Key Hall dedicated at Morgan

Morgan State College formally dedicated its new half million dollar science facilities last Friday with appropriate tributes to the honoree, the late Dean Charles C. Key, and appreciations to the state for making the facility possible.

The tribute to the late teacher, Charles Clinton Key, who served as professor of biology as well as dean of men at the college, came from Dr. Nathaniel K. Proctor, professor of biology.

Dr. Proctor called the former Morgan teacher a "dedicated teacher" who enriched his life through participation in varied professional and community activities.

The college has named a new wing of the Science Quadrangle the Charles Clinton Key Hall and it was this facility which the institution dedicated.

• • •

IN PRESENTING the building for the state, Albert P. Backhaus, director of the department of public improvements, said it is part of the "considerable growth that has taken place at the college since 1947."

In accepting the building for the college, Dr. Carl Murphy, chairman of the board of trustees, expressed appreciation to the "Governors of the state and other state officials who have been so kind in answering the needs of Morgan State College."

Registrar - Emeritus Edward N. Wilson also gave brief acceptance remarks for the college in the absence of President Martin D. Jenkins.

Present at the ceremony, held in the Carl Murphy Auditorium, was Mrs. Inez Key, widow of the late teacher.
