(Hog Rod)
To MC Christmas Show

...more Junior College, a former voice student of Ronald Banks, her Christmas specialty is "Oh, Holy Night."

Miss Marjorie Jennings, recreation director of the Madison Ave. YWCA will have the Y-Teen dancers on hand. Trained by Miss Irene Adona, the pert dancers will display their finesse in modern dancing.

Tiny Tim, a "pop" singer and Harvey (Bob) Young, "the Soul Stirrer," will carry the banner for male vocalists.

AFRO reporter Roger H. Nissly will unveil his hidden talent in the role of a magician and has a lot of tricks up his sleeve for the young audience expected to exceed 1,500.

These and other entertainers have assured Mrs. Santa that this edition of the annual event will be fan and away the best yet.

year-old classmate hit him with a metal pipe.

At Maryland General Hospital where he underwent surgery, and remained in an unconscious condition for more than 24 hours, he regained consciousness early Thursday morning.

A warrant has been issued for Samuel Jefferson, 16, of the 500 block Baker St., for questioning in the case, police said.

The neuro-surgeon who performed the operation said he had to remove a portion of the youngster's brain semi-splintered bone.

He told the AFRO, "The boy has more than a 50-50 chance to live but what is not so certain are his chances of making a full mental recovery."

A portion of the boy's brain was completely destroyed and had to be removed. He might have to bear the effects of this injury for the rest of his life."

THE SCUFFLE occurred, police said, while the youth was in a sign shop class. Melvin Smith, shop teacher, told police he left the classroom for a few minutes and upon returning heard what sounded like a scuffle. Mr. Smith stated he found Mr. Bleeding from a wound slightly above his right ear. He said the other youth had fled.

Police said Dr. Benjamin Walten, principal, did not report the incident. They said the scuffle was not brought to their attention until some time after it happened, once by hospital authorities.

At first, Dr. Walten refused to give any statement at all to the AFRO. He later said, "At the time it happened it did not appear to be a serious matter."

Hospital authorities stated they did not call police until discovering that no report of the incident had been made.

Police reported the youth assailant did not return home after leaving the school and is now the target of a citywide search.

THE INJURED boy's mother, Mrs. Martha Ann, who has three other children, described her son simply.

"He is an average boy, well-liked and friendly. He always did what I told him to and has given me very little trouble.

"I am the prayers of everyone for his recovery. He's such a young boy."

Mrs. Florence Sorrell, 81, lifelong Ostend St. resident

Mrs. Florence Sorrell, 81, died Sunday at Hopkins Hospital. She had been ill and bedfast for over a year.

Funeral services will be held Thursday at Ebenezer AME Church, with the Rev. A. A. Thompson officiating. Interment will be in Baltimore National Cemetery.

A native of Baltimore, she was a lifelong resident of Ostend St. Her husband, Charles Sorrell, died 40 years ago.

She was a member of Wesman AME Church.

Surviving are three sisters, Mrs. Bertha Gaines and Mrs. Ruth Sorrell, both of Baltimore, and Mrs. Ernest Garrett, of Washington.

Two sisters-in-law, Mrs. Ruth Sorrell Gaines and Mrs. Minnie Boggs Sorrell, and one brother-in-law, Frank J. Sorrell, retired school principal, also survive.

There are five grandchildren and 20 great-grandchildren.

A LIFE GIVER, Miss Lucy Hammond, manager of the City Wilson Funeral Home, recalled that her mother was a person who was "always jovial and human, right up until her death when she died in my arms.

"She loved to look after other people's children. People in the neighborhood just loved her."

Mrs. Sorrell was widowed twice. Her first husband was Charles Hammond. She married Ernest Garrett. She and Mr. Sorrell, who survived, were married 35 years ago. He is a retired Gas and Electric Co. employee.

IN ADDITION to her husband and the daughter, Miss Hammond, Mrs. Sorrell is
