Kenyatta tells people to forget the past

NAIROBI, Kenya — (NNPA) — Prime Minister Jomo Kenyatta urged his people Monday to forget the difficulties and hatreds "of those years which now belong to history."

Addressing the nation on the 12th anniversary of his arrest by British authorities at the start of the Mau Mau difficulties, he said Africans were taking over more and more government posts, but outside help still was needed if Kenya would continue its development plans.

Mr. Kenyatta said it is important for Kenyans to make foreigners "feel at home" and to assure them that the job they are doing is appreciated.

Luthuli barred from award trip

PRETORIA — Chief Albert Luthuli, tre second colored man in history to be awarded the Nobel Peace Prize, was denied permission by the South African government last week to travel to New York to receive one of the first annual awards from the Society for the Family of Man.

The award, which was to have been given Wednesday, cites the Zulu chieftain and leader of the banned South African National Congress for "leadership of non - violent opposition to South Africa's racial separation policy. It carries a $5,000 stipened.

Luthuli has been restricted to his home village of Groutville near Durban since 1959 under a South African government decree.
