FINAL RITES TODAY

He never missed a day in 25 years at the bank

Funeral services are being held today Friday at 1 p.m. at Pennsylvania Ave. AME Zion Church for James Ford, 60, 1408 Whitelock St. He died Jan. 3 at Provident Hospital.

Mr. Ford had been ill and confined to the hospital only two weeks.

He was custodian at the Baltimore National Bank main branch for over 25 years without missing a day up until his recent illness.

In 1963, he was cited for his service to the bank. He was due to retire this year.

A MEMBER of the Pennsylvania Ave. AME Zion Church since 1932, Mr. Ford was a former trustee, usher and steward. The Rev. Clinton R. Coleman, church pastor, will preside at the services and at graveside rites in Mt. Auburn Cemetery.

Mr. Ford and his wife Mrs. Hattie Ford were married in 1926, and have resided at the Whitelock St. home 25 years.

In addition to Mrs. Ford, he is survived by 50 close kin including a daughter, Mrs. Mable Coexum, Charleston, S.C. who has 13 children.

ALSO SURVIVING are four great grandchildren, seven sisters, two brother, two uncles, a nephew, many nieces, and Mrs. Annie Ford, his stepmother.

Mrs. Martyn, longtime Sharon Baptist member

Funeral services were held Wednesday at Sharon Baptist Church, where she sang on the Senior Choir and was an active member for 37 years.

Burial was in Arbutus Memorial Park.

MRS. MARTYN was educated at a high school in Durham N.C., Hartshorn College, which is now Union University, in Richmond, Va., Cortez Peters Business School and Morgan State College in Baltimore.

She taught at Henderson Institute, Henderson, N.C. and worked at the post office here in Baltimore.

A native of Henderson, she was the daughter of Allen and Lizzie Eaton.

Surviving are a son, Allen, Martyn, two aunts, Mrs. Eddye Strickland, of Baltimore; Mrs. Carrie Scott, of Yonkers, N.Y. and an uncle, Willie Scott, of N.Y.

Funeral this afternoon for Mrs. Cecil Gloster

Funeral services are being held today (Friday) at 1 p.m., at the Law Funeral Home for Mrs. Florence Gaines Gloster.

Mrs. Gloster, 71, was a retired Baltimore School principal, and the wife of Dr. Cecil Gloster, the dentist.

She died in her sleep early Monday at her home, 1522 McCulloh St.

The Rev. Perry I. Tilghman, pastor of Trinity AME Church, is officiating at the brief services.

Burial will follow in Baltimore National Cemetery.

Active pallbearers are her nephews, Teacle, Gaines, Warren, Austin, Edward, Lincoln and Al Lonsey.

Honorary pallbearers are former school associates, and members of these groups with which she was affiliated:—

The Phi Delta Kappa Sorority, DuBois Circle, Links and Bon Tons Club.

MRS. GLOSTER taught 33 years in the Baltimore public schools. She was principal of Banneker Elementary No. 113 when she retired in 1960.

She was educated at Coppin, Morgan and New York University.

In addition to her husband, she is survived by a son, John (Jack) Gloster, State Department official stationed in Ethiopia; and a sister, Mrs. Janet (Tsing) Taylor, retired Baltimore teacher. There are also two grandchildren.

J. L. Lambirth

Funeral services were held today (Friday) at noon at Memorial Baptist Church for John L. Lambirth, 58, 115 N. Patterson Park Ave.

Burial was in Baltimore National Ceemtery.

Mr. Lambirth died Monday at Fort Howard Hospital, following a long illness.

He was employed at the Baltimore Brick Company and was a veteran of World War II.

A native of Kinston, N.C., he was the son of the late John Lambirth, of Baltimore. Lambirth and Mrs. Nancy who survives.

In addition to his mother, Mr. Lambirth is survived by his wife, Mrs. Margaret Lambirth, switchboard operator at Hopkins Hospital, an adopted daughter, Miss Jacqueline Carter; and sister Mrs. Lossie Chatman, both of Baltimore.

'And, oh, how she loved to sing' says relative

"And, oh, how she loved to sing," were the words of remembrance from a relative of Mrs. Prudence B. Dickerson, 61, 1612 Braddish Ave., who died Sunday of pneumonia.

Funeral services were held Wednesday at St. Luke's Methodist Church, where she was a member of the Marcy Birthday Club and The Flower Circle. The Rev. Charles Green officiated.

Burial was in Broadneck Cemetery, Annapolis.

Wife of Robert Layton, prominent grocer, dies

Funeral services will be held at 1 p.m. Saturday at the New Shiloh Baptist Church, Lanvale St. and Fremont Ave., for Mrs. Elizabeth Layton, 73, 315 N. Carrollton Ave.

Mrs. Layton died suddenly on Tuesday at the Lafayette Square Community Center where she attended adult education classes taught by Mrs. Cyrus Marshall.

Community Center director, Arthur Redding Jr., reported that Mrs. Layton arrived for the 1:30 p.m. reading class about 1 p.m. and went to the second floor classrooms.

She had taken off her coat and was wishing friends and classmates a happy New Year when she suddenly collapsed on the floor.

Mr. Redding said he tried to give first aid while awaiting the ambulance that took Mrs. Layton to Provident Hospital. She was pronounced dead on arrival.

MRS. LAYTON had attended the adult classes for about three years and was an enthusiastic student.

She was the wife of Robert Layton, owner of the grocery store at 516 Carrollton Ave. for more than 33 years. The couple was married six years ago when Mrs. Layton came from her home in Richmond County, Va. to reside in Baltimore.

She joined the Shiloh church six years ago and was a member of the Gospel Chorus. The Rev. Carter, church pastor, will preside at the services. Burial will be in Arbutus Cemetery.

Surviving Mrs. Layton are her husband, a step daughter, Miss Kate Louise Layton; a brother, William Glascoe, Philadelphia, cousins and nieces.

Friends may call at the Elroy Wilson Funeral Home, Brantley Ave. and Schroeder St., throughout the day and evening today, Friday, and before services Saturday morning.

James Emory Bond Jr., teacher, buried today

Funeral services were scheduled today (Friday) at 12:30 p.m. at St. Jams Methodist Church, Monroe and Lexington Sts., for James Emory Bond Jr., 39, 7703 Dolfield Ave., who died Tuesday after a brief illness.

Mr. Bond, who had been a School 141 since 1953, was a teacher at Elementary School 141 since 1953, was a veteran of World War II and the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Emory Bond Sr. His father gained wide attention last year after a colorful hour long television appearance.

He suffered diabetes and was taken to Sinai Hospital three days before his death.

The Rev. Albert H. Hammond Sr., pastor of the St. James Church where Mr. Bond was a member, will officiate at the services. Burial will be in the Baltimore National Cemetery.

MR. BOND was born in Baltimore and was graduated from Coppin State Teachers College in 1953. He also taught night school at Douglass High School and was a member of the Beta Sigma Tau fraternity.

Mr. Bond is survived by his wife, Mrs. Felice Satchell Bond; two sons, James E. Bond, 3rd, age 15, a City College student; Gregory Dwight Bond, 13, an 8th grade pupil at Garrison Junior High School.

Also surviving are his parents, Mr. Bond Sr., father, and Mrs. Isabelle Grant Bond, mother; seven sisters, Mesdames Ruth Mickens, Edith Mercer, Isabelle Byrd, Rudy Rivers, Pearl Dean, Chloe McDowell, and Mandy Bynum.

Also, two brothers, Luther G. Bond Sr. and Frank Bond Sr.; two aunts, an uncle, 6 nieces and nephews and 11 great nieces and nephews.

Mrs. E. Bennett

Funeral services were held Thursday at Centennial Methodist Church for Mrs. Estelle Bennett, 64, 1303 Ashland Ave., who died Jan. 3 at a Coldspring Lane nursing home after a weeks illness.

Mrs. Bennett was a member of the Centennial Church 49 years, a member of the Board of Stewardesses and the Ushers Board. The Rev. James Artar, church pastor, presided at the final rites and at the graveside in Mt. Calvary Cemetery.

Mrs. Bennett was born June 1, 1901 in Dillon, S. C. and came to Baltimore in 1916. She and her husband, Samuel Bennett, were married in 1940.

In addition to Mr. Bennett, surviving are an aunt, Mrs. Frances Bennett, Columbia, S.C. two cousins, Mrs. Eliza Jackson, Philadelphia, and Mrs. Cora Purcell, Trenton, N.J.

Percy Brown

Funeral services were held Jan. 5 at Israel Baptist Church for Percy Brown, 38, 2907 E. Federal St., who died Saturday. He had been disabled since birth.

Burial was in Carver Memorial Park.

A native of Cumberland, Va., Mr. Brown came to Baltimore in 1944. He was the son of the late John Daniel Brown and Mrs. Grace Brown Mack, who survives.

In addition to his mother, Mr. Brown is survived by a sister, Mrs. Mildred Douglas and three brothers, William, Robert and John Brown, all of Baltimore.

Long (D. 2nd D.) and Charles McC. Mathias, Jr. (R., 6th D.)

This state's other five congressmen, who, by favoring the seating of Mississippi's contested delegation, displayed little concern about the denial of voting rights there, are:

Rogers Morton (R. 1st D.), Edward A. Garmatz (D. 3rd D.), George H. Fallon (D. 4th D.), Hervey G. Machen (D. 5th D.) and Samuel N. Friedel (D. 7th D.)

The House vote to seat the contested Mississippi delegation was 276-149.

Congressmen Garmatz, Fallon and Friedel represent congressional districts that lie wholly within Baltimore, and would not be in office were it not for the colored voters' support.

Colored eligible voters form 33 percent of those registered in this city. Colored citizens are almost 40 percent of Baltimore's population.

The Garmatz 3rd District covers East Baltimore, and the Fallon 4th District is the heavily colored populated northwest, north and southwest areas.

The Friedel 7th District rings most of the city from Cherry Hill through the northwest and northern sectors.

All three are veteran congressmen who have maintained all - white or almost all - white staffs for years.

Congressman-at-large Sickles also integrated Eastern Shore, and newcomer Congressman Machen's 8th District is the southern Maryland area.

Both of these congressional districts are moderately populated with colored citizens.

On the other hand, Congressman Long's 2nd District, covering Harford, Carroll and Baltimore Counties, is comparatively lightly populated with colored citizens.

However, Congressman Long opened a key post on his staff to a colored person, when first elected two years ago, and now has the best integrated staff of any congressman from Maryland.

Congressman Mathias' 6th District covers Allegany, Garrett, Washington, Frederick and Montgomery Counties.

All congressmen must run for election again next year.

The Mississippi Freedom Party held its own election in that state, and contends it was the only legal one because it was open to voters of both races.

The party sent a delegation of three women to Washington, seeking the state's congressional seats in contesting the all-white disputed delegation.

The 149 votes on their behalf came from the three designated Maryland congressmen and liberal members of both parties in the north, central and western states.

as the first nominee to the Community Action and Neighborhood Development Organization, and designated as chairman.

The nomination of Mr. Macht to this key post has been questioned, however, by CORE.

In a letter to the mayor, James Griffin, CORE chairman, stated in part:

"As far as we can determine, Mr. Macht as a builder of new homes has not offered equal acces to those homes to qualified colored buyers.

"It is not possible that key persons of the poverty program can identify with the people of the ghetto, if they are connected with discriminatory housing developments which keep the people of the ghetto walled in."

MR. MACHT'S secretary told the AFRO he was in Florida and could not be reached for comment.

She said he would have no comment anyway, until he returns to the city, at a time of which she was not certain.

Mayor McKeldin, meanwhile, gave the AFRO this comment Wednesday on the CORE question of Mr. Macht:

"There is not the slightest doubt in my mind that Mr. Macht will do an excellent job in his new post, and that the city was exceptionally fortunate in being able to obtain his services."

AS PRESENTLY planned, the CANDO commission will have 14 members, including the mayor, president of the City Council and the comptroller.

Their appointments must be confirmed by the City Council, and the posts are non-salaried.

The ordinance establishing the commission and the anti-poverty program it is proposed to administer is now under consideration by the City Council's Judiciary Comittee.

Already, there are moves afoot to have the commission expanded to include representatives of the NAACP, the Urban League, the Interdenominational Ministers Alliance and possibly one from labor.

Presently designated members, in addition to the mayor, president of the City Council and comptroller are:

A School Board member, one each from the Associated Catholic and Associated Jewish Charities, the Community Chest, Health and Welfare Council and six named from the community at large by the mayor.

evidences of discriminatory practices existing.

THE PRELIMARY report covered about 70 percent of the city agencies.

Mr. Daniels' coming detail study covers all employees in city government, except approximately 3,600 policemen, under state control, and about 7,900 schoolteachers and Department of Education administrators.

The bulk of this report will also be contained in the CRC annual report, which is to be released almost simultaneously with the report to Mayor McKeldin and the public.

The study is expected to have a strong influence on the direction of Mayor McKeldin's future planning for the city.

—Suit seeks similar situations of embarrassment.

The civil action further contends that the police commissioner and his agents in executing the raids acted under color of Federal, state, and city laws.

The suit states that at no time did the police officers display to the plaintiffs "... any warrant issued by any judge, court, magistrate or other proper official authorizing a search.

"There were no circumstances which legally justified these searches without warrants. These searches were arbitrary and unreasonable and violated plaintiffs' rights to due process of law."

Agree on Police Dept. purchases
Thomas B. Finan, Maryland's attorney general, said Thursday legislation is needed and a bill will be drafted by his staff to place purchases by the city's Police Department under the supervision of Baltimore's Department of Finance.
The bill is to be presented to the General Assembly, which convenes in Annapolis for a 70 - day session later this month.
Meanwhile, agreement has been reached that such purchases will now be initiated by the Department of Finance, with the provision that the Police Commissioner reserves the right to reject all bids should the indication arise that this is feasible.
