AKA sorors elect Mrs. Flozella Clark

With Lula Jones Garrett

Alpha Kappa Alphas (of Epsilon Omega chapter) were out in full force, Saturday night, to put Flozella Clark into the top office of basileus.

While it could have but pleased Soror Clark to have such evidence of the support of her "sisters", she had just been pleased even more that her daughter, Maria, had emulated her mother and gone over in the AKA chapter on the campus of the Tennessee State University, Nashville, Tenn.

Others named to office at the session, held in the Madison Aveue branch YWCA were Nellie Moore, antibasileus; Agnes Sembly, epistoleus; Edith Gorton, grammateus; Ruby Taylor, antigrammateus; Edmonia Yates tamiochue; Carolyn Gee, hodegos; Mary Allen, philacter; Alma Gray, parliamentarian; and Elizabeth Dyett, ivy Leaf reporter; and Edna Campbell, Laura Jones and Verniece Reynolds, executive members at large.

THE PIERIANS, at about the same time, Saturday evening, had laid business aside and were steeping their souls in the spirit of Christmas.

They, and guests, gathered in the lovely confines of the home of the James M. Mebanes, for carol singing, for snacking and a bit of sipping along the eggnog line, and for a couple of hours of pure fellowship.

About were Dr. and Mrs. G. James Flemin, Mrs. Ernest B. Johnson (Mr. Johnson was floored with the virus) Mrs. Mercedes Douglass, Dr. and Mrs. I. Bradshaw Higgins, Mrs. C. Arthur Lamb, Dr. and Mrs. Herbert L. Moseley, Mrs. Glenford Mussenden, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Norris, Mr. and Mrs. Glen S. Tarter, Mr. and Mrs. G. Luther Washington, Mrs. Ruth Welling and Mrs. Herbert Wilson. Mesdames Medford Reynolds and Mark Patterson got in barely under the line...having been at the AKA session.

Members of Alpha Alph Sigma and Beta Tau chapters of Sigma Gamma Rho Sorority braved the torrential rains on Sunday to be present at the annual lighting of the Christmas Tree on Morgan College Campus.

The tree, a gift from the Sorority, was moved from its original spot near Carnegie Hall to its present position in front of the Student Union Building.

The lighting of the tree signaled the beginning of the Christmas Season on the Campus. Milton Owens, president of the Morgan Christian Council presided at the tree lighting. Prayers were offered by the Rev. David Andrews and greetings were extended to those present by Mrs. Beryl Williams, Dean of Morgan State College Evening School; Osborne Dixon Jr of The Student Union Council, and Mrs. Emily M. Bryant, basileus of Alpha Alpha Sigma Chapter. Christmas carols weresung by the group.

SUSIE STROTHER

In talking with many with many homemakers, we discuss budgeting and some have the desire to begin the New Year with a budget in mind. There is no better way to begin the important part of a budget is to stick to it.

As it is commonly known, our standard of living is at an all time high, therefore, it is possible for us to enjoy many luxuries as well as to satisfy our basic needs.

* * *

THE SO-CALLED extras of yesterday are becoming the necessities of today and tomorrow. The rapid pace, change and development in this day, we har our values discussed, criticized and questioned extensively Values are the ideals and principles by which we live.

They grow out of our experiences and learning in our homes, schools and communities. When we become aware of them, ideals and principles can give meanings and purpose to our lives.

* * *

IN MANY ways money is not related to all our ideals and principles, our use of money to buy the proper foods for our bodies, if family life is a value to us, we spend money to make our homes pleasant and comfortable. If education is a value, we use money for books, school supplies, tuition fees and savings to pay college expenses.

* * *

IF PRESTIGE is a value, we spend to impress the Jones or to keep up with the Smiths. If self-development is a value, we spend to develop our interests and abilities, to improve our appearance, to be physically fit and to find occupations that suit us. If beauty is a value, we spend to have artistic and fantastic things around us to beautify our homes and enjoy the cultural aspects and lactivities in our communities. Benjamin Franklin once said "The use of money is all the advantage there is in having it."

* * *

IN OTHER words, whatever we may tet our minds on, we will spend the money for it, so why don't we dot it in a systematic way by budgeting for it. There are some men who would like to have a complete work shop in the basement and maybe the teenagers would like to have a rumpus room to invite their friends in, or the wife or mother would like some new furniture, etc. All of these can be enjoyed by each one without cramping, if taken step by step.

* * *

GOALS AS named above are the aims and objectives that grow out of the values we can intelligently use or resources of money, time, energy and ability to attain them. It is well known that the consumer is interested in getting satisfaction and the most for the dollar spent, so we begin a plan of action:
