Law affects both alike, says judge

"I don't know where you women get the impression that you can get away with fighting and beating on men. The same law which applies to them also applies to you."

Judge Joseph L. Broccello, presiding at Western Municipal Court Tuesday, made the above statement before disposing of a domestic disagreement which had resulted in a criminal charge placed against one of the couple.

Carlell Wilder, 28, 1500 block Argyle Ave., was dismissed on a charge of assault by pushing his wife, Mrs. Lillian Wilder, 26, of the same address.

However, Mr. Wilder's testimony revealed that his wife had struck him several times prior to his pushing her.

Man says wife wants him jailed to get welfare

"Your honor, do you want me to tell you the truth? Well, what she actually told me was she would like to see me in jail so she could get on the welfare."

Judge Joseph L. Broccello in response to the above statement made by a man charged with striking his wife, said:

"Don't worry Mr. Barnes, I don't intend to satisfy her."

The defendant, Alfred A. Barnes, 38, 3000 block Clifton Ave., was then given probation without a verdict.

* * *

ACCORDING to the testimony of Mrs. Barbara Barnes of the 1000 block N. Franklintown Rd., she had been separated from her husband for some time.

She testified that on Dec. 13, he entered her home, attempted to remove a television set and struck her several times.

"I'll swear on a stack of Bibles, Your honor," said Mr. Barnes, "I did not strike her. I was utterly surprised when the Police woke me up in the middle of the night and arrested me."

Woman attacked

Mrs. Gladys Johnson, 48, of the 1400 block Druid Hill Ave., was knocked to the ground Monday by two hoodlums in front of a church in the 500 block W. Mosher St. They fled with her purse containing $9.

Police said the incident occurred about 5:55 p.m., and that Mrs. Johnson as a result of the attack was treated at Provident Hospital but was later released.

Boy, 14, attacked in school hallway

The second youth in six weeks was attacked and stabbed in a hallway of the Fairmount Hill Junior High School Wednesday after noon. Other students were being questioned.

Tony Wright, 14, 1700 block Ashland Ave., told school officials and police, that he was jumped by three youths while changing classes.

He was treated and released at Johns Hopkins Hospital for a knife wound in the buttocks, police said.

Warning made on carbon monoxide

The Baltimore City Health Department is urging all residents who own automobiles to be cautious of the carbon monoxide exhaust gas danger during the cold weather.

Carbon monoxide is a silent killer because of its peculiar properties. It is an odorless, colorless, tasteless gas that can kill its victims with little or no warning. Motor vehicle operators are therefore cautioned as follows:

1. Have your car's exhaust system checked without delay. Correct defective units to prevent leakage of carbon monoxide gas into the car.
2. Never run a car engine in a closed garage, no matter how cold the weather is outside. It takes only a few moments to fill the garage space with enough of this gas to kill you.
3. Do not sit in a parked car with the motor running and the car windows closed.
4. Be sure to have proper ventilation when driving long distances or when driving in heavy traffic.
5. If you are driving a car and you feel dizzy or sleepy and your head starts to ache, stop driving and get out of the car for fresh air.
6. If someone is affected by carbon monoxide remove the person to a source of fresh air, keep him warm, and call a physician at once. If the person is unconscious and has stopped breathing, start artificial respiration immediately and call the Fire Department for assistance.
