LBJ asks record budget for District

By BAKER E. MORTEN

President Johnson has asked Congress for $392.4 million to operate the City of Washington during fiscal 1966, an increase of $50.3 million over the fiscal 1965 appropriation.

largest ever sought to run this town, and recommendations include about $10 million more for schools and teachers than was asked last September by the city's Department of General Administration.

The recommendations also include $5.7 million for later transmission to Congress as the District's initial share of the cost of a mass rapid transit system.

The entire fiscal 1966 budget request consists of $305,149,000 for general operating expenses, $80,572,000 for capital outlay, and $5,690,000 for the payment of loans and interest.

Included in the increased school recommendation is $963,000 for teacher salaries, and $564,000 for counselors and $564,000 for counselors and librarians. Other school funds will be used to purchase sites, prepare plans and specifications, and construct an additional 20,916 classroom spaces.

Provision in the budget is made for an additional 100 policemen, expansion of the birth control program, establishment of a three year property assessment cycle, improved rehabilitation services to inmates of correctional institutions, expansion of the child welfare program and an increase in payments to private hospitals treating District patients.

ALTHOUGH no funds are requested in this budget, the Commissioners are working closely with the United Planning Organization and the Health and Welfare Council in supporting efforts in the District under the President's anti-poverty program.

Appropriations for matching funds for the poverty program will not be required until fiscal 1967.

Public schools are receiving funds for the first time in fiscal 1965 and echoed in fiscal 1966 under the congressional approved inclusion of the District in the Federal Impact Aid program.

Recommendations in the fiscal 1966 budget, according to the Commissioners, are to establish a general basic educational level of support for all schools throughout the city.

Impact aid is designed to support this by improvements in specific places such as better counseling, reading specialists and selected reduction of pupil - teacher ratios.

Plans and specifications to insure the continued operation of the John F. Kennedy Playground, and the construction of a new Shaw Junior High School at the present location are also included in the budget request.

ADDITIONAL major projects sought through the budget include plans and specifications for a new Central library, two new swimming pools, and Industrial Arts Building for the Department of Corrections, a juvenile facility similar to the National Training School for Boys, a school activities building at Junior Village, and construction of a new incinerator.

The funds proposed for the mass rapid transit system are contingent upon congressional passage of a proposed bill which will enable the District to borrow $50 million for contribution to such a system.

The highway fund of the budget asks money for the continuation of such projects as the Center Leg of the Inner Loop, the Potomac River Freeway, North Central Freeway, 14th St. Bridge replacement, and completion of the 9th Street expressway.

Financing of the fiscal 1966 highway fund is contingent upon the enactment of an increase in the gasoline tax from 4 to 6 cents seven cents per gallon.

The budget also asks funds to cover 1,826 new positions in the District Government, which could bring the total number of authorized city jobs to 31,048.

The financing of the city's general operating fund for fiscal 1966 will be accomplished through local taxes which will accrue new revenues of about $10.1 million, and Federal payment of $57 million, the Commissioners. The new revenues will come from increases in cigarette, sales and use, and individual income taxes—plus an increase in the real estate tax from $2.50 to $2.70 per $100 of assessed value.

LBJ sounds plea for race justice

By LOUIS CASSELS

WASHINGTON, (UPI) — Lyndon Baines Johnson began a full term as President in his own right Wednesday with an earnest plea to his countrymen to eliminate racial and economic injustice from America through "progress without strife and change without hatred."

An appeal for national unity and the healing of bitter divisions was the keynote of the 1,250 - word inaugural address which the 36th President delivered from a windswept outdoor platform on the steps of the capitol immediately after taking his oath of office.

Johnson's voice was barely audible to the overflow crowd in Capitol Plaza as he intoned after Chief Justice Earl Warren the oath to "Preserve, protect and defend the constitution of the United States."

IT WAS 12:03 p.m. EST — three minutes after the hour fixed by the Constitution for the beginning of a new presidential term — when he formally entered upon the four-year administration to which he was elected by a landslide majority last November.

The temperature was a chill 38 degrees and a 15 - mile wind whipped the overcoat - muffled spectators as the 56 - year - old President stood bare - headed, behind a protective wall of bullet - proof glass, to enunciate the ideals of his presidency.

His speech was sober in tone and was interrupted by applause only 10 times. At the end of the 20-minute speech, he got a 45-second ovation, and the warm personal congratulations of his wife Lady Bird, who left her place and walked over to his seat to whisper a private word.

THE LOUDEST APPLAUSE greeted his statement that "I will be a President ordered, changeless and steadfast in my purpose, but never a President timid and faint-hearted. I will be a President of action and not of words."

"It is the excitement of becoming," he said, "always becoming, trying, probing, failing, resting and trying again — but always gaining."

Near the end of his prepared text, the President looked around at the relatives, friends and associates in government who shared the platform with him and made this extemporaneous addition:

"To these trusted public servants, to my family and the close friends who have followed me down a long winding road, and to all the people of this nation and the world, I repeat today what I said on that sorrowful day in November. I will lead and I will do the best can."

THE "SORROWFUL day in November" was Nov. 22, 1963 - when an assassin's bullets cut down John F. Kennedy and catapulted Johnson into the presidency.

The bible on which Johnson rested his hand as he took the oath was one his mother gave him years ago. The bible is traditionally held by the clerk of the U. S. Supreme Court. But today it was held by the President's closest partner: Lady Bird Johnson. She was stunning in an American Beauty red coat and hat.

The president himself eschewed the traditional morning coat and striped trousers, and wore a plain gray business suit.

After it was all over — at 12:36 p.m. — Johnson went inside th ecapitol to a luncheon given for him by congressional leaders. On the way, he murmured to some old friends in the press: "It's a great and wonderful day."

JOHNSON ASSERTED in his inaugural address that the racial and economic injustice which have marred the american promise can be eliminated within this generation.

BEST BUYS:

Fryers rate high on good value list

Fryers rate as a good value in most areas, this week.

In addition, some poultry counters will be offering stewing chickens at reasonable prices. Unusually plentiful supplies of eggs are resulting in especially attractive prices, with large eggs noted as a particularly good buy.

Look for attractive displays of apples, bananas and grapefruit to be the leading values in fresh fruits. Additional good choices include tangerines, avocadoes, oranges, and pineapples.

WINTER VEGETABLES, generally reported in greater supply this year than last, will provide a fairly wide choice of attractive values. Among the better buys are cabbage, carrots, spinach, radishes, celery, onions, greens, endive, lettuce, and sweet potatoes.

Other high - protein foods in excellent supply at modest cost include most cuts of beef and pork, broiler - fryers, peanuts, and dried beans.

A variety of fresh fruits continue abundant. Look particularly for grapefruit, oranges, apples, and emperor grapes.

BANANAS, LIMES, avocados, and lemons are higher than last week at many wholesale markets. Unusually warm weather brought forth the first Texas and Louisiana strawberries and Mexican cantaloups. Fruits include red tart cherries, canned figs, canned ripe olives, and prunes.

Cabbage, carrots, celery, and lettuce carry lower wholesale price tags at many points this week as they stand among the best buys in vegetables. Also claiming good buy honors at many markets are greens and green onions, mature onions, potatoes, sweet potatoes, tomatoes, and turnips.

Priced higher than a week ago at many points are snap beans, corn, cucumbers, peppers, potatoes, squash, and tomatoes.

Plentiful supplies of oysters, mullet, red snapper, shrimp, fillet of cod and ocean perch, and whiting top the best - buy list.

Lattice-topped hamburger pie

What's new? Lattice-Topped Hamburger Pie! A delicious hamburger-vegetable base is enhanced by a creamy cottage cheese filling. The cheesy lattice topping is made from a pie crust mix ... delicious. Serve your family a hearty meal of Lattice-Topped Hamburger Pie, asparagus spears and a lettuce wedge.

Lattice-Topped Hamburger Pie is made with 1½ lb. ground beef, one 10 ¾ oz. can condensed vegetable soup, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 egg, ¾ cup rolled oats (quick or old fashioned, uncooked).

The filling requires 2 cups creamed cottage cheese and 1 egg, beaten, and the crust takes one-half 10-oz. pkg. (1 cup) Flako Pie Crust Mix, 2 tablespoons Parmesan cheese and 2 tablespoons cold water.

COMBINE MEAT base ingredients. Press half of mixture into ungreased 2-qt. baking dish. Combine filling ingredients; spread over meat; press remaining meat mixture over filling.

Measure pie crust mix into bowl; stir in cheese. Sprinkle cold water by tablespoonfuls over mix; stir lightly until just dampened. (If necessary add another one-half tablespoon cold water to make dough hold together.)

Form into ball. Roll dough out on lightly floured board or canvas to form 9 x 12-inch rectangle. Cut into ½-inch strips. Lay half the strips across meat base; weave remaining strips over and under these. Trim.

Bake in preheated moderate oven (375 degrees F.) about 45 minutes; let stand 5 minutes before cutting.

Here's how to cut wrinkles

If you don't have a washing machine or dryer—we want to use these machines for clothes made of synthetic fibers — try these suggestions from the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

- Wash in small loads.
- Use cool or warm (never hot) water.
- Wash only long enough to remove soil.
- Rinse in cool water.
- Shorten the water extraction times — both after washing and after rinsing.

Then use your tumbler dryer at "medium" or "low" setting. After the articles are dry, tumble them for 10 minutes without heat. Remove immediately from the dryer and hang.

ENTERTAIN WITH this lavish but really very simple buffet that boasts Turkey Parisian—broccoli spears bedded on turkey slices and topped with a sumptuous cream sauce of lobster and Parmesan cheese. Complete with a Cranberry Fruit Mold garnished with tangy fruit dressing. A high and handsome Cherry Nut Whipped cream cake completes the menu.

Serving from buffet makes it easier for the hostess

Sit down dinners are elegant and a joy to attend, but, a buffet dinner is a much easier undertaking, when you are hostess doing all the cooking and serving alone. And you can invite ever so many more to share your table.

Your buffet need not boast a large number of dishes. A fine looking and tasting dinner can be had with a few well-cooked and well-seasoned dishes garnished with flair and a few frills.

TURKEY PARISIAN will make a glamorous chafing dish entree. The sumptuous cream sauce, heightened by the addition of green and red pepper bits, is base for succulent lobster meat and flakes of pungent Parmesan cheese. What a combination these two make, the robust Parmesan bringing out the full flavor of delicate lobster.

Broccoli spears cooked to that just tender stage (follow package directions to avoid overcooking) are bedded on thick slices of turkey and topped with spoonfuls of sauce.

Whatever the turkey preference of your guests — hot or cold, dark or light—have a variety of slices to choose from. Be sure to keep the flame of your chafing dish low, so as to warm but not cook the sauce as it stands.

USE CRANBERRIES as accompaniment to the turkey.

Combine ground fresh or frozen cranberries with flavorsome dairy sour cream, crushed pineapple, ground oranges and nut meats in a strawberry gelatin mold. For exciting contrast, mold in a ring, filling the center with Tangy Fruit Dressing.

Flavor-wise this sour cream and lemon juice dressing blends perfectly with the salad, while color-wise the creamy white is in dramatic accent to the vivid cranberry tones.

Dust dims bulb's light

NEW YORK (UPI) — Snatch light bulbs, if the purpose is to get them clean.

A film of dust on light bulbs can cut light output as much as 50 per cent, says the Lamp and Shade Institute of America.

The institute offered these tips on lamp care:

DURING the routine of house - cleaning, use a soft cloth to wipe the bulbs, reflector bowls if there are any, and lamp bases. Use the soft brush attachment of the vacuum cleaner on the shades.

Once a month, or oftener if needed, remove the reflector from the lamp, wash in warm, soapy water, rinse and dry thoroughly. But never wash light bulbs; the water can loosen the cement holding the base to the glass.

CLEAN lamp bases with a mild warm water and soap solution on glass, pottery, marble and onyx surfaces; then wipe dry. Wood and metal should be dusted and protected with a thin coat of wax.

Never use polishes or abrasives on metal surfaces. These surfaces usually are protected with transparent lacquer which polishes will remove.

HOUSEKEEPING. Make sure working space is adequate, uncrowded and free of impediments. Rags and debris should be removed as they collect.

Eliminate fire hazard by ventilating properly, labeling solvents correctly and throwing out paintings frequently.

Rags should be stored only in closed metal containers while they remain on the premises.

Little girls tip-toe lightly into spring

NEW YORK — Little girls have a tip - toe - hold on fashion this spring in soft, strap - happy leather shoes.

From the tiny T to the ankle strap, there are a variety of straps on tap in junior pumps and sandals, reports Shoe Fashion Service. Other leather footwear with the light, stripped-down look put their styling accent on the scooped shell, cutout designs, dainty tie themes or sling - backs.

Leathers are as light and gay as cotton candy — polished smooth textures, pretty patent and embossed leathers, smart grained and brushed leathers, silky suedes.

THE STRAP shoe goes to school in many shapes and shades. The T, the double T, the split T and the wide sabot strap perk up simple smooth, grained or brushed leather pumps in light or deep colors. Some straps are buckled or buttoned, others elasticized for easy fit. Heavy stitching, cut - outs or appliques add extra decorative notes.

When the strap goes social, it may decorate a patent leather pump with a slim ankle band. Or it may combine a shortened T with a separate instep strap on a pastel suede shell. For a different slant, there's an asymmetric strap — elasticized for comfort — on a jewel - toned lustre leather pump.

WHEN mothers go shoe shopping for pretty misses, they want their youngsters' footwear to offer three things — a smart appearance, protection and comfort. Leather qualifies, with honors, on all counts. Only leather, of all shoe materials, has the singular ability to mold itself to the foot's shape from first wearing, bending and flexing easily with every movement of a frisky young foot.

Other spring favorites to keep her hopping happily from sun - up to lights - out include trim tie - shoes and slip - ons. The classic leather moccasin is still a pre - teen pet but slip - ons sporting cut - outs and more variations in different leathers — such as "reptile" - embossed, antiqued or brushed textures — are big news to little girrs. And, to their parents, the leather soles on these shoes promise wear through flexibility, protection through strength.

THE SHOES run the grammar - school gamut from two - toned brushed leather ghillies to sassy saddle oxfords with cut - outs or appliques on the saddles. The ties themselves may be a contrasting color, striped, or tasseled at the end. Porous leather linings mean cool dry comfort to her feet through the liveliest day.

Special occasions — birthdays to Beatle concerts — will see a sea of slings, shells and pumps in pretty leathers. Scalloping, peaked vamps, delicate bows and tear - drop cut - outs give a grown - up feminine feeling to these charming dress-up styles. Leather textures to twist and twirl by include smooth and embossed leathers, suede and patent leather.

THE tag - and - taffy set likes its colors well defined this season. Intense pastels, crystal - clear shades and black - and - white are in favor. Casuals call for more neutral tones, and the "natural leather" colors.

Sausage Supper quick and easy

Sausage Supper is a quickly prepared supper, luncheon or brunch dish — especially good with fried apple rings.

Vary basic corn muffins by adding celery seed and nutmeg, then serve shortcake-style with a creamy sauce containing carrots, celery and pork sausage. If you like, serve the sauce with half the muffins and pass remaining muffins to spread with butter.

Make Dixie Sausage Supper with 1 pound mildly seasoned bulk pork sausage, 2½ cups enriched self-rising corn meal, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1 teaspoon celery seed, ¼ teaspoon nutmeg, 2 eggs, slightly beaten, 1 to ¾ cups milk, and Sausage Sauce.

Grease medium-sized muffin pan. Preheat oven to 425 degrees. In heavy skill brown sausage. Drain, reserving ¼ cup drippings; set sausage aside. In medium - sized mixing bowl combine corn meal, sugar, celery seed and nutmeg. Blend eggs, 1 cup milk and reserved sausage drippings.

Add liquid all at once to corn meal mixture, mixing until well blended. If necessary, add more milk to make a medium-thick batter. Fill muffin cups 2/3 full. Bake 20 to 25 minutes, or until golden brown. Meanwhile, prepare sausage sauce. Split muffins in half crosswise. Spoon hot sauce over bottom halves. Cover with muffin tops.

Sausage Sauce requires ¼ cup butter or margarine, 1 cup thinly sliced carrots, ½ cup chopped celery, ¼ cup flour, 2 tablespoons instant minced onion, 2 teaspoons dry mustard, 1 teaspoon salt and 3 cups milk.

In saucepan over medium heat melt butter or margarine. Stir in carrots and celery; saute until carrots are tender-crisp, about 5 minutes. Mix flour, onion, mustard and salt. Stir into vegetable mixture, forming a smooth paste. Gradually stir in milk; cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until thickened. Stir in sausage.
