LBJ's Gesture may mean Federal post for New Yorker

NEW YORK —(ANP)— A social worker was projected into the national spotlight last week when she was invited by President Lyndon Johnson to ride in his limousine during his visit there to address the United Nations.

The dramatic gesture by the President immediately started speculation that Mrs. Dorris Watson might be tapped for an important, federal assignment. She is the wife of newly elected Civil Court Judge James L. Watson.

The unprecedented incident had its unexpected beginning when Mrs. Watson received a call from the President at 1:15 p.m. Dec. 16, inviting the Watsons to meet him at Idlewild Airport.

THE WATSONS became friends with the Johnsons when the Vice President represented President Kennedy at Jamaica's independence celebration in Aug. 1962.

Johnson asked Judge Watson, then a state senator, to take Mrs. Watson along to Jamaica. The Senator's father had been born there.

Mrs. Watson recalled that her husband had gone skiing with one of the Johnson daughters.

IN NOV. 1962, Johnson had President Kennedy name Mrs. Watson to the President's Committee on Equal Opportunity. Johnson headed the group, which seeks to enforce a ban on discrimination in hiring by the Federal contractors.

Mrs. Watson said she had been at meetings at least monthly since then.

The Watsons — Mrs. Watson in a cadet blue suit and black coat — were in the welcoming party when the Presidential plane arrived at 1:09 a.m.

"Dee," President Johnson said to Mrs. Watson, "I want you to ride with me."

Mrs. Watson occupied one jump seat in the black Presidential limousine. Mayor Wagner had the other, and the President, Mrs. Johnson and Mr. Wagner had the rear seat.

Senator Watson rode in the 6th car with Robert C. Weaver, head of the Housing and Home Finance Agency.

Mrs. Watson is a graduate of the Atlanta School of Social Work and did graduate work at Columbia. Though she has three children, 3 to 12 years old, she is on the advisory board of the City Department of Welfare.

During the President's speech at the General Assembly, the Watsons sat in the front row with Mrs. Johnson and Mayor and Mrs. Wagner.

When the President went to luncheon at the Waldorf-Astoria, Mrs. Watson again rode with him and the First Lady ,this time accompanied by Adlai E. Stevenson, chief United States delegate to the United Nations.

Ministers urged to lead vote push

WASHINGTON

The local Southern Christian Conference Monday called upon churchmen in the District of Columbia to become vigorously active in voter registration drives in the city in the New Year.

In a letter to churches throughout the city, Bishop Smallwood E. Williams, president of the local chapter and the Rev. Andrew J. Allen, its Voter Registration Project director, called upon ministers and churchmen to do two things.

They asked ministers to urge their congregation to be among the first District residents to register to vote when registration begins on Thursday, Jan. 2. "Many ministers plan to lead their congregation to the District Building to register on the opening day," Bishop Williams said.

SCLC asked, secondly, that churchmen themselves prepare to become voter registration workers after the fashion of churchmen throughout the South who have been active in SCLC voter registration drives.

* * *

CHURCHES WERE urged to hold voter registration workshops and church members to offer themselves to the group which is organizing systematic neighborhood canvasses to get out the vote in their precincts.

SCLC last week, announced that it will concentrate its efforts in organizing voter registration drives in the Far Northeast precincts and in (N.E.) precinct 54.

The NAACP, the Washington Urban League, and the Student Non-violent Coordinating Committee also announced the specific precincts in which they will be organizing drives.

Bishop Williams urged churches to offer their facilities and workers to whatever group is organizing in their precincts.

* * *

THE REV. Andrew J. Allen, pastor of First Baptist Church, Deanwood, will spearhead SCLC's effort to coordinate a voter registration drive among churches and civic interest groups in Far North East Precincts 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, and 72.

This area is bounded by the Anacostia River in the West, Eastern Avenue on the North, and East Capitol Street on the South.

The Rev. Jefferson P. Rogers, pastor of Church of the Redeemer Presbyterian, will spearhead the SCLC drive in (NE) precinct 54 bounded by Michigan Ave. a (Otis St., NE on the West and North, by 18th St. and Rhode Island Ave. on the east, and Franklin St. on the south.

The NAACP will concentrate on (N.W.) precinct 37, 38, 39, and 40 bounded by 16th St. on the west 14th St. on the east, and Massachusetts Ave. on the South.

* * *

THE WASHINGTON Urban League will concentrate on (N.W.) precinct 45 and (N.E.) precincts 57, 58, 61, 62, 63, 64, and 65; an area bounded by 15th Street, N.W. on the West, New York Ave. on the North, Bladensburg Road and 15th St., NE on the east, and East Capitol Street on the south.

The Non-violent Action Group, local affiliate of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee (SNCC) will take on (N.W.) Precincts 41 and 42 in the heart of the city.

Their area is bounded by 14th St. on the west, S St. on the north, Seventh St. on the east and Massachusetts Ave. on the south.

The civil rights groups active in the various Precincts will provide interested community groups with literature, other services, and manpower to supplement their workers in the drives.

RECEIVING $500 for the Provident Hospital Development Fund from Miss Anna Cawhorne, president of the Friendly Charity Social Club, is Charles Tildon, club chairman for the fund. Participating for the club are Mrs. Alice Curry, left, vice president, and Mrs. Lula Jordon, recording secretary.

Sees minority lag in science, Council votes remedial steps

WASHINGTON

Dr. Samuel Nabrit, president, Texas Southern University, Houston, told the Council of Graduate Schools at its third annual meeting that undesirable conditions in colored high schools and colleges have been mainly responsible for the colored American's lagging behind in sciences.

He recommended ways to correct this.

Dr. Nabrit, describing some of the undesirable conditions, stated that colored high schools did not add physics to their curricula until after World War II. Even today, their laboratories are poorly equipped and staffed

Mathematics has been so poorly taught that it generates a fear on the part of the students.

The colored college is experiencing serious difficulties in staffing.

Howard University is the only predominantly colored university which has awarded a doctorate in the sciences. Texas Southern will award a Ph.D. in physics in June.

He recommended that major universities provide some fellowships to faculty personnel in colored colleges, establish some training centers in collaboration with the colored colleges to update colored teachers in the new curriculum materials, make summer formal study opportunities available and also make possible student and faculty exchanges.

He also suggested continuing relationships exist between the research activities of the major universities and its graduates in small colleges and that a group of consultative arrangements be effected between the universities and colored colleges for studies, research training and development.

* * *

THE COUNCIL passed the following resolutions:

All graduate schools are to be urged to study current colored enrollments in their universities with the view to reducing the drop - out of colored students due to inadequate and inferior preparation.

All graduate deans are urged to establish working relationships with colored colleges which have been or could be natural feeders for their schools,

The president of the Council should appoint a standing committee of the Council to concern itself with matters relating to the colored student in higher education, to develop and publicize plans and patterns of action.

Miss. race woes bared as Henry visits in D.C.

WASHINGTON — The president of the Mississippi State Conference of the NAACP has personally submitted to the White House his views on the civil rights situation in Mississippi.

Dr. Aaron Henry spent two hours, Dec. 7, in closed session with President Johnson's special assistant on civil rights, Lee White, reporting on the problems Colored people face in this hard-core state of segregation.

Dr. Henry said at the close of the meeting that his confidence in President Johnson's attitude toward civil rights had been reaffirmed. "While my discussions with Mr. White did not give me a cure-all for the ills of Mississippi, I believe that the heart of the Administration is right," he said.

In Washington to attend a civil rights conference sponsored by the National Youth Councils of America, Dr. Henry attended a graveside memorial service for President Kennedy at the close of the conference. A wreath was also placed on the grave of Mississippi Field Secretary Medgar Evers.

SCREEN YOUR CAR

Campers who use the back of a station wagon for a sleeping spot have bug problems if they roll the windows down, ventilation problems if they don't.

If you car camp a lot you will probably want permanent screens.

But here's a way to be comfortable if you car camp only once or twice a year and don't want the expense of permanent screens.

Buy fiberglass screening that can be easily cut with plain scissors. Cut pieces large enough to cover front windows and window across the rear.

Now tape the edges to the outside of the car with masking tape. It will hold through all but violent winds.

Can be used several times. And screens roll up for easy storage.

NCC prof to advise PTA council

DURHAM, N.C. — Dr. Charles W. Orr, professor of graduate education at North Carolina College, was appointed recently as Special Consultant to the Durham PTA Council.

He will assist in the planning and implementation of projects infolving local parent-teacher units and will lead in the evaluation of council-sponsored activities.

Orr, who joined the NCC faculty in 1963, holds the B.S. degree from Alabama State College, the M.A. from Fisk University, and the Ed.D. degree from Columbia University. His experiences include several positions as principal and supervising principal of Alabama secondary schools.

Guyana Corporation holds first meeting

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana — The Guyana Industrial Development Corporation held its inaugural meeting of the eight-man Board of the corporation.

It includes Assemblyman W. O. R. Kendall, member of the opposition Peoples National Congress party and deputy speaker of the legislative assembly; J. G. Campbell, Canadian - born managing director of the multi-million dollar Canadian Bauxite Company, and Capt. G. H. Hutchinson, vice-chairman of the Sugar Producers Association, with Mr. Ashton Chase, prominent trade unionist, Barrister-at-Law and president of the Afro - Shirazi Party, led by Sheikh Abeid Karume, prefers the Swahili name "Uhuru", meaning Freedom.

Finally, the People's Party, headed by Sheikh Mohammed Shamte, currently the country's premier, suggests adoption of the name of the smaller twin island making up the Zanzibar chain, Pemba, calling the country the "Republic of Pemba."

Exotic Zanzibar free, considers name change

ZANZIBAR — (ANP) — The Sultanate of Zanzibar, which became independent on Dec. 10 after 73 and a half years as a protectorate of the British Empire, boasts of several claims to international fame.

With the coming of freedom, it is the smallest independent nation on the African continent, and also in the British Commonwealth. It is ruled by a new Sultan who has been on the throne only five months.

Aside from this, it is a lush tropical island group noted primarily for its cloves, and other spices, pearls and ivory.

* * *

ALREADY, THE three political parties are launching campaigns to give a new name to the country, primarily because the first letter in the country's name "Z", will always keep it in the Senate as chairman.

* * *

PRESIDENT CHASE in his address assured the meeting that foreign investors would be welcome in Guyana and would have the right to remit profits to repatriate capital including capital increments after payment of prescribed tax levies applicable to all foreign investors.

The Corporation would make special efforts throughout the world to attract investors and encourage them to make their industrial skills and markets available to Guyana.

Chase disclosed that a number of overseas investment inquiries already received cover a wide range of interest including wood pulp production, paper products, paints, metal products, (nails and building material), food products (instant coffee, concentrated fruit juice, flour and banana cultivation).

BLACKEYE PEAS are one of the most popular of the "Good Luck" items to fill the menu for that New Year feast.

Blackeye peas for New Year

Black - eye peas, whether you serve them in the Creole manner with rice, or go for the northern twang with those more exotic cuts of pork, will surely star at your party to welcome 1964.

The peas themselves will be an economic item, with Food Fair offering you a bargain of four cans for 49 cents And from there, you merely step around the corner to pick up the pork, or the rice, and the condiments to start your party giving off with a bang.

For New Year Plan

If you haven't tried the frozen, or canned blackeye peas this might be a good time to effect a change for the New Year. I found that the processed peas, as against ones cooked with the pork, are less exciting unless you do a special turn of seasoning.

Along with tiny cubes of ham, add a dash of mustard, another dash of ginger. You'll be surprised!

Serve this with Spanish Rice. The two dashes of red has eye appeal.

For the Spanish Rice (to serve six) use six slices of bacon, chopped, one onion, chopped, one and a half pounds ground left over ham, a teaspoon salt, a cup of uncooked rice, four cans of tomato juice, heated and a teaspoon paprika

Saute bacon slowly and pour off part of fat. Brown chopped onion and ham in deep fat. Add salt. Wash rice, drain and add with one and a half cups f tomato juice and paprika to meat.

Pour into greased casserole and bake in moderate oven (350 F.) until rice is tender, about 30 minutes, adding more tomato juice as it is absorbed.

Beef For a Change

Beef is going to be a good buy, especially at the meat counters at Penn Fruit.

Sunday will be just the day to get away from it all, the fancy foods, the stuffed turkey, the rich fruit cake, and come back to earth with a honey pot roast.

I think I'd add an extra touch, however, with prunes. Then serve it with flaky corn bread, and a crisp salad.

Pot Roast with prunes require a four-pound chuck or rump roast, three tablespoons fat, two onions, sliced, a half pound uncooked prunes, soaked, four cloves, salt and pepper and a cup of water and a cup of cider. Diluted vinegar may be used instead of cider.

Brown the meat on all sides in hot fat. Add onions and when browned, add remaining ingredients. Reduce heat, cover and simmer slowly until tender, three to four hours.

Add more water from time to time if necessary.

You may wish to serve this with buttered noodles and crisp French bread.

Standard Can Sizes

Here's a note to hold on to when stocking your can shelves. If you keep these standard can sizes at hand you will save both money and the worry of what to do with leftovers.

An eight-ounce can holds one cup: 12 ounce, one and two-thirds cups: No. 300, one and three - fourth cups; No. 1 tall, two cups;

No. 2, two and a half cups: No. 2½, three and a half cups: No. 3, four cups: No. 3 squat, two and three-eights cups: No. 5, seven and one-third cups; No. 10, 13 cups. No. 1 square, one pound. No. 2½ square, 31 ounces.

As was said here, last week, if you really want to reduce, the best diet is one that is adequate in all respects, except that it is low in energy value.

On such a diet excess fat will be used to supply your energy requirements for work and play.

Rush Medical College, Chicago, offers the directions for diet which follows. Of course, it is expected that you check with your physician before going on any diet.

Here Are Menus

Here are menus for the woman whose ideal weight is 125 to 145 pounds.

BREAKFAST: 3½ ounces of fruit; one egg, boiled or poached; one ounce bacon, broiled; two third ounce toast, one-sixth ounce butter, and coffee or tea.

LUNCH: Four ounces lean meat; three and a half ounces vegetable; two-third ounce bread, one-sixth ounce butter; seven ounces milk, and coffee or tea.

DINNER: Clear broth, seven ounces lean meat; three and a half ounces vegetable (cooked); three and one-half ounces salad; two - third ounce bread, one-sixth ounce butter; three and a half ounces fruit seven ounces skimmed milk, and coffee or tea.

First aid for scratches

What to do about scratches on that fine new furniture:

Both the Cleanliness Bureau and the Home Furnishings Industry Committee recommend that time-honored first aid: rub the scratch with the meat of a Brazilnut to darken and make it practically invisible.

* * *

PERHAPS YOU would prefer this more scientific treatment: mix a third each of white vinegar, turpentine and boiled linseed oil (from the hardware store).

Shake these ingredients in a bottle, and rub the mixture on the scratch with a lint-free rag. Then polish with a clean cloth.

* * *

THE TURPENTINE and linseed oil remove dirt, while the acid in the vinegar helps close up the scratch.

Remove any greasy residue by washing the area with suds.

How to make concentrate

When you make a jug of orange juice, it doesn't take long before the jug is empty and you have to start squeezing oranges all over again.

This is, naturally, because the jug holds only several glasses full, and if you have several thirsty throats on your hands, you will spend a good part of your time at the orange squeezer.

WELL, DON'T despair—here is a brand new recipe from the South Seas for concentrated orange juice and you need only one tablespoon of it to fill a big tumbler.

Just think how long a jug or bottleful would last! All set?

This is what you need.

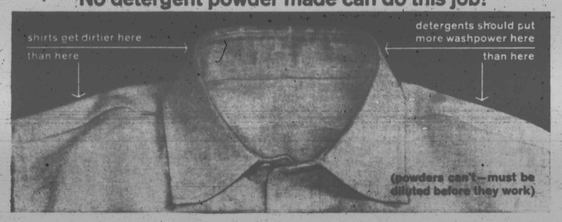
1 large lemon, 5 oranges, 1 cup honey, teaspoon powdered ginger, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, 2 cloves.

NOW YOU: Wash the lemon and oranges, grate the lemon and 1 orange (the rind), squeeze the juice from all, and place in a saucepan with the grated rind. Add the honey and bring to the boil.

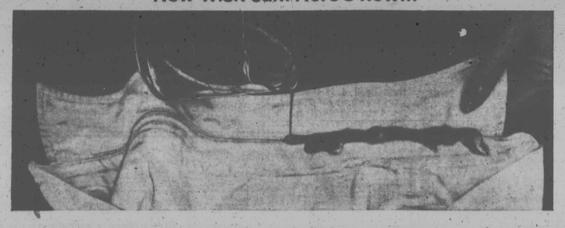
Add the ginger cinnamon and cloves and boil for 5 minutes, or until the mixture is reduced by half. Force through a fine sieve, pour into a jug or bottle and cool. Keep in refrigerator.

PUT 1 TABLESPOON of mixture into each tall glass, add crached ice and fill with water or soda, decorate the side of glass with orange slices.

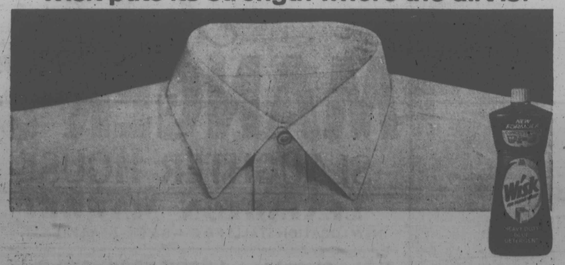
No detergent powder made can do this job!



New Wisk can! Here's how...



Wisk puts its strength where the dirt is!



New Wisk gets all your wash cleaner than any powder can!
And it takes only ½ cup! Pour some on the dirty places—pour the rest into the machine to do the whole wash!
