Funeral held for Mrs. Elise Minor

"Her spirit and her deeds will live on," said the Rev. Gus Roman, Tuesday, as he officiated the funeral services of Mrs. Elise B. Minor.

The service was held at First Baptist Church, where Mrs. Minor had been a member since the age of 10.

Mrs. Minor, 65, 2112 Druid Hill Ave., died at Johns Hopkins Hospital Friday following a heart attack.

Burial was in Arbutus Memorial Park.

Mrs. Elise Minor, the younger of two children of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Williams, was a native of Baltimore.

She graduated from the Colored High School of Baltimore City in 1913.

A regular attendant and worker in the church, she centered her activities in the Sunday School and the Baptist Young People's Union.

It was in the BYPU that she met the late John Angus Minor, a Virginia. After a courtship of four years, they were married by the pastor of First Baptist, the late Rev. Peter C. Neal.

The couple had seven children.

AS A young woman she was an organist and choir leader for Wayland Baptist Church, then located at Broadway and Jefferson St. She was also active in local community affairs.

She was president of her neighborhood block club; secretary of the Depreist Republican Club; and a member of the Urban Renewal Committee, from which she received an award for active service.

For several years, she had worked ardently with the Provident Hospital Guid.

In the local political scene, she had served as judge of elections from 1937 and at the time of her death, she had been renamed to that post through 1964.

Mrs. Minor's health began to fail more than a year ago. She entered Hopkins for surgery on November 18, rallied, and died four days later.

SHE IS survived by a son, John Minor, a caterer; six daughters, Mesdames Vashti Jude, vice principal of School No. 139; Sylvia Shipley, a housewife; Portia Seale, a New York City housewife; Gloria Phillips, of New York City and a former school teacher; Cleota Brayboy, a social worker in Juneau, Alaska; and Fannie Nelson, a girls' counselor in Newark, N.J.

She is also survived by a brother, George Williams, and 23 grandchildren.

Honorary and active pall - bearers were grandsons Charles Minor, Charles Shipley 3rd, Franklin Minor, Dennis L. Shipley; and sons - in-law Ernest Sealo, New York City; James C. Nelson, Newark, N.J.; Charles Shipley Jr.; Samuel Phillips and George L. Jude, of the AFRO AMERICAN staff.

Father La Farge, race friend, dies

NEW YORK — The Rev. John LaFarge, 83-year-old Jesuit who pioneered in founding projects aimed at bettering race relations in this country, died Monday at Campion House residence at 329 West 108th St.

Besides accomplishments in race relations, Father LaFarge also was widely known as an author and lecturer. At the time of his death he was associate editor and former editor in chief of America.

The America is a weekly magazine published by the Roman Catholic Jesuit Order. Father LaFarge used his editorial post to work for justice and tolerance on a national scope.

IN 1911 FATHER LaFarge began 15 years of a ministry to Catholics and later converts, many of them colored people.

He established in Ridge, Md., the Cardinal Gibbons Institute, a secondary school for colored pupils, as an agricultural school. It existed until 1933, long after he had left Maryland.

After the Catholic laymen's Union had been under his direction for six years, it sponsored in 1934 a mass meeting from which the New York Catholic Interracial Council was established.

In 25 years the organization was working for race harmony in 37 cities.

ONE OF THE founders of the National Catholic Rural Life Conference, Father LaFarge lived to see its influence spread throughout the country and abroad.

The movement produced affluent white farmers willing to fight for Mexican migrants, Puerto Rican laborers, and colored people.

He worked with leaders of other faiths to achieve a higher standard of morality in human relations. His influence came through the Catholic Association for International Peace and the National Liturgical Conference of which he was Chaplain.

Former Balto. teacher dies at home in District

Funeral services were held at 11 a.m. today for Mrs. Ella C. Dean at the Ebenezer Methodist Church, 4th and 12th Sts., SE.

The former Baltimore public school teacher died at her home, 4970 12th St., NE, on Nov. 2 after a five-month illness.

Mrs. Dean was a member and active worker in the Ebenezer Methodist Church.

The widow of the Rev. William H. Dean, is survived by three daughters and three brothers.

They are Sister M. Monica, Mrs. Thelma D. Manuel, Mrs. Ruth D. Boffman, Rev. Richard A. Greene, Dr. William F. Greene, and D. Milton Greene.

Burial will be in the Lincoln Memorial Cemetery.

Dr. FIGARO

DR FIGARO SAYS: Hardly a man is now alive who thought that he could drink and drive.

TWO HOUR FUNERAL services on Wednesday afternoon for the Rev. J. Timothy Boddie, attracted an overflow crowd of 600 to Baltimore's New Shiloh Baptist Church, where he pastored 29 years. Three church choirs were also seated in the main auditorium. Not shown in this AFRO photo by I. Henry Phillips are other mourners in the balcony. In addition to the 150 standees pictured here, others assembled in the lower church auditorium or heard the program outside on loudspeaker. Arrow points to the window.

Fount of Every Blessing,' a hymn Dr. Boddie himself requested for his funeral.

'Come Thou Fount of every blessing . . . tune my heart to sing Thy grace; streams of mercy, never ceasing, call for songs of loudest praise;

Teach me some melodious sonnet, sung by flaming tongues above, praise the mount, I'm fixed upon it . . . Mount of Thy redee . . . ming love . . ."

It was noted he 'loved' to sing, and that his booming baritone sounded throughout the church when he led the singing.

5. Dr. Boddie's two sons and six brothers were active pallbearers. The three minister brothers participated in the funeral.

Dr Charles F., president of the American Baptist Theological Seminary, Nashville, read the family's tribute, 'A Pebble and A Fountain which assessed the deceased as "one who used his influence in every manner he saw to broaden its (the community) scope and message.

. . . "A man of action who could lead with humility, persuade with discretion, organize with insight, and follow with dignity . . ."

The Rev. Richard E. New Hope Baptist, Bridgeport, Conn., expressed the family's gratitude.

The third minister-brother, the Rev. Fred J. Jr., First Baptist, Newport News, Va., committed the body at Carver Memorial Park.

The resolution of New Shiloh was read by Mrs. Mary Frazier, church clerk.

She recalled his outstanding improvements to the church property, the recently air conditioned and modernized, and how the church was put on a cash-paying basis during his 21-year pastorate.

He had a keen interest in young people. At the time of his death he was organizing a scholarship program to enable youngsters of limited means to further their education.

Similar tribute was paid by Leonard Coleman, chairman of the church's board of directors.

Among those giving two-minute 'words of Thanksgiving,' were associates who have spanned the years since Dr. Boddie was ordained in 1914.

Dr. M. C. Allen, president of Va. Theological Seminary and College came from Lynchburg . . . 'he was a source of inspiration and courage to me. . . .'

Dr. Boddie was valedictorian of the class of 1926. In 1929, he earned his bachelor of divinity degree at Colgat-Rochester School.

Theological and Seminary bestowed an honorary doctor of divinity degree in 1937.

Dr. Wendell Sommerville of D. C., executive secretary of the Lott Cary Missionary Convention cited Dr. Boddie as 'a world Christian.'

Dr. Clifford G. Hansen, Valley Forge, Pa., American Baptist Home Mission Societies 'the pastor of this church has demonstrated stability, strength, loyalty and cooperation in the general missionary field . . .'"

The Rev. Baxter L. Matthews, Union Baptist, Baltimore, where Dr. Boddie pastored 1929-39, called him 'one of God's noble men . . .'

The Rev. Samuel Spears, president, Baptist Ministers' Conference, came from Philadelphia.

Other out-of-town participants were: Dr. E. C. Smith of D.C., Metropolitan Baptist; Dr. J. Q. Jackson, Zion Baptist, Philadelphia; Dr. Rolland Dutton, College Ave. Baptist, Annapolis;

Dr. W. O. Bryson Jr., president of Advance Federal Savings and Loan Association of which Dr. Boddie was second vice president, recalled Shiloh was one of the first to join, and the minister had 'a great interest' in the economic and business life of the community.

Dr. Lillie M. Jackson, president, Baltimore NAACP remembered Dr. Boddie was one of the early supporters of the 'fight for the rights of his people,' and Shiloh was one of the first churches to join the life membership rolls.

State Senator Verda Welcome (D.-4th) described him as 'our devoted leader,' and read excerpts from his 1957 pre-election speech urging unity among Fourth District voters.

Speaking for Dr. Carl Murphy, chairman of the board of the AFRO-AMERICAN Co., Mrs. Elizabeth M. Phillips, praised him as "a friend for whom we had deep respect and lasting affection . . ."

Other participants, were: Dr. Charles Churn, Union Temple, who presided; Dr. R. J. Davidson, New Shiloh assistant pastor; Dr. Robert Newbold, Grace Presbyterian, scripture and prayers.

Other speakers were: The Rev. Isaac Williams, president, Ministers' Conference; Dr. W. H. Thompson, president, United Missionary Baptist Convention of Md., the Rev. Frank Williams, president, Interdenominational Ministers' Conference; and Dr Houston R. Jackson, assistant superintendent of Baltimore schools;

Members of these ministerial groups, deacons and trustees of New Shiloh and members of the Advance Association board of directors were the honorary pallbearers. They numbered over 150.

Morton and Dyett handled funeral arrangements.

Relatives and friends occupied over a half hundred cars for the trip to the cemetery.

Among out-of-towners seen in the crowd were: Mrs. Sarah B. Spragins, retired teacher and member of Jehovah Jerah Methodist Church, and Mrs. Castene Joyner, a teacher and member of White Rock Baptist, both of Philadelphia.

In addition to the three-minister brothers already named, Dr. Boddie is survived by his wife, the former Miss Emery Moore of Atlanta.

Speakers referred to her as a true companion always at her husband's side.

And, two sons, Air Force Capt. J. Timothy Jr., Tuskegee, Ala.; William L., U. of Md. medical student;

Two daughters, Mrs. Marcia Cummings and Mrs. Vashti O. Roberts, both of Los Angeles,

Other brothers are: David, Brooklyn, N.Y.; Daniel, New Rochelle, N.Y.; Dr. Bertrand M., and Thudman M., both of Rochester, N.Y.

Four sisters are: Mrs. Dorcas B. Douglass, Los Angeles; Mrs. Lydia Teyton, Rochester, N.Y.; Mrs. Una B. Green, Los Angeles; and Miss Drusilla Boddie, Baltimore.

Baptist ministers hold voting registration

Beginning Jan. 1, registra- and Vice President will open tion to vote for President for citizens of the nation's capital.

The Baptist Ministers Conference of Washington, D.C. and Vicinity in cooperation with the National Capital Voters Association held their first "voter registration seminar" Monday, Nov. 25, at the New Bethany Baptist Church.

—Large crowd

City Council president, told the assembly at the outset of the four - hour hearing:

"In view of this tragic past weekend, it is only fitting and proper that we stand for one moment of silence in memory of President Kennedy.

"I must ask that the speakers refrain from referring to the late President, pro or con."

The hearing proved to be a longer repetition of the one held last week on the ordinance's open housing proposals, running for the most part in a serious vein and at times bordering on the ridiculous,

Proponents held that the removal of racial restrictions on the sale and rental of housing was morally right and actually a necessity.

OPPONENTS, APPARENTLY, were undaunted by Bishop Murphy's reminder of the late President Kennedy's long battle on the civil rights front.

They charged removal of such restrictions would depreciate property values in all - white neighborhoods, take away property rights and bring forced association of the races.

One such speaker warned lifting this ban would bring o mixed marriages through "contact" of the races.

Council Vice President William D. Schaefer (5th D.) chairman, Judiciary Committee, announced at the start everybody who so desired would be heard.

There were 42 speakers, many of whom said they represented no organization.

However, Mrs. Emil H. Henning Jr., who recently resigned as a member of Baltimore's Equal Opportunity Commission to fight the ordinance, came as a coordinator for seven organizations against the proposals.

HERE IS how the hearing went, beginning at 7:45 p.m. first in the over - crowded Council chamber.

Charles R. Avara, secretary-treasurer, Barbers' Union Local 241, AFL-CIO, was allowed to speak first on the public accommodations sector of the ordinance on behalf of his organization.

"I'm not prejudiced," he said in opposing those provisions. "I'm a Korean veteran. I fought side by side with colored soldiers. Some of my best friends are colored."

Mr. Avara then argued barbershops should be excluded, because white barbers could not cut colored men's hair.

Much later in the hearing this was discounted by Harrison Gross, who said he was a U. S. Navy veteran. He said he had spent two years on a ship where the barbers were not of his race but white.

Bishop Murphy followed Mr. Avara, launching the stand of the proponents who were presented by Samuel Daniels labor union executive and top Masonic official in the state.

"As one who has spent his life in religion," Bishop Murphy said in part, "where there are abundant opportunities to see first-hand the results of mistreatment and the bitter fruits of unjustified hatred, I believe I can say... there is need for the elimination of the demeaning, degrading and wrongful practices of discrimination."

HE WAS followed by Frank Gray, president, Citizens Planning and Housing Association; Alexander Stark, Fifth District House of Delegates member; Leroy Lipman, president, Urban League and Windsor Hills Improvement Association; Frank J. Meagher, president Lauraville Improvement Association.

In asking enactment of the housing provisions of the ordinance, they held that property values in white neighborhoods tend to increase, rather than decrease, when they become integrated, and open housing is a moral right for all citizens.

At this point; 8:35, p.m., the hearing was transferred to the War Memorial Building.

Mrs. John B. Ramsay Jr., member, Commission on Interracial Problems and Relations, continued there for the proponents, telling the councilmen:

"If you want to do something constructive for the city, you will pass this ordinance."

Supporters following were the Rev. Don Frank Fenn, Urban League board member; Joseph Purdie, representing the Health and Welfare board; Daniel W. Spaulding, realtor and official of the Advance Federal Savings and Loan Association.

CLIFF MACKAY, editor - in - chief, AFRO-AMERICAN Newspapers, followed as a representative of the Methodist Men of Sharp Street Memorial Methodist Church, offering a resolution by his group, urging passage of the entire ordinance without weakening amendments.

Among the others speaking in support of the ordinance were the Rev. Jentry E. McDonald, representing the NAACP; P. T. Lemmon; Walter Carter, Congress of Racial Equality, and George C. Moore, of the Big Brother of Baltimore.

A bit of a hassle developed Councilman Joseph Curran (3rd D.), when he charged there were agencies existing on public funds which practiced discrimination.

Mr. Moore refused to concede to the councilman's demands that he name such agencies. Councilman Jacob J. Edelman (5th D.) entered the hassle to say he would give Mr. Curran such a listing at another time in private.

In addition to the aforementioned Mrs. Henning, former EOC member, William B. Guy Jr., past president, Real Estate Board of Greater Baltimore, again headed the opposition.

"There has been so much talk about discrimination," he began, "As realtors, we disavow discrimination. We are thoroughly committed to the good of Baltimore."

Mr. Guy then argued the housing provisions of the ordinance would destroy property rights of homeowners.

All in all, there were 24 various speakers opposing the ordinance, some taking Mr. Guy's position, others saying white neighborhoods would be deteriorated, and still others saying whites would rather live in neighborhoods with members of their own race.

rowed some books from me

I have a very extensive library."

He was asked if these people had prepared the pamphlet. He said "I don't know. Two men came to me and borrowed the books."

Then the man asked the reporter: "Is everything in that pamphlet correct?"

the reporter said "We do not know if the information is correct or not but we would like to identify who ever has accused a man of being a Communist."

At that point, the man called to someone in his office: "Young lady," he was heard to say, "You are my witness, I am not saying else to say."

During the conversation, facts were correct and insisted that the identity of the anything. I have nothing pamphlet writers was not important.

property tax rate for next year—from the present $3.95 to $4.15 per $100 assessment.

There are three others advanced—including one on soft drinks.

Thomas D'Alesandro, City Council president, says he will propose some substitute new sources of revenue in a few days.

THIS LEAVES the matter of new taxes way up in the air.

So—the councilmen are now hearing pleas from agency and departmental heads not to further cut their respective budgets.

It's an almost certainty, though, some cuts will be made—though the councilmen will be first to squawk about the resulting impeded services of the agencies whose budgets they do cut.

And it's another certainty—they're not going to let that 20-cent property tax hike stand.
