Alphas' Ball will spotlight January

With Lula Jones Garrett

With Lionel Hampton and his big band providing the music, the Alpha Midwinter Ball for the benefit of its scholarship fund is shaping up as the big social event of January, Wellington S. Ross, chairman of the affair reported Monday.

Mr. Ross, who disclosed that the demand for bids already had exceeded the supply, gave his optimistic report at the January meeting of Delta Lambda Chapter in the Poe Homes recreation room.

He said the formal Alpha ball, scheduled for Friday, Jan. 31 at the Alcazar is introducing something new in the area of benefit caberets.

The $15 tab provides not only an opportunity to swing with Lionel Hampton, but also includes an elaborate smorgasbord and all other refreshments, both liquid and solid.

Delivering his valedictory after serving three terms as the chapter's president, Frank R. Veney thanked the brothers for the cooperation during his administration and pledged similar support to the incoming administration.

"Let our stairway of the Delta Lambda Chapter be a highway and not a byway, a straight way and not a tributary way, a brotherhood of love and not a group of intellectuals only," he said.

Pierre Davis was installed as the new president by Dr. Clifton Jones, who substituted for Judge Joseph Waddy of Washington, who at the last minute was unable to be present.

Others who were inducted were Edward Young, vice president; Arthur Spencer, Secretary; R.G. Pinkett, financial secretary; Dr. Vernon Pennington, treasurer; Also Cliff W. Mackay, associate editor to the Sphinx; Alonzo P. Moss, chaplain; Cornelius S. Woodson, sergeant - at - arms; Dr. Clifton Jones, parliamentarian; and Clarence Blount and Dr. Benjamin Kimbers, lay members to the executive council.

Dennis Fisher, Morgan honor student and president of Beta Alpha chapter, thanked the graduate brothers for their interest and support of the undergraduates. He was accompanied by McKinley Hackett, also of Beta Alpha.

A number of new brothers, who recently moved to the Baltimore area were introduced by President Davis. Refreshments were served after the singing of the Alpha hymn marked the close of the meeting.

THAT FABULOUS "Round Robin" which the Por-Win-Ash Garden Club holds each year took on a new format, with loads of fun and surprises.

Beginning at Olga Chamber's Longwood Street home, the members started with cocktails, flavored with the best in music backed by the Chambers' musicians.

There they had classics as well as old tunes . . . and it took a tremendous tug to get the group started towards the next stop . . . Mr. and Mrs. Frank Veney's Springdale Avenue place.

There the trekers had a first course of soup and more music . . . via stereo, and then went on to the Powhatan Avenue abode of Mr. and Mrs. George Harding for a salad course, and music from the outside sifting in to the cosy setting before the blazing open fire.

Dinner at the Douglass Campers, across the street, held the group for a longer time, while they sampled the full course, from vegetables, home canned during the summer, to freshly baked hot rolls. From there they went on to the Hilton Road home of Dr. James Davidson, for a nightcap of champagne, sparkling burgundy, hot cider . . . and accompaniments.

On the trek were Dr. and Mrs. Albert Laforest, Bruce Alleyne, Dr. and Mrs. J. Bradshaw Higgins, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Bell, Dr. and Mrs. Gilbert Banfield, Miss Nellie Buchanan,

Dr. and Mrs. Charles Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Douglass Camper, Mrs. Olga Chambers, Mr. and Mrs. James Crowner, Dr. and Mrs. Charles Davidson, Dr. James Davidson, Mr. and Mrs. William Gosnell, Mr. and Mrs. George Harding,

Heating cost

It's possible today to heat your new home for substantially less than it costs to heat a smaller but older house, reports the Maryland Better Heating-Cooling Council.

This is due in large part to the higher quality insulation of new homes and new improvements in the design and installation of heating systems.

There have been remarkable developments, not only in equipment compactness and efficiency, but also in the tools that make installation less costly, says the Council.

Modern heating systems are not only more efficient than their older counterparts, but they are also better looking. Today, boilers can easily be mistaken for dishwashers, and wall-hugging baseboard heat distributors are unobtrusive.

With all these improvements, quality has not been sacrificed, notes the Council.

For instance, hydronic (hot water) heating systems, long considered a luxury system reserved only for higher-priced homes, have become competitive with other types of systems. The Council also reports that hydronic home heating systems are being installed in steadily increasing numbers in lower - and medium-priced homes.

2 jim crow units named to cure Montgomery ills

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — Two segregated committees have been appointed by city officials to work together to solve Montgomery's racial problems without "outside influence."

A total of 90 persons tabbed as local leaders have been picked by city officials to serve on the two community affairs committee—45 on the colored committee and 45 on the white committee.

• • •

"CITIZENS cannot abdicate their responsibilities in these matters to actions by outside influences," said a prepared statement released by city officials.

"These matters are," continued the statement, of local concern and local resolution. They are matters which require genuine solutions, not temporary or forced solutions."

• • •

CITY OFFICIALS hailed their appointment of segregated committees as the most comprehensive step taken to re-establish the lines of communication between the races since Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. led the successful bus boycott.

8000 in Mothers March to distribute warning cards

S. every year.

"Medical Science," she said, "is making remarkable progress on both these projects. Two such centers are March of Dimes supported at the Johns Hop
