TIPS FOR PARENTS

How to 'shorten' a child's hospital stay

THE WORLD of children is full of happy things like lollipops and learning to read birthdays and bicycles, grammar school and visits to grandma.

Sometimes a case of measles or mumps, or even the sniffles, invades the happy-go-lucky world of childhood and slow down a youngsters for a few days. Parents hope nothing more serious than a brief stay-at-home illness will strike because a stay for a young child isn't a pleasant thought.

But it does happen. Government statistics indicate 10 per cent of all hospital patients are between the ages of 5 and 14. A youngster's hospital stay might be caused by something as simple as a tonsillectomy, as elusive as a virus, or as complicated as a defective heart valve.

WHATEVER THE reason for hospitalization, the importance of preparing a child for a trip to the hospital is recognized by wise parents. Kimberly - Clark Corporation offer these suggestions to help children accept and understand hospital care:

1. Whenever your child visits the doctor for a regular medical check-up, emphasize that the doctor and nurse both want him to be well and happy.

2. After visiting a hospitalized adult, be sure your conversation in front of children emphasizes that "Aunt Minnie is getting well in the hospital" or that "Uncle Joe's pain is all gone, thanks to the doctor's care."

3. Explain the physical set-up of the hospital in language he understands. Tell him of hospital rules and the reasons for them — why he can't have candy, why he must eat specially-prepared meals; why he can't run around as he does at home.

4. Let him take his favorite toy with him and if the hospital allows it, his own pajamas too. If he has something familiar with him, he is more likely to accept being away from home.

5. Tell him when you will visit him. Don't make promises that can't be kept. He'll look forward to visiting hours, so be sure to enter his room with a smile. Bring a small gift when you visit, something that will break the monotony of the hospital day. It might be a new book to read or color or a booklet his doctors and nurses can autograph for him. It might be a cheerful Kleenex tissues dispenser like a plush Lucky Lion that not only brightens a child's room, but is useful too. And the lion dispenser will be sure to find a place in his room at home too, providing fun and comfort and handy pop-up tissues whether he's sick or well.

6. Encourage friends and relatives to send cards or letters. Children love to open mail.

7. Personal gifts and color to a hospital room. If they're from brothers, sisters or playmates they'll have extra meaning. Brother could send a ballon that can be tied to the bedpost. Sister might contribute an original finger painting.

A get-well telegram from Grandma and Grandpa will be displayed with pride, and a bouquet of favorite flowers is a welcome surprise for a young lady patient.

8. Finally, don't try to fool him. If it's going to hurt, he'll find out about it. Tell him honestly the general procedure the doctor will follow, and explain that he's going to the hospital to get well.

Following these suggestions might not make a youngster's hospital stay any shorter, but the days will go by faster, and he'll remember the hospital as the place he "got well."

Wash light and dark-colored wool knits separately to keep them from depositing lint on each other.

New school aid cut ½ in 1st budget okey today

A city budget allowing a two-cent decrease in the present $4.14 property tax rate, if Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin's proposed earnings tax is adopted, is expected to be approved by the Board of Estimates today (Friday).

The board was set to take final action on the budget Thursday afternoon, when a hassle developed over a proposed 10 per cent increase in water rates.

Following an hour and a half in executive session, this proposal was knocked out.

Charles L. Benton, budget director, said afterwards the property tax rate would likely be hiked by 49 cents without approval of the mayor's tax, on basis of the budget he would submit today.

IT IS a budget in which the Department of Education asked for an increase of $15,500,000, and is being allotted $7,800,000, approximately half the request.

This and other departmental allotments, as finally okeyed by the board, will not be certain.

The City Council, which has final say, is empowered to make further cuts. It cannot restore cuts, however, made by the board.

Thomas D'Alesandro 3rd, Council president, has served notice cuts are certain to be made by the Council, in support of his austerity program and a now major portion of the councilmen's opposition to the earnings tax.

High school students have been picketing City Hall at Board of Estimates meeting times, urging a liberal school budget. They were there again Thursday afternoon.

Gets city commission seat by margin of 22

SAFETY HARBOR, Fla. (UPI) — William Blackshear 29, won a city commission seat here Tuesday by outpolling three other candidates by a 22 vote margin.

Blackshear was the first colored candidate elected to the commission of this small town north of St. Petersburg on the Florida Gulf Coast. He was opposed for the seat by three white men and received 239 of the 892 total vote cast.

1965 summer rights plan targets 2 northern cities

NEW YORK (NPI)—Come the summer of 1965, and another type of a "long, hot summer" will be visited upon at least two northern states, under the leadership of a 27-year-old who majored in psychology at Harvard.

William Strickland, who is executive director of the Northern Student Movement, announced here last week plans for a comprehensive invasion of two states—one in the Midwest and the other in the Northeast—aimed at "organizing people around poverty."

According to Strickland and his group, the central issue in the civil rights fight is "no longer integration. The issue is poverty."

WITH SOME 300 young persons from the North, most of them college students, the NSM launched a weekend conference to map plans forthe summer campaign. Although two states have been selected, Strickland said they would not be identified until about the end of the year.

The program would consist of setting up community

GAY BEAN RELISH

Mix canned Blue Lake green beans with sliced onion rings, French dressing, a pinch of tarragon, salt and pepper. If you wish, add a little dry white wine. Chill to blend flavors. Serve in lettuce cups and garnish with sweet red pepper or pimiento strips.

for "inhabitants of the ghetto," tutorial projects for those who need them, and "possibly rent strikes."

AS STRICKLAND sees it, "Ultimately the problem of poverty is a political problem and it can only be dealt with by the political organization of the people.

"We hope that the program will result in some political organization, too," he said.

Strickland estimates that between 3,000 to 4,000 students and civil rights workers will be involved in its forthcoming summer push.

Morgan College gets $70,000 art gift
