WHY NEW BILL MUST PASS

Employment inequities key reason for civil rights bill

WASHINGTON

A recent government report tags bias-fed unemployment as a key reason why Congress needs to give speedy approval to the Civil Rights bill now under consideration.

Present remedies — and the government has several — seem clearly inadequate to rescue the colored unemployed from the chronic joblessness which discrimination has brought, according to the U.S. Commission On Civil Rights.

The Commission report pointed a prodding finger directly at Congress in three of its six recommendations for easing the crisis. Outlawing discrimination on federally-aided jobs was recommendation No. 1.

ALL THE recommendations were based on statistical findings which the Commission said show a clear pattern of failure of federal efforts to give much help to non-whites out of work. "Yet they — are the hardest hit."

The number of colored people participating in the governments three main programs for offsetting unemployment does not for the most part reflect the proportion they represent in the total unemployed, the report shows.

This condition stems from ills which Congress is being called on to correct, the report suggests.

THESE are the programs:

1. Title VIII of the National Defense Education Act (NDEA) which deals with the shortage of technicians.

2. The Manpower Development and Training Act (MDTA) which is concerned with retraining the unemployed.

3. The Area Redevelopment Act (ARA) which helps communities suffering from substantial and persistent unemployment.

The report listed a dozen reasons why colored people do not benefit a great deal from these programs. Most of the reasons are linked to the fact that non-whites can't even get into the programs.

THE REPORT cites these drawbacks to the programs:

1. Title VII funds may be granted segreated schools.

2. Title VIII courses in colored scrools may be second-rate.

3. More Title VIII courses were offered at white schools than at non-white schools.

4. Non-whites are "counseled out" of courses because of the employer and union discrimination they would face later.

5. Applicants lack the required academic background.

6. Neither ARA nor MDTA bans discrimination.

7. U.S. employment Offices continue to discriminate.

8. Programs in some Southern states are segregated.

9. Some states excluded non-whites outright.

10. Non-whites do not know about the programs.

11. ARA does not ban job placement discrimination.

12. 70.1 percent of colored ARA trainees were hired as laborers.

THESE DRAWBACKS demonstrate the need for Congress to act on the broad measure before it because it touches the several sides of the problem—hiring, referral, apprenticeship, training, education, and out-and-out racism.

Just how effective were these drawbacks in cutting the number of colored participants? The Commission's field study in Pittsburgh were especially revealing.

PARTICIPATION IN FIVE ARA PROGRAMS IN PITTSBURGH

Course	White	Colored
Appliance Repairman	21	4
Typewriter Repairman	19	4
Ignition mechanic	19	4
Stationary engineer	21	4
Building maintenance man	19	4

PARTICIPATION IN FIVE MIDA PROGRAMS IN PITTSBURGH

Electronics Tech
mechanic	24	1
Electronics Connalley mechanic Vos	23	2
Electronics McKeesport Vos	22	3
Electronics Turtle Creek Vos	23	2
Operating Room St. John's Hospital	20	5
Technician

It was in the South, of course, that the drawbacks were most telling. The Commission reported:

1. In no Southern state did the proportion of colored trainees equal or approach the...unemployment rate.

2. Nearly 85 percent of all ARA colored trainees were enrolled in agriculture courses.

3. Six states, with non-white employment rates of 19.6 to 40.5 percent, had no ARA programs.

4. All Alabama and Mississippi programs were segregated.

5. Arkansas ARA programs were segregated and non - white were excluded from some MDTA projects.

6. None of Alabama's ARA trainees were colored.

7. A segregation law excluded non-whites from one of 12 courses in South Carolina.

8. Non-whites most often were retrained as farm machine operators, clothing pressers, and auto mechanics.

THESE CONDITIONS prompted the Commission to make the following guiding recommendations to Congress:

Enact legislation establishing a right to equal opportunity in employment...assisted by the Federal Government or (which affects interstate commerce. Provide...funds for persons who lack education at prerequisites needed to qualify for technician and other vocational courses. Provide manpower funds to permit training in functional literacy and basic work skills.

Amend the manpower and vocational legislation to permit the government to make direct arrangements with other than state agencies when state agencies (fail) to provide desegregated programs

Perhaps the rights clamor created in the streets last spring and summer seems pointless to Congress, but the legislators can hardly ignore these clear demands from an agency they themselves sent out to probe the problem.

Talk depicts African life as revealed by novelist

NEW YORK — Ambassador Mercer Cook recently lectured on "African Life as Seen by the African Novelist" at the New York offices of the American Society of African Culture.

Dr. Cook delivered the lectured just before returning to his post to Niger. He was in New York this fall serving on the U.S. Delegation to the U.N.

THE FORMER professor of Romance Languages at Howard University discussed the African scene as revealed in the novels of contemporary African authors from such countries as Cameroon, Congo, Dahomey, Guinea, Ivory Coast, Niger, Nigeria, Senegal, Sierra Leone and South Africa.

He spoke of the variety of techniques used by the African writer to depict the life and heritage of his people and to express their aspiration to independence and equality.

ALTHOUGH THE African novelists are relatively few in number and although almost none of them is able to devote full time to writing, there are many examples of works that would reflect credit on any literature, Dr. Cook said.

"The African novelists have the experience, the talent, the imagination, the objectivity to see that in the complex reality of the new Africa, the material for a masterpiece is at their fingertips."

FLINT, Mich. — A huge picture of the late President, John F. Kennedy disappeared from the wall of the main post office here last week. Post Officials are puzzled because the size of the picture —32 by 42 inches — made inconspicuous removal impossible.

Incidentally, the walls of the new postoffice are glass on three sides. When the picture was discovered missing, it was noted that a photo of the Postmaster General was still in its position of prominence. The two photographs had been placed side by side.

CENTER FOR DROPOUTS

NEW YORK (NNPA)—The first of six training centers for school dropouts was dedicated last week in East Harlem by Mayor Robert Wagner and Mayor Dona Felisa Ricon de Gautier of San Juan, Puerto Rico.

N.C. native is named Jaycee Man of the Year' in Pennsylvania

BETHLEHEM, Pa. — When a boy in his native Asheville, N. C., he probably never dreamed of becoming the local Chamber of Commerce's "Young Man of the Year." Young boys like him just didn't have such dreams—for the southern system" wouldn't even allow them in the running.

Nevertheless, last week the Rev. R. Wakefield Roberts was named Bethlehem's "Young Man of the Year"—and by the local Junior Chamber of Commerce —for his "outstanding work in the community."

And when the Jaycee delegation informed him, he appeared nearly as surprised as if his hometown had given him the honor.

"You must have made a mistake," said the Rev. Mr. Roberts. "What have I done this year to deserve such an award?"

HIS PRETTY wife, Constance, had a ready, accurate answer.

"He works a full seven-day week," she said.

Rev. Mr. Roberts, 35, is a forceful, indefatigable man. His work doesn't end as pastor of St. John's AME Zion Methodist Church.

Terribly active in community affairs, he is traffic manager at the Fountain Hill Mills, Northampton County Area Migrant farmer chaplain, executive secretary of the Civic Community League, chairman of the J. F. Goodwin Scholarship Fund and a member of the Bethlehem Human Relations Committee.

BEFORE A gathering of about 200 Jaycees, their wives and guests at a banquet, Rev. Mr. Roberts received the award of four presented. Atty. Robert A. Holland made the presentation.

Rev. Mr. Roberts is one of the founders of the Civic Community Leagues, which was organized to make the "American dream" an every day reality rather than an occasion as present only on the observation of Race Relations Sunday and National Brother hood Week.

He has been pastor of St. John's since 1956. His first pastoral assignment was at the St. Paul's Church, Gettysburg, where he served from 1953 until he came to St. John's.

The son of a Methodist minister who was also a school principal, Rev. Mr. Roberts attended the City College of Bayonne, N. J. and later graduated from Lincoln (Pa.) University.

He also served as a special service paratrooper in the U. S. Army, receiving an honorable discharge.

Married for 12 years, the Roberts have four children; Michael 9, Garry, 6; Pamela, 5; and Lynn, 2.

Members of the Jaycee committee that selected the Rev. Mr. Roberts were: Atty. Holland, Dr. Paul Budura, Dr. Charles E. Chaffee president, and Raymond Dietz, city councilman.

Miss. firm mixes trainee program, finds world did not come to an end

WASHINGTON

A ship - building company at Pascagoula is proving that colored and white Mississippians can study together and work together as equals without the world come to an end.

Ingalls Shipwelding Corp. the first firm in the nation to conduct a full-scale training program through the Manpower Development and Training Act, is running its program with "complete racial integration".

Colored and white trainees attend all classes and receive all instruction together, a spokesman for the U. S. Labor Department said Friday.

THREE FULL time training programs are designed to teach the skilled and technical arts of shipbuilding to 90 young men from Jackson County and surrounding areas. This is their first contact with the shipbuilding industry.

Following completion of the pre-employment training program, the Labor Department said, graduates will be eligible for employment in various job classifications within the hull division.

Students selected for these programs must be between the ages of 18 and 35, high school graduates or the equivalent, have the ability to pass standardized aptitude tests for "shipfitters", and be physically fit for construction work.

[In addition, they must be screened by the Mississippi State Employment Service before referral to Ingalls for interview and selection.

THE FIRST phase of Ingalls' three-part program started last Dec. 2, with an enrollment of 30 students.

During the pre-employment period, which lasts about three months, students attend classes eight hours a day, five days a week. Training is being conducted by specially trained instructors at the company's Small Boat Division facility just north of the main plant.

"I need not tell you how important it is to keep our City well above the 100,000 mark."

DR. JACKSON noting that an estimated 64,000 voters are in danger of losing their registration because of change of address without notification to the Supervisors of Elections, said Thursday:

"Our intention is to get as many of these persons back on the books correctly registered.

"At the same time, we are going to conduct a city-wide campaign for registration of new voters. We hope to have at least 10,000 new voters registered for the May primary."

Supervisors of Elections tabulations showed a record high of 120,733 colored citizens registered as eligible voters for the municipal elections here last year.

Voter registration campaigns, spearheaded by the NAACP with full cooperative efforts by many other community organizations, raised the eligible voters to the 120,733 count, from 85,999 in July, 1960.

LAST YEAR, however, the Supervisors of Elections officials did some close checking on their registration books and came up with a set of figures, as of July 26.

They tallied 107,729 colored Democrats and Republicans in the city. No racial break down was given on the 6,575 registered as independents or other affiliated with either party.

This drop from 120,733 was credited by officials as a result of duplicate registrations and other errors in handling records.

Mrs. Juanita J. Mitchell, NAACP attorney and veteran in prior vote registration drives, told the AFRO:

"THE NAACP, as always, will undertake a community-wide effort to reach the hundreds of unregistered citizens to get them on the book

"We will also be the head a special effort to have those voters who have not Elections of their new address to do so immediately.

"All over the country 1600 NAACP branches, in response to National Convention directives, in the midst of voter registration efforts, have rallied in all - out support, especially in this important election year.

"We intend to do exactly what our 1963 National Convention directs, 'To defeat candidates with bad civil rights records.' And in order to assure that this is done we must register and we must vote."

Dennis Branch, 77, Tenn. medic, dead

NEWPORT, Tenn. (ANP) — Dr. Dennis Branch, well-known physician who practiced in Cocke County for nearly 50 years, died at his home last week at the age of 77.

Dr. Branch was regarded as a personal friend of many of the state's top political leaders, and few governors congressmen and senators passed through Newport without a visit to the elderly doctor. Friends estimated more than 90 per cent of his clients were white.

In 1958, members of the American Medical Association took him to Hollywood on the pretext of having him deliver an address to an AMA meeting. Instead he appeared on "This is Your Life," which took him from days as a shoeshine boy in Raleigh, N. C., through his struggles for a medical education.

Yours was a heart that was blithe-some and gay,
Scattering sunshine all along the way.
You know how I loved you, and, yes you love you relatives
Though God took you from us, we cannot forget.
DEVOTED SON—JAMES.

MORRIS — In memory of my mother, ANNIE, who passed away January 28, 1963 and father, GEORGE, who passed away January 29, 1952:
Somewhere above this troubled world,
Safe beyond all grief and care,
My parents rest in heavenly peace
God grant someday we'll meet them there.
DAUGHTER and GRANDCHILDREN

NEWKIRK — In loving memory of our dear husband and our father, STUART C. NEWKIRK, who passed away February 1, 1962:
God saw the road was getting rough,
The hills were hard to climb,
He gently closed his loving eyes
And whispered: "Peace to rest."
His weary hours, his days of pain,
His weary nights are past;
His overpatient, worn - out frame
Has found sweet rest at last.
Loving Wife, ANNIE
Sons, WILLIAM and CROSBY

PERSON — A tribute of respect in memory of our husband, EMMITT, who passed away February 3, 1959:
Sunshine passed, shadows fall,
Love remembrance outlasts all.
And though the years be many or few,
They are filled with remembrance dear of you.
Devoted Wife, SYLVIA.

PHILLIPS — In blessed memory of FRANK PHILLIPS JR., who died February 5, 1962:
"If Thou shouldest ask me to resign
What most I prize, it ne'er was mine
I only yield Thee what is Thine:
Thy will be done."
THE FAMILY.
