Testimonial dinner for G. Albert Wright

The Blue Crest Fordleigh provided the setting, Friday evening, for the gay and unique testimonial dinner given for G. Albert Wright, retiring principal of the Fannie L. Barbour School.

Serving as toastmaster was Lowell Case of the school faculty. Invocation was by the Rev. Fr. Donald Wilson of St. James Episcopal Church.

TRIBUTES were paid the honoree by Miss Mary Adams, assistant superintendent, Elementary Education, who emphasized Mr. Wright's quiet, gentlemanly, yet efficient ways; William Rawlings, supervisor of Adult Education and the honoree's long time friend, who discussed his rapid ascent to administrative position and his having held such a position for 36 of the 40½ years of service;

Also from John Berry, who taught Mr. Wright, who told of the moral strength which made it possible for him to rise to heights in spite of the locale, in which he was educated; Mrs. Evelyn Johnson, the teacher having served with Mr. Wright longest, who described his gentle, understanding, yet firm manners;

Mrs. Eunice Dyson, president of the PTA, was talked of his association with that organization; and Mrs. Beatrice T. Rawlings, director of Area F.

Final tribute came from Fr. Wilson, who expressed appreciation "for one achieving as an educator, yet humble enough to excel as a vestryman."

MUSIC WAS provided by the Faculty Chorus, duets by Mrs. Mary Robinson and Lloyd Johnson, and an audience sing of the "Presentation Waltz," with words by Mrs. Dorothy Rainey.

Piece de resistance was the word "Portrait of a Principal" by Mrs. Burneita Murray, which described him as having a head with an empty space reserved for making decisions, of hands, large, but able to cuddle; of ears that could 'tune you out' and feet that walked and walked and walked.

Delta sons hear and discuss responsibilities at banquet

In what has become one of the most rewarding of the social affairs in this city, Delta Sigma Theta Sorors again entertained their sons at a banquet, in Holiday Inn, Dwontown, Friday evening.

The affair, the second Mother - Son banquet to be held by the Baltimore Alumnae Cahpter, had as its theme "Youth's Responsibility in Our Changing Community", and had a panel of experts to address the young men.

THE LATTER included Alonzo P. Moss of Central YMCA, V. James Garafalo of Morgan State College and Edgar P. Ewing of Urban Renewal.

In discussing "Youth and His Social Responsibilities, Mr. Moss told the group that the lack of appreciation for hard work and honesty is deplorable, that young people should understand that work is a normal part of life and the main ingredient behind the whole scheme of doing a job.

Mr. Moss, who directs camps for YMCA, said that he is often amazed at children who come to his camps who do not know how to hold a broom. Teaching the child, he emphasized, is the responsibility of both parents.

* * *

DISCUSS ING "Youth and His Job Opportunities and Responsibilities", Mr. Garafalo warned the youths against finding excuses, such as lack of money, lack of opportunity or belonging to a minority group, as causes for not achieving success.

"Even losers win sometimes", he said, but added that most losers spend so much time in finding excuses that they never have time to win. "Your job" he told the young men "is to find where your interests lie and whether you have the ability to achieve in that field, and then spend your energies training yourself for your life work."

* * *

THE INCREASE in home ownership, the change in political responsibility to include anti-poverty, medicare and civil rights programs, and the upgrading of requirements for college admission were points brought to the audience's attention by Mr. Ewing.

He discussed "Youth and His Community Resources as Related to Leisure Time, Cultural Activities and Scholarship Opportunities." Environment, said Mr. Ewing, may cause some of the problems, but there is also great need for rounded self development including cultural development in the fields of art and music.

Reading in libraries can be of considerable pleasure as well as value, and there are no substitutes for the proper use of museums, he said.

AND THEN the boys fired questions back at panel members. Russell Frisby, Jr. wanted Mr. Ewing to explain urban renewal projects which band minority groups. It seemed, he said that some of the projects were so arranged as to keep colored persons contained in a community, or to keep them from moving out of a community.

George Parrish wanted to know how one is to determine what is right and what to stand for.

Benjamin Phillips came to the defense of youth urging that parents be next when little troubles occur to that they do not grow into big troubles. Karl King came to the rescue of the parents, saying that most times they are at hand and that children need to read, talk to others and watch what is going on so as to stay away from trouble.

EMERSON WALDEN, JR. was master of ceremonies for the panel. Other participants were Arthur E. Petersen, who gave the grace, Queener E. Willis, the occasion, and Thomas E. Walden who introduced panel members.

Carl M. Smith and Howard L. Neale made the recognitions and presentations, and there were remarks from Miss Jean Cole, president of the Alumnae Chapter and Miss Ruth J. King, chairman of the banquet. Herbert Trader gave the benedictions.

Corsages were pinned on Mrs. Perry Jones, the oldest mother present; Mrs. S. Edward Smith, mother of the oldest son, Carl who beat Mr. Neale to their 20th birthdays by a few days; Mrs. Acie Sturgis, grandmother; and Mrs. Ellen Fisher, who was hostess to three boys at the banquet.

CERTIFICATES of award went to the following:

For good sportsmanship: Adam Lesane, Warren Talbert, Jerome Walker, Joseph C. Howard, Jr., Nathaniel Gray, Leslie Culbreath, Glenn Murray, Milton B. Allen, Jr., Peter Allen, Karl M. King, Travis Emery, Valdimar Washington, George Parrish, Michael Carter, Larry Howard.

Mr., Mrs. Tarter married 59 years

Mr. and Mrs. Robert T. Tarter, married 59 years, were honored by their children at a surprise dinner party, Sunday, in Garrison Lounge.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Reginald Watts, son - in - law and daughter of the couple, invited them to dinner at the restaurant under pretense of a casual meal. But when the honorees arrived they found their children, and in addition, a few close friends there.

At the end of the dinner they jointly cut a beautiful wedding cake.

GUESTS, other than their children, were Mrs. Frances Allen and Mrs. Beatrice Smith, lifelong friends of Mr. and Mrs. Tarter, and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Faucette, parents of Mrs. Ronald Watts, their daughter-in-law.

Robert Tarter, Dr. Charles Tarter of Teaneck, N. J., Glenn Tarter, Russell Tarter and Earl Tarter, sons; and Mesdames S. Reginald Watts and Ernest Scott, daughters;

Also S. Reginald Watts and Ernest A. Scott, Sr., son-in-law and Mesdames Gwendolyn, Mauretta and Peggie Tarter, daughters-in-law.

Grandchildren present were Ronald Watts and his wife, Delaphine; Donald Tarter, Betty Tarter Brown and her husband, James, of Washington, and Jeffrey Tarter. David Watts, a great grandson, was also present.

Beauty clinics

Members of Sigma Gamma Rho Sorority will sponsor a Guidance Clinic of Charm and Beauty at the McKeldin Student Union Building of Morgan State College on Sunday, from 4 to 6 p.m.

Theme of the program, "Toward A More Beautiful You," is geared to young adults. Hostessing the affair will be Beta Tau and Gamma Mu chapters of the sorority. The meeting is open to the public.

Highlighting the program are Mrs. Diana Kana, founder and director of the Diana School of Modeling, and Mrs. Rose G. Wallace, owner and manager of Rose's Modern Beauteria.

Mrs. Kane will feature charm and visual poise while Mrs. Wallace will give special prominence to highlights in feminine perfection.

Guest models are Misses Marji Ewell, Linda Brown.

Mesdames Dorothy Wine, Emily Wigfall and Hattie Smith will present hair-styling and make - up techniques.
