racket.

Former Eastern Shore U.S. Congressman Thomas Johnson and former Congressman Boykin from Alabama were convicted earlier in cases prosecuted by Mr. Tydings.

Although the Maryland New Frontiersman declined to comment on whether he is delaying his announcement to enter the race until the Boone Trial and that of co - defendants now being heard in Richmond are completed, it is understood that are the reasons for his temporary intentions "to enter private law practice."

Mr. Tydings, who could hardly win a popularity contest with state Democratic bigwigs, would be a decided underdog in a race with the popular and loquacious Goldstein who is already running hard to win his party's nod to oppose Senator Beall or any last - minute GOP candidate switch in the 1964 general election.

Commenting on his unpopularity with local Democrats, Mr. Tydings told the AFRO:

"I am a genuine presidential appointee. You see, normally U.S. attorneys are selected by the Congressional delegation through the patronage system. But the Maryland delegation was opposed to my appointment."

However, Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy and the President chose him despite opposition from the delegation, Mr. Tydings stated.

On the political risks involved in prosecuting high - ranking state officials, Mr. Tydings declared:

"It would have been easier, and perhaps wiser, not to prosecute them but I took an oath to uphold the law. I did my duty as I saw it."

Mr. Tydings was U.S. delegate to Interpol, which met in Helsinki, Finland this summer and also represented this country at the International Penal Law Conference in Vellago, Italy.

Before being named to the DA post, the prosecutor was a member of the Harford County House delegation to the Maryland General Assembly.

He is married to the former Miss Virginia Reynolds Campbell of Philadelphia and they have three children, Mary C., 6; Millard E. 2nd, 5, and Emlen D., 3.

* * *

HIS REPLACEMENT, the identity of whom is unknown, will be named by judges of Federal Court. Since such an appointment would be only temporary, it is possible that the judges will name Deputy Robert Kernan as acting DA and leave the selection of a permanent appointee to the Congressional delegation.

Congressmen Samuel Friedel, Edward Garmatz and George H. Fallon were all in Washington and could not be reached for comment at AFRO presstime.

The Next Judge

(AN EDITORIAL)

The next Municipal Court Judge appointed by the Governor should be a colored attorney.

The next member of the Supreme Bench appointed by the Governor when there is a vacancy should be a colored lawyer.

When the U.S. District Attorney of Maryland, Joseph Tydings steps down this week, his place should be filled by a colored lawyer.

These appointments should be made as a matter of course and if they are not made something is very radically wrong with the Democratic administration and the Administration in Washington.

Errand Boy

A 24-hour-a-day errand boy . . . that's one of the many roles the telephone plays in your life.

For the telephone is always at your service . . . ready to help you arrange your appointments, get information, simplify shopping, keep you in touch socially and make light work of accomplishing so many everyday jobs—big and small.

Your telephone actually saves you money while working for you 'round the clock. In fact, the more you put this errand boy to work, the more you're likely to save. You save time, and save expenses that would otherwise mount up if you had to do everything in person.

It's hard to imagine what life would be like without a telephone errand boy to help you manage things faster and easier. And it's still one of the biggest bargains in your family budget. Use it often.
