Machen hops bandwagon for czar of fight game

SAN FRANCISCO, (UPI)—Professional boxing needs a czar in order to decide who is champion and who the champion should fight, according to top - ranking heavyweight contender Eddie Machen.

"Otherwise," Machen said Monday night, "the whole fight game becomes a complete farce."

Machen meets Ernie Terrell, March 5, for the World Boxing Association version of the heavyweight title. Floyd Patterson and George Chuvalo meet Feb. 1, with the winner expected to fight the winner of the Machen-Terrell match.

AT A dinner in his honor, Machen said, "As it stands now, a good boxer could wait for 10 years for a chance at the title."

Machen said that boxing has become a game of "who gets the most" and has forgotten the pride of the fighter involved.

"If I ever become champion," Machen said, "I'll fight whenever and wherever a worthy opponent is found."

LBJ recalls own fight for education in Congress speech

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "Over 100,000 of our brightest high school graduates each year will not go to college—and many others will leave college — if the opportunity for higher education is not expanded."

So said President Johnson in his education message to Congress. His words perhaps reflected his own memories of his bitter struggle for a college degree in the scrubby hill country of Central Texas nearly 40 years ago.

"Nothing matters more to the future of our country," he said, than to encourage every American child to get the most and best education he can use. It was a lesson Lyndon Johnson learned the hard way.

Medic report cheers Garron

BOSTON, (UPI) The Boston Patriots received good news Tuesday from their star fullback, Larry Garron.

Doctors said that the hip injury Garron suffered when tackled in the fourth quarter of the American Football League All - Star Game Saturday in Houston will not require surgery.

"THE DOCTOR told me that it (the dislocated hip) will heal by itself and that it won't bother me next season," Garron said.

He was expected to remain in St. Elizabeth's Hospital for 10 days to three weeks. Then he'll rest for about a month.

"After that I'm [illegible] exercise and I ought be perfect again by the time we start training camp," Garron said.

and welfare.

Of this 52.9 per cent goes for public education, another 20.5 per cent is allotted to health, including a program to combat mental illness and mental retardation, and another 10. 7 per cent is earmarked for public welfare.

The governor said employment is up in Maryland.

"For 31 consecutive months," he said, "the percentage of unemployment in Maryland has been lower than that for the nation as a whole.

"In October it was 2.9 per cent, as compared with a national rate of 4.4 per cent."

The state's tax structure is so geared, the governor told the assembly, that the proposed improvements are possible without a tax increase.

Turning again to education the governor pointed out that 73 per cent of the capital budget recommendations is earmarked for improving the plants at the University of Maryland the state colleges.

He indicated that an operating budget of $51.1 million, or $6.6 million more than last year, is earmarked for the University of Maryland.

However, he did not detail the increases for Morgan State and the five state colleges which operate under a single board of trustees.

The governor also urged the attraction of higher qualified teahers. In this connection he said he is proposing that nearly half. 622 of 1,314, of the new positions that are recommended for next year are for educational and related purposes.

He told the lawmakers legislation would be presented to them to provide for the revision and expansion of the Senatorial Scholarship Program.

In addition, he said, the legislation would extend the program to other accredited four - year colleges, other state - supported schools.

In a 28-minute address, Gov. Tawes projected a healthy picture of the state's economy while urging the improvements.

Other proposed improvements were the development of a televised network program to benefit young and old alike in the educational field, and the continuation of a modernized highway construction program.

The members of the Senate and House, sitting in joint session for the address, listened in respectful silence.

After it was all over, they stood and applauded respectfully, but noticeably unenthusiastically.

The governor, however, smiled cheerfully and confidently at his assembly and left the chambers.

Marvin Mandel, Speaker of the House, moved that the address be journalized if there were no objections. Nobody said anything.

he had no comment on this charge, explaining he had been misquoted too often in the daily press.

MR. PRESSMAN also noted these categories in which points were marked against applicants for this company's auto insurance:

Under sex, males under 30 years of age had two points against them.

Under marital status, a single person got two points, a divorced person three points, separated person four points and common law 34 points.

Under job instability, if a person had two jobs within the past five-year period, he got one point, three jobs five points and four jobs 40 points.

Under associates in the last five-year period, undesirable associates rated 99 points.

UNDER MORALS in the same period, if they were not good this rated 99 points.

Mr. Pressman said he was informed the score for disqualification in Baltimore ranged from 12 to 16.

He had this further comment:

"If any proof were needed about the arbitrariness of cancellations, this score sheet is in itself sufficient proof of same.

"I never expected that an insurance company would go so far as to have such a sheet printed."

He noted that the name, Nationwide Insurance appeared on the score sheet.

year, Gov. Tawes is prohibited by law from seeking a third term.

In commenting on the rejection of Judge Watts, Mr. Finan told the AFRO:

"I FEEL he is highly qualified, and nothing has been brought to light to change my mind."

He would not speculate on a Watts appointment should he become governor, not knowing whether Judge Watts will run again next year.

The city's Supreme Bench is still without a colored judge, though colored citizens form 39 percent of Baltimore's population.

Gov. Tawes said he did not want to break a precedent.

It has since been reported that another Supreme Bench judge was a divorced man and that just last June Gov. Tawes appointed a twice-divorced man to the First Judicial Circuit Court.

Put money to work for you

..."Business can be tremendously rewarding in the financial field. . . Investing makes you a growing part of a growing commodity. . . Your money should be working for you."

These are a few statements of Wiley H. Whisonant, representative of the Washington, D.C., Branch office of Bache and Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange, who was guest speaker for Home Economics Week at Morgan State College.

Mr. Whisonant said there are four forces working upon us . . . "spending force" "Lack of Guidance", . . "Purchasing power of the dollar" and "Lack of Motivation."

Colored Americans, he said "must know more than how to spend what we make. It is highly important that we know how to utilize money through means and channels for which it was designed."
