Powell calls civil rights leaders political blanks

WASHINGTON (NNPA) — Rep. Adam Clayton Powell said Friday the nation's civil rights leaders had little to do with the huge upsurge in racial voting that contributed to the wreckage of the Republican Party in last week's election.

It was the "black sidelash," represented by "hundreds of thousands of colored voters that rejected Goldwater racism," the Harlem Democrat asserted, emphasizing that "the leaders of the civil rights movement don't mean anything politically."

The first of the six colored Congressmen to meet the press following the Democratic landslide, Powell said the civil rights movement "should now shift emphasis and area of involvement" toward greater political activity and economic development.

"AS NEGROES become increasingly successful in American politics," he added, "their intelligent use of the power of political office to secure more patronage, more jobs and a larger share of the political spoils . . will obviate the need for much civil rights activity."

He warned that colored leaders "who only exist because they enjoy a second-class status as colored leaders," and not as business men or politicians or financiers, "must devote their energies toward the realization of the goals of excellence."

and a magistrate at Northern Police Station under the McKeldin governship, and has for years worked closely with police in crime prevention organizations.

He is currently a vice president of the Criminal Justice Commission and possessor of a lucrative private law practice.

"I think the advisors around the mayor are largely responsible," Mr. Fanseen replied in answer to a query on why nothing better has come his way. "Certain of them are not anxious to have me as a part of the administration."

He has been publicly critical of the mayor's proposed earning tax since the plan was advanced.

TURNING his comments to his Republican party in general and some of its leaders, Mr. Fanseen said:

"They have got to realize they must start making friends for the party. I think more people in the Republican party must spend a lot of time with people in neighborhood areas, learning their problems and how best to meet them.

"The party leadership now seems to be lending itself toward alienating the very people they need for survival, and trying to turn it into an exclusive organization.

"If this continues, I will be forced to leave the party. It will be offering nothing in view to entice me to stay."

As one unusual phase of this new GOP leadership, he recalled a uniformed guard was stationed at party headquarters election night to keep out supporting members of the public. He almost didn't get in himself.

Haiti executes pair for treason

PORT AU PRINCE, HAITI (UPI)—Two young Haitians in their twenties were executed in public in the Port Au Prince cemetary by a firing squad early Thursday. They had been convicted of treason.

The men were identified as Marcel Numa and Louis Drouin, each about 25. They were members of a 13 man invasion force which landed in Haiti last August. The other 11 men were killed the com-

The executions touched off a popular demonstration of support for President François Duvalier, Haiti's President for life. Peoply marched through streets from the cemetery to the national palace to salute the president.

An official communique said the 13 man band which landed in Haiti last August had been armed and trained in a "foreign country." It was assumed the reference was to the neighboring Dominican Republic.

if he confessed to the crime he would be permitted to go home after the four-hour interrogation.

A large portion of the two-day trial was devoted to the admissibility of the confession.

Howard G. Reaner, defense attorney, contended that neither the accused youth nor his mother had been informed that they had a right to consult a lawyer and that it would have been unnecessary for her son to give any statement at all.

James W. McAllister, the prosecuting attorney, argued that the statement was admissible because the youth wanted of his own free will to give the confession.

Judge Prendergast ruled that the confession's admissibility would be up to the jury, of six men and six women.

Policeman Mary LaPante, who was present at various times while the boy was being questioned, said Summerville told one story for two hours.

This story, according to the youth, was that he was ironing a pair of pants, when he heard his sister screaming and found her on fire.

In the statement however, the youth said he set fire to his sister because he was angry with his mother. He said she did not take him back to school after he was suspended.

Final arguments will be heard today (Friday).

"THE ONLY ballots I gave approval to were those favoring all the questions.

"I wouldn't go against any rights for the colored people. I believe in them.

"Whoever did that printed and circulated the ballots urging votes against Question 5) did so without any knowledge of mine.

"That was a maverick ballot, as far as I am concerned. And I wouldn't like to find out who did it so I can take them to court."

Mr. Kennedy said he managed a Democrats for Beall headquarters in the campign.

MARY LOU McCRAY

Thanks to our relatives, friends, the Knights of Pythians and Mortticians Morton and Dyett for expressions of sympathy and assistance during our recent bereavement at the passing of our mother and grandmother. "We cannot, Lord, Thy purpose see, but all is well that's done by Thee."
The McCRAY FAMILY.

Mrs. Lillian Simmons of Washington, D. C. sister of the late Rev. Bessie Windbee wishes to express her gratitude to the many friends neighbors, the Rev. M. E. Silver of the Concord Baptist Church and all organizations for their expressions of sympathy, for their beautiful floral tributes during my recent bereavement. I would also like to express my gratitude for the splendid service of Mr. Rayner Sanders, Funeral Director.
