Miss Hall finds 'fun' in school

Miss Rose M. Hall, 18, a senior at Southern High School, is a top student in every sense of the word.

She is an A-minus students, interested in extracurricula activities, a sports enthusiast, "interested in everything," and popular.

"I don't have difficulty with any of my subjects," she said.

Without having to be encumbered by the need for long study hours (she has high powers of concentration which permits her to absorb her school work in record time), she is able to turn her attention ot other activities.

SHE IS secretary of the senior class and secretary of Southern's National Senior Honor Society.

She is captain of the cheer leaders, plays badminton, basketball and volleyball.

Between classes, she helps to direct traffic in the hallways. Also, she is a junior Red Cross representative, a member of the officials club and the Girl's Sports Association.

SCHOOL FOR Miss Hall is fun."

"I guest I will have to wait Southern," she said.

She earn her highest grades in English and history. After graduation from high school, she wants to attend Towson State College, where she wants to major either English or history.

"I guest I will rave to wait until I begin my studies at Towson to see which subject I will study," she said.

After college, she wants to be a high school teacher.

In her serious moments, Miss Hall likes to ready mystery and romance stories.

DURING THE interview, Miss Hall advanced an interesting theory in reference to a current campaign to lower the voting age to 18.

She reasoned that since girls matured faster than males, perhaps girls should be granted the right to vote at 18 while boys wait until they are 21.

An interesting theory, but one that will never be approved by men.

Church of Deliverance.

Miss Hall is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hall, 509 Edgewood St., and she has two brothers, Richard and Clifton Hall; and two sisters, Sandra and Elaine Hall.

Allendale Rd. nursery reopening bid rejected

An appeal, asking permission to operate a day nursery at 2902 Allendale Rd., was rejected Tuesday by the Board of Municipal and Zoning Appeals.

This is the home in which a nursery was in operation last October, when a four-year-old girl died after receiving burns from a gas range there.

Mrs. Virginia C. Elliott, the operator of the establishment, was later fined $100 in Housing Court for failing to have the place licensed.

A Health Department official told the board Tuesday the place was still unlicensed, and his agency objected to the appeal to grant its reopening.

MRS. ELLIOTT named as an applicant, wanted to use the home's first floor as a nursery for eight children at $2 each per day.

Among the cases scheduled to be heard the coming Tuesday, beginning at 1 p.m. in Room 231, City Hall, are appeals asking:

The operation of a tailorshop at 648 N. Carey St.; a carry out shop at 1446 N. Bond St.; the sale and storage of furniture at 2739 W. North Ave.; the location of a used car sales establishment at 2328 W. Baltimore St.; and the continued use of the first floor at 101-03 E. 23rd St. for washing of cars.

Carver High accredited by education panel

Baltimore's Carver Vocational-Technical High School joins a select few vocational secondary schools in the nation to be fully accredited by a ranking education association.

Carver received its official notice of accreditation from the Commission on Secondary Schools of the Middle States Association of College and Secondary Schools this month, Dr. Saul M. Perdue, principal of the school, announced Thursday.

A 26-member committee of the MSACSS visited Carver for a three-day evaluation tour in March of last year. In its report issued along with accreditation this month the Middle States Association announced Carver's teaching program and recommended that Carver's class sizes be reduced, that additional textbooks and teaching personnel be acquired and that community advisers help in the school's job placement program.

Accreditation for Carver means that the school meets the standards estabilshed by the Middle States Association regarding vocational - technical schools.

Cherry Hill council hears McAllister on politics

The Cherry Hill Co-Ordinating Council had its kick-off membership dinner last Sunday at the Cherry Hill Homes Community Building with assistant States Attorney James McAllister as guest speaker.

Mr. McAllister discussed "Voting Opportunities in Cherry Hill." He encouraged citizens of Cherry Hill to meet the challenge of the civil rights struggle now going on in Baltimore and stressed the need for voting registration and greater turn-outs on election day.

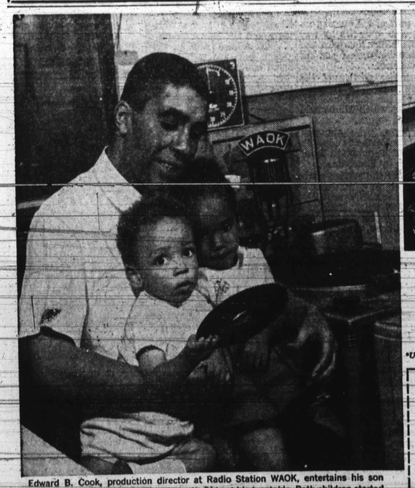
The attorney also said "... white politicians only recognize voting strength and not voting potentials" and that the Cherry Hill community has the greatest "bloc vote" in Baltimore City and should use it to greatest advantage.

The speaker was introduced by James L. Bundy, attorney and legal advisor to the Co-Ordinating Council and former assistant city solicitor.

The Rev. Nathaniel P. Perry, pastor of Cherry Hill Methodist Church, was master of ceremonies, Father Daniel Cassidy, Recor of St. Veronica's Catholic Church, gave the invocation, the Rev. John J. Clarke, pastor of the Cherry Hill First Baptist Church, the benediction.

Miss Anne Mercer, who is conducting a four - week course in "Vote and Register Tecrniques" for Cherry Hill residents and Shepard H. Burge Jr., president of the Council, also spoke.

The Youth Choir of the Pennsylvania Ave. A.M.E. Church sang. Miss Edna Simmons, a student of the Sarah J. Bundy School of Music was soloist.



Edward B. Cook, production director at Radio Station WAOK, entertains his son Edward, Jr., 1½, and daughter Kimberly, 3½, at his turntable. Both children started on formulas made with Carnation, world's leader for infant feeding.

Popular Atlanta disc jockey presents his "Small Combo"

They started on Carnation, stayed on Carnation...the milk with extra Vitamin D for strong bones, sound teeth and steady growth.

How does a law student become a radio star? Edward Cook did it with a dynamic personality and an urge to entertain that just wouldn't go away. As a pre-law student at Fisk University, he also concentrated on dramatics.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Cook are active in little theater groups. Mrs. Cook, a 1957 graduate of Louisville General Hospital School of Nursing, is an amateur artist—and an artist in the kitchen as well. When the Cooks entertain small groups at dinner, there is always a homemade cake, a frozen dessert, or a fabulous pie.

"Carnation makes such a heavenly cream pie filling," Mrs. Cook volunteers, "and such a tender cake. Best of all, it whips beautifully for homemade ice cream and frozen desserts!"

Mrs. Phyllis Cook prepares a bedtime snack for Kimberly—eggnog made with Carnation (her own recipe is below). "The children love cocoa made with Carnation, too—it's so creamy. And Carnation is the only milk they drink." Even when you add an equal amount of water, Carnation is richer than sweet, whole milk.*

*U.S.D.A. Handbook #8, "Composition of Foods."

CARNATION HIGH-PROTEIN EGGNOG
(Makes 1 large glassful)

1 egg
1 heaping teaspoon sugar
1 small can (⅔ cup) chilled undiluted CARNATION EVAPORATED MILK
½ cup cold water
Nutmeg
Vanilla

Separate egg white from yolk. Beat yolk and sugar with rotary beater until light. Add water to Carnation, then add to egg yolk mixture. Beat well. Chill. Beat egg white until fluffy. Beat well into mixture. Add a drop of vanilla flavoring if desired. Pour into large glass, and sprinkle with nutmeg.

Traffic judge suspends fine

"Your honor the accident occurred on Jan. 1, at about 4:00 a.m., by the time I arrived your honor, both cars were parked near the curb and I don't know who was right and who was wrong," said the patrolman

"Then suppose you tell me what happened," suggested Judge A. Jerome Diener, nodding his head in the direction of the defendant, Miss Peggy Gibbs, 25, of the 2600 block Beryl Ave., charged with reckless driving on New Year's Day.

"I was coming west on Pulaski Highway and when I crossed the intersection of Pulaski and Mounment St., this man made a sudden left turn into my lane.

"It had been snowing and I could not avoid hitting him, because the ground was slippery."

"OK," SAID the judge, "Mr. Davis what do you have to say?"

William C. Davis, 54, of the 1600 block Easter Ave., who was also charged with reckless driving explained:

Gibbs.

"She told you what happened, your honor. It was snowing and I had not seen her coming. That's about all I have to say."

"Miss Gibbs, not guilty, Mr. Davis, guilty, fine ($10) suspended, pay the court costs ($2)," concluded Judge Diener.
