Mrs. Motley wins in NY senate try

NEW YORK — New York yesterday got its first colored woman Senator.

She is Mrs. Constance Baker Motley, the 42 - year - old NAACP. attorney who beat the seggies in Mississippi to get James Meredith enrolled at the University of Mississippi. She will represent the 21st Senate District in Manhattan.

Running as Democrat in the special election, Mrs. Motley defeated Thomas G. Weaver, Republican, and Mrs. Hazel Allen, Liberal. The vote was as follows: Motley, 3,555; Mr. Weaver, 2,261; Mrs. Allen, 134.

• • •

THE UPPER West Side district which Mrs. Motley will represent includes Morningside Heights and West Harlem. She will fill the seat left vacant when James L. Watson was elected a City Civil Court judge.

She is married to Joel Wilson Motley, an insurance and real estate agent. They have a son, Joel Jr., 11. She has been an NAACP lawyer since 1946 and has handled some of its most important school desegregation cases.

The Legislature previously had a colored woman member, Mrs. Bessie Buchanan, who sat in the Assembly, representing a Harlem district. She did not run for reelection in 1962. The senate had not had a colored woman member.

FAMILY FARE

Report From Europe

By OLLIE STEWART

PARIS — The last time I saw Carl Rowan was here in Paris as he was enroute to the States after a trip to India, and stopped by to say hello.

He spent most of the afternoon just gossiping, but even sitting down talking, Rowan gave the impression of a man in a hurry.

The first time I saw him was in Nashville. I was covering a conference at Fisk, and Rowan was a young man with a hankering to write. At the time he wanted to make contact with the editor of the AFRO. I furnished the contact. He was in a hurry in those days.

• • •

NOW HIS hurry has taken him to what people say is the highest job in the U.S. government that any colored man ever held — that of chief of the United States Information Agency.

I like the guy. I think he's going to do well. But I don't envy him. This is a hotspot a lot different from being an ambassador in a little country like Finland.

This is a spot that keeps your head up high enough for anybody to take a shot at it. It's also ulcer-making.

• • •

CARL ROWAN doesn't need advice from this space. But I'm still gonna make a little suggestion. It's this: Carl, ole man, you are quoted as saying that you aim to be a good successor to Ed Murrow. That's fine. But don't forget what happened to Murrow. He ended up in the hospital.

Hangover deal. The sale of wheat to Russia hasn't bothered me one little bit. The same for the sale of chickens to Europe, and cars to countries all over the world. But I confess to being intrigued by a deal some weeks that's probably finished by now.

It's between the USA and Russia, and it involves the sale of 30,000 tons of American alcohol to make vodka.

I shake when I think of all the headaches and hangovers that alcohol is going to be responsible for.

Man, that stuff is going to be turned into 45 million gallons of vodka, twice the amount of Scotch whisky drunk in the United States each year — and the cats get awful high on the Scotch that hits the rocks.

• • •

THE RUSSIANS are shelling out about $500,000 for the alcohol, but when it turned into Vodka, they're going to tear up a lot of heads.

In some of my weak moments, I've tackled vodka. It's sneaky stuff. Mix it with orange juice and you get an innocent little drink that tastes good enough for the kiddies. But toss off two or three and the the top of your head blasts off.

The Russians, but, however, have learned to control it (so they say). They use the stuff as a secret weapon when they get some American diplomats hemmed up in an embassy, or a weekend resort.

• • •

AND they always try to move all the potted plants out of the way — back in a corner somewhere — so that the poor plants won't get drinks of vodka the diplomats can't handle.

MISS GWENDOLYN WILSON of Winston - Salem, N.C., commissioned as a second lieutenant in the U.S. Army Nurse Corps, is sworn-in by Lt. Col. William Goode, professor of military science, at A and T College in Greensboro, N. C., last week.

Miss Wilson earns $350 month while studying at A&T College

GREENSBORO, N.C. — One A and T College coed is probably nearer "rich" than any other among the near 3,000 students enrolled at the college.

Gwendolyn Wilson, Winston Salem, N.C., a senior and honor student in the A and T College School of Nursing who last week began earning more than $350.00 per month, all while going to college and with no tuition to pay or books to buy, is the "Cinderella" coed.

• • •

IT ALL COMES about because she is now a second lieutenant in the U.S. Army Nurse Corps. She was commissioned last week, in special ceremonies, exactly six months prior to her graduation in June and called immediately to active duty. Her active duty assignment is to attend classes which will lead to her coming graduation, a special provision and opportunity under the U.S. Army Student Nurse Program.

Not many people know it around the A and T campus, but Miss Wilson has been in the Army since her junior year. Her pay during the past year has been that of a private first-class, including daily rations, amounting to about $227.00 per month, with no tuition to pay or books to purchase.

• • •

IN THE SWEARING-in ceremonies, conducted last week by Lt. Col. William Goode, professor of military science and in charge of the U.S. Army ROTC Detachment at the college, she stood at rapt attention durng proceedings.

But just as soon as she signed the necessary papers to make her an Army officer, she broke into a broad grin and said, "Imagine, I've suddenly become a full grown woman, financially able to pay my way through college."

AFTER A SIX-WEEK basic training program this summer, Miss Wilson expects to be assigned to the Washington, D. C., Walter Reed Hospital for one year, as a stateside assignmnt, and for foreign duty, she expects to eign duty, she expects to request assignment in Germany.

How to determine if you're poor

WASHINGTON — (NNPA) — Administration economists say a family, whose annual income, from all sources before taxes, is $3,000 a year or less, is poor.

Such a family has a weekly income of less than $60 a week.

For a family of four such an income would mean $5 per week per person for food.

If housing costs $800 a year a highly conservative estimate of the cost of mortgage or rent payments, utilities and heat—only $1,200 would remain for all other expenses.

That would mean less than $25 a week for clothing, transportation, school supplies and books, home furnishings and supplies, personal care, recreation, insurance, medical care and everything else.

If this is your situation, brother, you are knee-deep in poverty.

Douglass home to become Art Museum

WASHINGTON — The home of Frederick Douglas at 316 A St., NE, is scheduled to become a museum of African Art, according to report, this week.

This is the plan of Warren M. Robbins, a former Foreign Service officer, who is now working to set up the museum.

• • •

MR. ROBBINS says the museum will be designed to "use what we learn from art to understand more about people." He says that he already has promises of some 200 works of art from leading collectors, including the long-term loan of a substantial selection from the University of Pennsylvania Museum.

The exhibits will be designed to show the rich and sophisticated cultural history of colored peoples, according to Mr. Robbins.

• • •

SAYS MR. ROBBINS:

"African and modern art will be shown in combination to illustrate the influence that African sculpture has had upon modern artists such as Picasso, Matisse, Modigliani, Braque, the German expressionists, the French Fauves, and others.

"Equal regard as well as equal rights must be achieved."

Philodendron easy-to-grow house plant

Looking for a house plant that's easy to grow?

Choose a philodendron. According to the U. S. Department of Agriculture, the philodendron grows better than most other house plants under conditions found inside most modern homes. They do well as long as they are kept warm, moderately moist, and out of direct sunlight.

• • •

SOME EVEN are resistant to cold.

The Philodendron selleum, for example, can withstand temperature close to freezing. It also grows prolifferously. One plant displayed in a Washington, D.C., department store boasted a diameter of 15 feet.

You can buy philodendron plants almost anywhere —at florist shops and supermarkets, at drug, or dime and department stores. There are many varieties.

Of the two most common, P. oxycardum has heart-shaped leaves and P. pertusuni, large perforated leaves. But there are also philodendrons with cute leaves, irregularly shaped leaves, even leaves shaped like daggers.

• • •

MOST OFTEN, philodendrons are grown on trellises or moss - covered poles. These plants need to be fastened to the support. You can get green, paper - covered wire for this purpose at a florist shop or dime store. Or you can use common pins.

When the plant grows to the end of the trellis, cut back the stems to force new branches. Start this new growth winding down the trellis. Increase the light and decrease the amount of water.

• • •

To get philodendron leaves to shine, wash them once a month with soap and water.

FASHION NOTE — Riding high on spring's fashion scene is the empire - lined coat created by Jacques Tiffeau in wide-waled wool ottoman. Belted just below the bustline in sleek white fringed kid, the coat falls plumb-line straight to the hem, showing off a fly front closing en route. Collarless and with the cuffed shirt sleeves that are a signature of the perfect top coverage for any daytime hour.

Tintz makes streaked hair lovely black

If you are displeased with hair that has begun to become streaked with unbecoming gray, try Tintz.

Tintz is different from liquid or capsule dyes. Instead it is a creamy shampoo in a tube to which the finest, lasting kind of hair coloring has been added. Simple to use, you just squeeze the shampoo into a saucer and mix in the liquid activator that comes right with the package. There is nothing else to buy.

• • •

YOU APPLY TINTZ just as directed, either like a shampoo or with a small brush like a tooth brush. The shampoo action spreads the color evenly and in just 17 minutes you gray, faded, burnt, utes your gray, faded, burnt, streaked, off, color hair is Instead, your hair is beautiful with a shining black, jet black or dark brown shade ... whichever shade you choose. Most important, so natural looking is your hair color, everyone thinks it's the young looking shade you were born with.

• • •

BECAUSE TINTZ is a creme and because it has special hair beautifying conditioners added, your hair is soft, smooth and ever so much easier to manage and dress. And TINTZ doesn't fade or rub off. Only occasional touch - ups are needed where new hair grows out at roots, temple or parting. TINTZ doesn't interfere with process treatments or hot ments.

Tintz Creme Color Shampoo Coloring isn't a cheap dye ... it sells for $1.50 which is a little bit more. But when it comes to your hair, always comb straightheat treat- get the best.

NIDB BANK

WASHINGTON — (NNPA) — The International Finance Corporation, an affiliate of the World-Bank, has joined with Nigerian, American European and Japanese investment institutions to form the Nigerian Industrial Development Bank (NIDB).

Initial capital resources of NIDB will amount to $11.9 million (4.25 million Nigerian pounds). The NIDB is a reconstruction of the four - year- old Investment Company of Nigeria (ICON) which has been managing the Lagos Stock Exchange.

COOKING IS FUN:

Pot-Pourri of ideas spark winter meals

Tempt winter-jaded appetites with a favorite summertime dessert like peach or strawberry shortcake.

Prepare biscuit dough, adding a little sugar with the enriched flour and other dry ingredients, if you wish:

Bake the biscuits, split and fill with thawed frozen peaches or strawberries and top with whipped cream.

• • •

NEXT TIME you have dry bread to make into crumbs, prepare this nutritious topping for a casserole

Add grated cheese to the bread crumbs and stir together. Refrigerate the mixture in a covered jar up to several weeks and use ½ cup or more to sprinkle on your favorite casseroles or vegetable dishes.

• • •

COLD WINDS, outside call for hot, filling meals with lots of homemade goodness.

When you feel like treating your family to a special treat, served your family chicken with dumplings? This nutritious old-fashioned treat is a favorite with both kids and husbands.

• • •

GET YOUR family off to a brisk nutritious start these cold mornings with a good breakfast of sausage pancakes.

Fry slices of link sausage (brown and serve sausages speed up preparation time) and add to the pancake batter.

Bake the pancakes and fry apple rings in the sausage drippings to serve with them.

• • •

TURN LEFTOVER plain cake into a delectable mock English trifle. Slice the cake thinly and spread half the slices with strawberry jam.

Cover the jam slices with the plain slices and cut into small cubes: Dip the cubes quickly in orange juice.

Prepare instant vanilla pudding according to package directions and gently fold in the cake cubes. Chill and top with whipped cream to serve.

• • •

ACCOMPANY roast beef with hot, puffy Yorkshire pudding for an authentic British touch.

About 50 minutes before dinner time prepare you favorite popover recipe, omitting any fat called for in the batter.

Into each of eight custard cups pour 1 teaspoon beef drippings, then add the popover batter. Bake according to recipe directions. Serve hot, hot, hot.

• • •

A TASTY FRUIT cobbler to top off a winter meal is as easy as opening a can of fruit and preparing muffin batter.

To make a quick cobbler, drain and heat slowly the contents of a 1 pound, 14-oz. can of fruit, adding spices and grated orange rind for more flavor, if desired.

Meantime, stir up a muffin batter based on 1 cup of flour.

Turn the hot fruit mixture into a 1 quart casserole and top with spoonfuls of the muffin batter.
