In the Orphans Court for Carroll County, April Term 1856.

Whereas Lloyd M. Southron a free colored boy who on the twenty fifth day of March, in the year eighteen hundred and fifty seven, will be Seventeen years of age, and being a child of Ann Jenkins, formerly a free negro woman, ^{residing in Frederick County, Maryland} and it appearing to this Court, upon due examination, that it would be better for the habits and comfort of the said free colored boy that he should be bound as an apprentice to some white person to learn to perform labor. The Court therefore on this fifth day of May, in the year eighteen hundred and fifty six by their presents do place and bind out the said Lloyd M. Southron free colored boy as an apprentice to Rachel Cookson of Carroll County, Maryland until he the said Lloyd M. Southron free colored boy shall arrive at the age of twenty one year, during all which time he the said Lloyd M. Southron free colored boy shall well and faithfully serve, and in all things obediently obey the said Rachel Cookson his said Mistress, and shall also quietly and orderly demean himself towards all the members of his said Mistress family. And the said Rachel Cookson on her part shall at all times during the term of his apprenticeship, give furnish and provide for the said Lloyd M. Southron free colored boy her said apprentice, good and sufficient boarding, meat, drink, clothing, washing, lodging, and all other necessary and requisite things and fit, proper and convenient for such an apprentice, also shall by the best way or means she can teach her said apprentice, or cause him to be taught to perform the different kinds of labor required in farming; and also shall give to her said apprentice when free the sum of Seventy five dollars in cash and a new suit of clothes suitable for Sunday wear.

In Witness whereof we hereto subscribe our names
