Parties, parties and more parties kept holiday aglow

By MARIAN CAMPBELL

Poor weather conditions and bad roads did not prevent those invited to the Urbanites Xmas party from reaching the fabulous ranch-style home of Mr. and Mrs. James Phelps in Glen Burnie.

Were the guests surprised and thrilled when they were presented with 'His' and 'Her' Santa Claus grab bags, as the members exchanged their gifts. In the bags were an assortment of token gifts — pillboxes, minatures of Scotch and bourbon, purses containing rain scarves, key chains, cigarettes, pocket size manicuring sets, and boxes of small perfumed soaps.

Just as some thought it was time to bid farewell to the group, breakfast was served.

Guests were Misters and Mesdames Louis Jones, Joseph Press, Jr., Gerald Davis, David Scott, James Askew, Tyson Tildon, and the Elmer Hairstons of D. C. Also present were Doctors and Mesdames Archie Robinson and Theodore Patterson, Mrs. Mignon Oliver, and Messrs Aaron Jenkins, Donald Richardson, Donald Tarter, John Booker and Robert Atkins.

Husbands of members about were Misters Lawrence Willis, Ronald Rooks, Doctors Arthur Lamb and Oakley Saunders.

Mesdames Pattie Hodges, Norma Lamb, Noel Willis, Frances Saunders, Vivian Madison, Lola Matthews, Gwendolyn Rooks, Ruth Hunt, Misses Roberta Woodlow and Cleo Ashby constitute the club's roster.

Dr. Stanley Madison was involved in an accident enroute to the party.
