—Urgent appeal sounded

call Mrs. Santa for the name and address.

Case No. 108 — I am writing again, hoping that you will send me a basket this year. I did not receive a basket last year, and I was very hurt. So if you can find it in your heart to send me a basket this year, God will bless you, even though I know He has blessed you before and after you have helped all the people of our city.

Case No. 110 — I am the mother of four, living alone. I had a fire a few weeks ago, and the children's clothing was burned. I have two boys, age 6 and 2 and they wear size 6 and 4 pants. The two girls ages are 3 and 7, dress size 7 and 3. Could you please send us some clothes and a basket of food?

Case No. 110 — I am the mother of eight children and asking for help for Christmas. I am on welfare, and after the rent, there is little left to buy food. Please put us on your list for the baskets.

Case No. 111 — Here I am asking for help again. You have helped me so much before, will you help again this time? I have eight children and my husband is in jail, and I am on welfare, so you know I don't have much after bills.

I have six children, and they need clothes badly. Sometimes I can't send them to school. No one has shoes. My 13-year-old son sells papers to help out, when he should be using it for himself, to get clothes to keep him in school, but he gives it to me to buy food.

My 15-year-old wants to drop out of school to help, but I don't want that to happen. So, please help us, we need someone's help badly.

Case No. 112 — I have a friend in South Baltimore who needs help from you. Her husband dropped dead during the summer, and almost a month later her son died in a fire. Seven of them are grown, but this last baby has a heart condition. If it is possible, please try to help her and her family.

Case No. 113 — My husband is partially-employed around the waterfront, and we have nine children to raise. He does the best he can, but we are still desperately in need of help. He was sick this year, and the bills are way behind.

The boys are ages 9, 8, 7, and 5; the girls are 8, 6, 4, and 2.

Case No. 114 — We will appreciate very much if you can give us a basket this year, for my family of seven. We get very little money from the welfare. I am asking you to help us with a basket of food please.

Case No. 115 — I am 13 years old, good-have-eight sisters and one brother. We would like you to send us a basket of food. My father passed last Dec. 24, and we didn't have Christmas.

My mother has been on welfare, but that little bit of money doesn't buy enough food. Please send us a basket of food so that we can have a Merry Christmas. The kids ages are: 13, 10, 9, 7, 3, 2, 1 and 2 months.

Wants Food

Case No. 116 — I am writing for my seven children, 5 boys and 2 girls. I am sick, and would like you to give them a very good Christmas this year. I am on welfare, so you know my story. Please give them a nice Christmas, food, clothing and stuff you think you have them.

Case No. 119 — I am writing you again this year with hopes you will answer my pleas again. I have come this far by faith and leaning on the Lord. I have four boys, ages 10, 6, 12, and 13, and it seems as though our needs get greater as the boys grow older. My husband is still in a mental hospital, and I am still sick. I receive help from the welfare, but by the time I try to make ends meet, there isn't anything left. If you would be kind enough to send us a basket of food for Christmas, we would be very grateful.

Case No. 120 — I am the mother of five children, ages 8, 6, 3, 1, and a new baby that is a month old. My husband has a job, but makes very little money, and the two oldest girls need winter coats and shoes very badly.

I have no one to turn to but you, seeing no other way of being able to get a Christmas dinner for them, without your help.

Case No. 121 — Is there anyway you could spare me a basket for Christmas? Some toys, and clothes for my eleven children? The only help I receive is from the welfare, and by the time I pay the rent and buy groceries, there is nothing left.

My husband is serving a prison term, and he is not here to help. So, if you can, help me to make my children the happiest on Christmas Day. The children's ages are 17, 16, 15, twins 14, 12, 10, 8, 5, 3 and 2.

with him against the adopted plan.

SENATOR DORF argued the new boundaries cut the colored voters out of the Fifth District and put them in the new Fourth.

Mrs. Dixon said she was against an all-colored district.

Actually, the new boundaries give the colored voters in the Fourth registered Democratic a 60 to 40 percent white, as compared to 54.3 percent they held in the old district.

Mr. Abramson answered Senator Dorf's blast thusly:

"I was hoping we wouldn't have to enter into the matter of race. It's been my idea to retain the ratio of colored and white in the Fourth District as much as possible.

"We are not drawing these lines to perpetuate ourselves in office. I think the colored voters in the Fourth District are ready to elect qualified candidates to office, whether they be colored or white."

POPULATION-WISE the adopted plan gives the First District — 123,7000; Second — 160,000; Third — 172,000; Fourth — 168,000; Fifth — 163,000; Sixth — 153,000.

Some dissension arose in the Third District delegation, because one of its members, Joseph A. Ackert, had his residence realigned out of his district, but this was quelled.

Mr. Abramson announced at close of the voting Gov. J. Millard Tawes would be advised immediately of the redistricting action, in order that he may set a special session of the General Assembly at the end of the 30-day session in February to legislate the plan.

He asked also that a delegation of representatives from each district seek an audience with Judge Wilson K. Barnes at once, to determine the wisdom of the boundaries as complying with the law.

JUDGE BARNES, acting on a suit filed by the Republicans, ruled some weeks ago the present district lines were void and unconstitutional, because of vast inequities in population.

City General Assembly members were thus faced with the threat of having to run city-wide in the next election, unless redistricting agreement could be reached.

Chief contention all along has been the Fourth and Fifth Districts' boundaries, though there was considerable disagreement for while between the First, Second and Third District finally resolved.

The Sixth District delegation has been satisfied all along. Other district lines follow generally the councilmanic plan.

..THE APPROVED city redistricting plan would set up these new boundaries for the Fourth District:

The northern boundry at the old city line would be extended into the Fifth District's 27th Ward, between Reisterstown Rd. and Green Spring Ave., to Belvedere and Dupont Avet.

This would included the 27th Ward's 95th, 96th, 97th and 99th Precincts.

The western boundaries would extend into the 15th Ward, from the present Western Maryland Railroad line, to Callaway Ave. in the northwest, down to Grantley Rd. at Liberty Heights Ave., then down Hilton roughly below Baker St.

At this point, the present boundaries of the Fourth District would be moved westward from Fremont Ave. in the Fifth District's 16th Ward to roughly west of Poplar Grove St., to take the 7th Precinct.

The boundary would then extend to Whitmore Ave., to Edmondson and to Fremont Ave.

Eastern boundaries would remain as is, except two and a half precinct in the Park Ave.-North area which would go to the new Second District.

Meanwhile, Thomas B. Finan, attorney general, has been asked to rule whether a new congressional redistricting plan, if adopted by the 1964 General Assembly, would invalidate its previously approved proposal now petitioned to referendum.

The request was made Wednesday by Alexander Pinn, House of Delegates member (D. 5th D., Balto.), who has been a leading figure in both legislative and Congressional redistricting attempts during and between recent sessions.

..Mr. Finan's formal opinion could have far-reaching implications, touching on, perhaps, the legislative and Congressional redistricting of Baltimore City.

He has already stated informally he is of the opinion a newly adopted congressional redistricting plan would invalidate the one now waiting approval by the state's voters at next November's general election.

Here is the situation, as matters now stand.

..The General Assembly, at its session the past winter, approved a congressional redistricting plan for Maryland, creating an eighth district to which the state is entitled out of Prince Georges, St. Marys and Charles counties.

The League of Women Voters, announcing disapproval of the plan when it was first proposed, promptly petitioned it to referendum.

..This means the newly created Eighth Congressional district, as approved by the General Assembly, will be subject to the okay or rejection by the state's voters next November.

Meanwhile, the state's eighth congressman will again run at-large, and be elected as a representative of the entire state, rather than a specific congressional district.

Mr. Stark's query to Mr. Finan comes because there is now a move afoot to submit a new congressional redistricting plan to the General Assembly which convenes for a 30-day session in February.

Gov. J. Millard Tawes said this week he would be interested in a new plan, but did not want two such proposals to be on the ballot.

Some observers see this as Gov. Tawes' support for an advanced plan already drawn , roughly and with which he has acquainted, should the petitioned General Assembly proposal be invalidated.

Should Mr. Finan so rule, some city councilmen are set to seek a similar ruling from the city solicitor's office, relative to the councilmanic redistricting plan passed here earlier this year for Baltimore City.

This proposal, awaiting approval by city voters next November, was passed by an out-going lame-duck City Council, and has since been subjected to much criticism.

..Should the General Assembly approve the somewhat modified version of this plan for legislative redistricting of the city, it is almost certain some councilmen will ask that the Councilmanic redistricting be amended to conform with the new legislative boundaries.

..This would not only keep legislative and Councilmanic district voters in the same areas, but also simplify records and curtail expenses at the city's Supervisors of Elections.

There is now a difference of about seven precincts throughout the city's six districts in the boundaries of the legislative and councilmanic districts.
