INFORMAL GATHERING — Joseph E. Davis, center, president of Carver Federal Savings and Loan Association chats with newly appointed manager of Chelsea branch to open in January, Ervin Burrow. Looking on is Joseph B. Kirschner, program director of Chelsea Lions Club, who was host to Messrs. Davis and Burrow at Lion Club luncheon.

Carver Federal S&L slates opening of 2nd branch office by mid-January

By AL WHITE

NEW YORK — Carver Federal Savings and Loan Association will open its second branch office here by mid-January at the corner of Eighth Ave.

This marks the first time that any major company or institution, owned and operated by colored, people extends its full services to an entire community — competing with other established institutions strictly on the basis of service.

The opening was originally scheduled for last summer, but strikes and labor difficulties held up building construction.

PERMISSION to open this branch was granted the company after Carver satisfied the Federal Government on four points:

There was a need for this kind of banking service in the area;

The reasonable probability of usefulness and success;

The operation would not be a threat to institutions now operating in the area; and;

Applicant association is in sound financial condition and has a satisfactory operating record.

Joseph E. Davis, president, included the fact that the operation of this colored-owned bank in a white neighborhood would be an actual demonstration of democracy at work and the bank itself, with a mixed staff, would be, a real "Showcase of Democracy."

THE BANK opened 14 years ago with a $14,000 cash reserve (on pledges of the $250,000 capital) and now has $22,000,000 in assets with 42,000 customer accounts.

The bank has loaned over $4,000,000 to 4,000 home owners in mortgage money. And in all of its operations, there has been only one mortgage default, a white family in Nassau County.

Since 1959, Carver has risen from number 110 in the listing of similar banking institutions to number 66 last year!

MR. DAVIS, 53, is a native of Tarboro, N. C. He attended North Carolina College and took courses in finance and banking. In New York, he attended NYU Evening Graduate School, taking banking, finance and real estate.

CORE says '63 showed gains

NEW YORK — James Farmer, CORE national director, said this week that this years gains on the civil rights front have been "impressive, though incomplete."

In voter registration alone, CORE workers have registered 17,256 new voters in three states (South Carolina, Florida and Louisiana).

Farmer also noted that CORE field secretaries and Task Force workers have been instrumental in effecting some desegregation in 275 Southern communities.

as a United States Air Force specialist.

At Tan Son Nhut, Viet Nam A/1C Charles L. Goodman is now on duty with a United States Air Force advisory unit assisting the armed forces of Viet Nam. He is the son of Mrs. Hael Goodman of 122 Eaton Road SE, Washington.

AT RHEIN MAIN AB, Germany — A/2C Henry R. Sumler Jr. has arrived here for duty with a unit of the United States Air Forces in Europe. He is son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry R. Sumler of 1820 "L" St. NE, Washington.

Airman Preston A. L. G. Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. William P. Davis Sr. of 60 N 16th St., Philadelphia, and airman Robert M. Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Brown of 128 W. Berk St., Philadelphia.

Airman Davis still attend a course for supply specialists at Amarillo AFB, Texas. Airman Brown will attend a course for aircraft maintenance specialists at Sheppard AFB, Texas.

Airman Edward B. Malcom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Malcom of 162 N. Willington, Philadelphia, Pa., is being reassigned to Amarillo AFB, Texas.

A/C Jefferson Stone Jr. is reassigned to Dover AFB, Del. The airman is son of Mrs. Daisy Stone of 6 Nicholson St., Richmond.

Airman Paul B. Smith of 53 N. 32nd St., is being reassigned to Chanute AFB, Ill. The airman is a 1960 graduate of Armstrong High School, Richmond.

A/3C Micah A. Chavis is being reassigned to McGuire AFB, N. J. The airman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Duncan C. Chavis of 112 E. 12th St., Richmond, attended Armstrong High School.

Staff Sgt. Edward J. Hubbard of Baltimore, is being reassigned to Travis AFB, Calif. The son of Mrs. Mary S. Hubbard of 922 Bridgeview Road, Baltimore, he is a graduate of Dunbar Junior-Senior High School.

At Greenville AFB, Miss., A/3C Paul J. Yorkman of Baltimore has graduated from the technical training course for new members of the Air Force Medical Service. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Yorkman of 2816 Round Road.

At Laon AB, France, A/2C James R. Campbell of Baltimore has arrived for duty with a unit of the United States Air Forces in Europe. The airman, son of Mrs. Katherine Campbell of 1120 N. Woodyear St., Baltimore, is a graduate of Frederick Douglass High School in Baltimore.

In the North and West, Farmer said that CORE chapters have made strides also.

For example, recently in New York City negotiations have produced satisfactory settlements with Safeway Trails, a major national bus company, and with the A and P stores, regarding employment of colored workers.

ON THE West Coast — as well as in Mid - Western states — CORE chapters have negotiated settlements on the employment question with several major employers. Several large builders and some rental agencies in these areas have agreed to rent or sell homes to persons regardless of race, religion or national origin.

"CORE has seen a somewhat productive year," Farmer said. "This does not imply that our job is anywhere near complete, though. Much more needs to be done in the area of employment. With the advent of increasing automation our requirements will be even greater.

"This problem is coupled with the lack of sufficient educational opportunities. Unless we have crash programs instituted by the federal government we will be in serious trouble — when I say we, I mean not just colored people but the nation as a whole.

"THE CIVIL rights bill must be passed without delay. There can be no quibbling on this matter. Ideally, there should be no need for the bill, but we are not simply idealists. We have seen that the lack of strong federal legislation in civil rights has made a flimsy drollery of our Constitution over the years.

"One thing is certain — CORE will be pressing forward next year with strong demands in order that 1964 will be even more productive than 1963."

COMEBACK TRAIL—In Newburgh, N.Y., recently former heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson supervised the fitting as his son, Floyd Patterson II, had a suit made at the Clinton Tailor shop. The tailor is Joseph Geczy. Patterson was a 1963 casualty losing the world heavyweight championship.

to the national political scene.

Then comes the Republican National Convention in San Francisco opening July 13.

Interest will be centered on whether Rockfeller, Goldwater or the Eisenhower backed Lodge will get the GOP presidential nomination.

THEN — COMES the Democratic National Convention in Atlantic City the week of Aug. 24.

Results of these two confabs will set Democratic and Republican candidates for president and vice president.

Out of both conventions, too, will come each party's platform—a statement of policy objectives on issues of the times.

Afterwards, of course, there will be an extensive period of campaigning by candidates of both parties — up to the general election.

This general election on Nov. 3 will not, by any means, climax matters on the political scene—either state-wide or nationally.

THE ELECTION is merely a determination of chosen public officers.

Jockeying for jobs, favors and other attentions—either directly or indirectly from the winners—is a national business.

Increasing political education of the public is making this even more so.

So—this is to be a year of high political activity.

What with many needed opportunities, higher taxes and the fast-increasing costs of living generally—all of which are based on the political climate of the time.

What citizen can really afford to give little or no attention to the political scene?

If more of us looked at the thing in this light we would get more accomplished.

Atomic Energy in talent search

The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission is conducting a nationwide talent search for college students who will receive their bachelor's or master's degrees next June.

To carry out its responsibilities, the AEC is seeking the best scientific, engineering, legal, and managerial talent available.

It needs outstanding graduates with background in the social sciences as well as the physical.

By law, the commission is charged with the responsibility for developing, using, and controlling atomic energy to ensure the national security, promote world peace, improve the general welfare, and increase the standard of living.

THE 7,000 PERSONS who work for the AEC are primarily engaged in the administration of a vast industrial, educational and research complex involving nearly 120,000 persons.

They are employed by AEC contractors operating AEC-owned facilities.

The commission offers the college graduate a wide range of career opportunities. Entrance to these careers is through the training programs set up by the AEC.

A BS or MS degree or equivalent experience in nuclear, mechanical, chemical or electrical engineering metallurgy, or physics, is required for entrance into the nuclear engineering training programs.

SUCCESSFUL COMPLETION of the program qualifies the engineer as a technical administrator either in the area of reactor development or licensing and regulation.

A BS degree entitles the trainee to a starting salary of $7,030 a year. Upon completion of training the salary is $7,950. A trainee with an MS degree starts at $7,950 and rises to $8,870 upon completion of training.

A career as a design and operations analyst is offered by the nuclear facilities engineering training program. Starting salary is $7,030.

COLLEGE GRADUATES who hold masters degrees in engineering, physics, heath, physics, chemistry, metallurgy, or mathematics, are eligible for the technical internship program. Salary is identical to the masters' level of the nuclear engineering program.

Assignment at the end of the one year training program will be determined on the basis of the person's interest, background, and the Commission's need.

The management internship program accepts people with a masters' degree in business administration, public administration, liberal arts, or engineering or physical sciences with appropriate management courses.

ASSIGNMENT AT THE end of training will be to such areas as budgeting, contract administration, industrial relations, or management analysis, the salary range is the same as the bachelor level of the nuclear engineering program.

AEC also has an accounting training program for college grads with an accounting background. Salaries start at $6,185. At the end of a year it increases to $6,965.

Potential salary advancements for interns and trainees are excellent, based upon their demonstrated performance.

ALL OF THESE were in higher level positions ranging from GS 11 ($8,045 - $10,165 range) to GS-15 ($14,565 - $17,925 range).

Applicants in the Washington-Metropolitan area, northern Virginia, Maryland and Pennsylvania should write to the director of personnel, U.S. Atomic Energy Commission, Washington 25, D.C.

DEB BEAUTIFUL — Pretty Miss Shirley Ann Randall who was one of the debutantes presented at the seventh annual cotillion of the Washington Chapter of Girl Friends.

Triumph over death

By MARY STRATFORD

WASHINGTON

When Miss Shirley Ann Randall bowed at the Girl Friends debutante cotillion, Friday night, her mother, who died two months ago, triumphed over death.

It was a triumph made possible by the debutante's godmother, Mrs. Hortense Fitzgerald, of D.C., who was determined to carry out the plans of Mrs. Sylvia Randall, a long-time friend.

MRS. RANDALL died at Provident Hospital, Baltimore, on Oct. 29, exactly five years to the day after the death of her husband, Arthur former night editor, AFRO - AMERICAN Newspapers.

Before her death, Mrs. Randall, an excellent seamstress, who was employed as a clerk at the Baltimore Welfare Department, from her hospital bed, sketched the type of gown she envisioned for Shirley's presentation.

HER FRIEND, Mrs. Fitzgerald, wife of Dr. Herman Fitzgerald, 1923 S St., NW, exhausted the shops in the District. She finally found Shirley a replica of the sketch in a Baltimore shop.

"It was just the thing her mother had wanted," Mrs. Fitzgerald said.

Had Mrs. Randall lived, Mrs. Fitzgerald planned to have her brought to the District by ambulance for Shirley's presentation.

THE TWO WOMEN'S friendship dated back to the early 1940's when Mrs. Fitzgerald's mother, Mrs. Annie Mims, went to Louisiana where she met the young woman whose parents were both dead.

Mrs. Mims brought the then Miss Pindle back to the District; and established her with her own family.

"I fell in love with her," Mrs. Fitzgerald said. She obtained a job for her friend as a co-worker in government.

LATER, WHEN MISS PINDLE became Mrs. Arthur Randall, the wedding took place at Mrs. Fitzgerald's home. Mrs. Fitzgerald's father, Lorenzo R. S. Mims, gave Miss Pindle away.

When Shirley was born at Adams Hospital, Mrs. Fitzgerald "delivered" her. That is, she was with Mrs. Randall throughout the delivery, even in the absence of the doctor who was on another case.

WHEN THE RANDALLS moved to Day Village, Md., so Arthur could be closer to his place of employment, the Fitzgeralds helped them to move.

After that, the two families remained in touch with each other two or three times a week.

When the time came last spring for the Mignonettes, of which Mrs. Fitzgerald is a member, to select a deb to participate in the seventh annual cotillion of the Washington Chapter of Gid Friends, Mrs. Fitzgerald proffered the name of her godchild, Shirley Ann.

Mrs. Fitzgerald was given priority by the club because she had never sponsored a debutante. Her own child is a son, Herman Jr., who lives in Philadelphia with his family.

BY TRADITION, the Mignonettes gave Shirley Ann her gloves and individual members gave other gifts, including pocketbooks and jewelry. When Shirley Ann learned in June of her upcoming debut, "she nearly had a fit." Her mother asked Mrs. Fitzgerald to be Shirley's matron.

Thus, they made their plans.

Mrs. Randall made her final trip to Provident Hospital this fall. Each day, Mrs. Fitzgerald left for Baltimore after teaching at Terrell Junior High School to visit her at the hospital, usually remaining there until about 9 p.m.

THE TWO FRIENDS never discussed the future of Shirley Ann, age 17 and her brother, Philip, age 15, in the event of Mrs. Randall's death.

"There was no need to discuss it," Mrs. Fitzgerald said. "She knew I would take care of them. It was a tacit understanding between us." Mrs. Fitzgerald is now their guardian.

SHIRLEY ANN, senior at Palmer Memorial Institute, Sedalia, N.C., is an A minus student who plans to take pre-med upon high school graduation. Her brother attends high school at Fayetteville, N.C.

When Shirley Ann bowed with 19 other debs at the Sheraton Park Hotel, the godmother who watched her with pride, had witnessed her birth.

"She was always completely mine," Mrs. Fitzgerald said.

Open housing now a DC law; Fines up to $300 included

WASHINGTON

The new housing order issued Tuesday by the District Board of Commissioners is "tough and comprehensive and will put the organization back on the right direction" by numerous civic, church and community leaders.

Already these groups are taking steps to see that the order is implemented.

The order, which becomes effective Jan. 20, prohibits racial and religious discrimination in the sale and rental of private housing in the District.

Penalties for violation of the order range up to 10 days in jail and $300 fine.

GROUPS SEEKING immediate implementation of the order include the Northwest Fair Housing Association, the Washington Urban League, the Washington branch NAACP, the Greater Washington Chapter Americans for Democratic Action, the DC Chamber of Commerce, the National Capital Voters Association, the D.C. Federation of Civic Associations and a number of church congregations.

TYPICAL OF THE reaction from the church community, Bishop Smallwood E. Williams of Bible Way Baptist Church said "The order is comprehensive and workable."

The minister added that he will continue to keep his congregation informed of how the order may be used to combat racial discrimination in the sale and rental of housing.

Bishop Williams warned, however, that the public must be on the alert for landlords who may attempt to exploit buyers and rentals by charging colored persons exorbitant rental and prices.

WALTER LEWIS of the Urban League revealed that the organization is sending out a group of speakers to explain provisions of the order by a number of approaches.

Lewis said, however, that the new order will not completely solve the housing problem in the District. "The ultimate solution, he stated, will be the availability of homes for colored persons in the suburbs.

The D.C. Board of Commissioners took the "giant step" on Tuesday and issued the long awaited anti-discrimination housing order. The order is effective on and after January 20, 1964.

The order, which becomes "Article 45" of the D.C. Police Regulations, reads:

"Prohibiting discrimination by reason of race, color, religion or national origin against persons seeking or utilizing housing units in the District of Columbia."

The order prohibits the practice of discrimination in the sale or rental of private housing. It also prohibits discriminatory advertising, restrictive covenants, discrimination in the approval of loans or the acceptance of mortgages, or in providing services to tenants.

"Blockbusting" tactics are banned and penalties range up to $300 fines and 10 days in jail.

Rooms or apartments in one and two family dwellings in which the owner is living, certain rooming houses, and property used by church groups for religious purposes are not covered by the new regulations. Housing owned by "recognized fraternal groups" are also exempted if used for chartered purposes.

Promptly at 10 a.m. on Tuesday, Board President Walter N. Tobriner, speaking in a board room crowded with citizens, officials news - men and cameramen, read a prepared statement outlining the evolution of the momentous order.

"It is therefore eminently right and long overdue that the Capital of the world's greatest democracy should at last make enforcible on equal terms fair access to one of the most essential of people's needs. In vindicating this right—in itself a significant milestone in the ethics of democracy—we also tend to alleviate crime, disease and the host of evils attendant upon housing discrimination."

The Commissioners' Council on Human Relations will act as the regulatory body for the housing regulations. The Corporation Counsel will prosecute offenders and the Real Estate Commission will "act" on offending salesmen and brokers.

Dr. H. Frank Jones, chairman of the Council, issued a statement saying the Council believes most of the problems arising from the order will be solved through "amicable negotiations" and very few court actions are anticipated.

He said experience in eight cities and twelve states showed that the enforcement of housing regulations would not detract from the Council's efforts in implementing the Commissioners' Fair Employment Policy.

Dr. Jones said the Council would require:

(1) All complaints about housing discrimination to be submitted in person and in writing to its offices in Room 208, District Building, 14th and E St., NW.

(2) All complaints will be investigated by the staff of the Council. Staff member may sometime be able to achieve correction of the situation during investigation.

(3) Following investigation, each complaint will be considered by a panel of three members of the Council. (The panel may either ignore or institute action, depending on the evidence.)

(4) If a complaint has been neither ignored or resolved, the Council will hold a "discussion meeting" with the parties involved. (Both sides may be represented by counsel at this meeting.)

(5) If the Council feels at this stage that the complaint is justified and unresolved, it may refer the case to the Corporation Counsel for possible court action.

All phases of investigation and conciliation of complaints under the Council will be confidential, according to Dr. Jones.

Commissioner Tobriner, showing signs of strain, told the Washington AFRO-AMERICAN that he was glad the regulation had met with the approval of the people present.

"I'm glad it's over and I'm happy about the whole thing," he said. "I was really getting weary of so many questions being asked me at every turn I made."

D.C. CORE chairman Julius Hobson told newsmen he was satisfied with the order as an initial step and thought it was a very good order.

"But these things are always amended you know and I don't expect any radical change in the housing pattern right away." Hobson said.

"This Board of Commissioners has made the most significant contribution to this city in the 17 years I've been here."

He said CORE would start testing the regulations at properties managed or owned by Cacimiris, Cafritz, Smithy real estate firms.

Mrs. Elaine M. Robinson succumbs to heart attack

Mrs. Elaine Matthews Robinson of 2705 13th St., N E, Washington, D.C. died suddenly of a heart attack on Saturday.

A former Baltimorean, and the daughter of the late Wellington and Lela Mathews, she won a product of Baltimore schools, Morgan State College and Howard University.

She was employed as psychiatric social worker at the Children's Center, Laurel, Maryland for three years.

The rites were held Thursday, at the G. G. Kelson Funeral Home.

Survivors included three sisters: Mrs. Delores McAllister, Mrs. Gwendolyn Jackson and Miss Lolita Mathews; three brothers; Wellington, Charles and Milton, stepmother-Mrs. Ella Spriggs Matthews and other close relatives.

Henry Gresham

Henry L. Gresham, 51, 1112 Mosher St., died Saturday, while sitting in a chair near a window in his home.

Funeral services were held at the Charles R. Law Funeral Home, 802 Madison Ave., Thursday.

Burial was in Baltimore National Cemetery.

Mr. Gresham, a laborer, was born in King and Queen County, Va., and moved to Baltimore during his early 20's.

He was in the army during World War II.

He is survived by a daughter, Miss Arlene Gresham; and three sisters, Mrs. Bessie Walker, Mrs. Annie Harris and Miss Mahalia Gres-

Watson Jenkins

Watson I. Jenkins, 65, 1826 Madison Ave., died Sunday at City Hospitals. He had been hospitalized two weeks.

Funeral services were held Thursday at the Charles R. Law Funeral Home, 802 Madison Ave.

Burial was in Mt. Auburn Cemetery.

Mr. Jenkins, who had worked for the American Corporation Company for 27 and Davenport Jenkins and lived by two brothers, Yale four sisters, Mrs. Montray English, Mrs. Theodisa Johnson, Mrs. Jeanesta Gilbert and Mrs. Edna Watson.

Charles Young

Funeral services for Charles H. Young, 88, 1819 W. Franklin St., were held Sunday at Providence Baptist Church.

Burial was Monday in Mt. Auburn Cemetery.

Mr. Young, who had been a deacon at Providence for more than 35 years, died Christmas Eve.

He was born in Winnsboro, S.C. and his family moved to Salisbury, N.C. when Mr. Young was still young.

Around 1900, he came to Baltimore where he met and married his first wife, Mrs. Isabella Young, who died in 1940.

Later, he married his second wife, Mrs. Nannie Thomas Young, who died in 1951.

Mr. Young was an agent for the Mutual Benefit Society for approximately 25 years.

In 1915, he became interested in the mortician business which he pursued part - time until failing eyesight forced him to resign in 1950.

For 40 years, he lived at 741 George St.

He then lived with his sons George C. and Robert F. Young.

Other survivors include a brother, David Lott; a granddaughter, Miss Lois B. Young; and a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Odelle Young.

ing forward must be thrown out, Mr. Tydings said in reference to the late President's Civil Rights Bill, now bogged down in the mire of Congressional debate and wrangling.

On questions of equal job opportunities, housing, education and public accommodations for all the man who co-authored a civil rights bill (with them 4th District Verda F. Welcome) during his term as Delegate from Harford County to the Maryland General Assembly said:

"I firmly support the position of our late President on these matters, and made my position clear even before I became associated with him and his Administration."

FIRST CONSIDERED as only a mild threat to Mr. Goldstein's attempt to get the Democratic nod to oppose Senator Beall Mr. Tydings political stock was boosted mightily last week when David Hume, himself an unofficial candidate, withdrew and threw his support to the former Federal prosecutor.

Mr. Hume, who garnered 118,000 votes when he opposed Gov. Tawes in the 1960 gubernatorial primary, gave failing health as his reasons for withdrawing.

He heads the list of independent democrats who have climbed on the Tydings bandwagon, including, Hyman A. Pressman, city comptroller; C. Merdith Boyce, candidate for mayor in the last mayoralty election, and Philip H. Goodman, former mayor.

A platform, chartering the course Mr. Tydings will take in his effort beat the machine, will be released when he officially enters the race.
