through seventh grades in Somerset County around 1906.

"At that time colored children were only allowed to go to school for three months out of the year, while every one else went a full school year." Mr. Howard said.

ANOTHER LONG memory belong to Mrs. Carrie Hampton, 69, of 1549 N. Gilmor St.

She and her husband, Lloyd, recalled that they both had been taught by John Murphy in the eighth grade at the old Houston Grammar School and that he had been their favorite teacher.

"He was also the principal. He was a very nice teacher and all the children liked him," they said.

MRS. JAMES A. Dansby's nomination for the favorite teacher of two decades ago is Mrs. Charles Law, an eighth grade teacher at School 133.

Mrs. Dansby, who lives at 1203 Ensor St., described Mrs. Law as "a very pleasant person, who always had a smile and never raised her voice."

"She treated each person as an individual and it was like she was taking time with each of us," Mrs. Dansby said. "She taught history, but she had a real understanding of personalities."

GEORGE F. MARSHALL of 1802 Payson St., who stated "I'm 75 years old now," remembered two special teachers from his boyhood on the eastern shore.

"All the teachers I had are gone now," he said, "but there's one I remember, Mrs. Rose Coons, the third grade teacher. There's another one that was very good also, Mrs. Cora Gilliam."

AN INTERESTING reaction came from Mrs. Nellie M. Williams, 2102 N. Wolfe St., whose schooldays "ended 27 years ago, and that's a long time."

However, Mrs. Williams revealed that she is presently taking a night course in dressmaking at Dunbar and said that "my favorite teacher now is Mrs. Scribner, who teaches the course."

That makes Mrs. Elizabeth Scribner of 342 Gwynn Ave., the first night school teacher to be named a "favorite" teacher.

"COME TO think of it, he was the only one who kept me straight," was the way Leroy D. Jones described his favorite teacher.

Mr. Jones, of 1501 Payson St., admonished the AFRO, "don't forget Mr. Brown, 'Cutie' Brown. He coached me in soccer, basketball and football."

"That was back in 1940 at old Douglass High School," Mr. Jones recalled.

MRS. BERNICE LONG 2618 E. Oliver St., remembers a teacher she had more than 30 years ago in Sussex County, Va.

"She taught seventh grade and her name was Mrs. Hattie Smith," Mrs. Long said. "She had so much patience. I was so wild and she had so much patience with all of us."

Mrs. Long also recalled how the teacher used to commend her for her spelling.

TWO OTHER recollections came for teachers in Virginia.

Mrs. James R. Winstead, 1838 N. Washington St., remembered Mrs. Mabel Gurst, who taught her in the first grade in 1938 at Halifax, Va.

"Mrs. Gurst was very kind, liked children and took a lot of time with us," she said.

Willard W. Harris, 833 N. Caroline St., said his favorite teacher was Mrs. Sadie Woks, who in 1923 taught third grade in Palmyra, Va.

"She was very nice and a good teacher," he observed.

IRA JOHNSON, 1618 E. Federal St., has a special memory of Mrs. Constance Wharton, a music teacher when he was in the sixth grade at Dunbar in 1926.

"I liked the way she taught the class and conducted us. She taught vocal music," he said.

"There they are — students' vivid memories of the teachers who taught them, and probably far more important in the long run than the date Rome fell.

By the way, what was that date?

part of the evening.

He said Mr. Ross had taken him to his residence at about 10 p.m. and said he was on his way home himself as he drove off.

"Luke just wasn't the type of man to go running off somewhere without telling me. He was a good husband. We had been married for 22 years," Mrs. Ross said with tears in her eyes.

Back and forth, back and forth, from Connecticut to Virginia, Mrs. Ross had traveled in a relentless search for the man she loved, spending nearly $1,000.

At one time she had offered $200 reward for information leading to his discovery.

HER LAST trip was to Richmond, just three weeks ago.

"I went there because I knew that was in the direction of Elmira, N.C. where Luke was born. I checked all the hospitals and everything. But I didn't find Luke," Mrs. Ross recalled.

She had gone as far north as Connecticut, on several occasions to New Jersey, and three or four times to New York city.

THE END of the search came as abruptly as was the disappearance.

Purely by accident, police searching the Inner Harbor off Fell St., found Mr. Ross' stationwagon buried beneath 20 feet of water and completely covered by 8 feet of mud.

They were dragging the bay in hope of finding a person reported missing since December when they hooked on to something they could not pull up.

A magnet was lowered and police discovered the unmovable object was metal.

Two Baltimore County Police skin divers were then called to the scene to make further explorations.

By rubbing their gloved hands through thick mud, fungus water growth, and debris, they made out the smooth surface top of an automobile.

"As soon as the wagon cleared the water we could see the form of a human body. A foot hung out of the window," an officer said.

"WE HAD very little to go on to make an identification of the body because of advance decomposition," Dr Adams said.

A watch found on the body and a pair of work shoes were the only clues. Then, of course, there was the station wagon itself.

Police found it was registered to Luke C. Ross, 419 E. 22nd St.

"They called the house about 3 p.m.," Miss Florence Proctor, niece of the dead man, told the AFRO.

"I called my aunt (Mrs. Ross) and my sister Regina. All three of us went to the morgue to identify my uncle, or who they thought was my uncle."

Miss Proctor said when she was shown the Elgin gold pocket watch she had given Mr. Ross 11 years ago for his birthday, she knew it was her uncle.

"He never went anywhere without it," she stated.

MISS REGINA Proctor said, "I would know those shoes anywhere. I knew they were his even though they were bloated-up from the water.

"Uncle Luke practically raised us. We could not have had a better father."

"I never wanted to believe he was dead," said Mrs. Ross. "But I guess I knew it all the time. When Luke's mother died and he still didn't show up, not even for the funeral, I knew, or felt something was wrong.

"To think that all the time he was right here. You know Dr I asked the police to drag the harbor but they said they couldn't do it because of the magnet.

going to put them," she said, "but I don't want them to know it."

Two of the visitors, Paul Michael Bokulich of Harper Woods, Mich., and Patrick Anthony Jackson of Ann Arbor, Mich., remained in a city jail cell today, refusing to sign bonds.

They were among 36 white persons arrested Wednesday for parading without a permit. Safety director Wilson Baker, reluctant to jail those who refused to be released, let them spend the night in a city hall courtroom, but put the last two in jail today.

IN MONTGOMERY, police arrested 90 civil rights demonstrators picketing the courthouse for parading without a permit. A group of 300 segregationists marched toward the courthouse with a parade permit, but were stopped short of their goal by a police barricade.

They dispersed quietly after handing out statements denouncing the integrationists.

DR. MARTIN Luther King Jr. issued a statement in Montgomery announcing the Selma to Montgomery march would begin Sunday and end at the capitol Thursday.

An aide, Hosea Williams, said up to 3,000 persons were expected to march at some points in the five-day parade. The marchers, he said, would sleep in an enormous circus tent.

The civil rights advocates swarming into Selma came largely by bus and car. A constant shuttle service ran between Selma and Montgomery, and at least two charter buses rolled up to the church.

A continuous hootenanny and prayerfest was in session on the church steps. In another section of town the church food was being prepared constantly. A kindergarten room was turned into a dining room and the line stretched outside the door from 8 a.m. onwards.

Federal Judge Frank M. Johnson approved a plan for a march beginning Friday and ending Tuesday, complete with support vehicles. He ordered Wallace, Highway Patrol Chief Al Lingo, and Dallas County Sheriff Jim Clark to protect it.

Johnson recognized that the march, which apparently would obstruct traffic on U.S. 80 from Selma to Montgomery, "reaches ... to the outer limits of what is constitutionally permissable," Johnson ruled.

DR. MARTIN Luther King announced the ruling soon after it was handed down, to some 700 jubilant demonstrators massed before the courthouse.

He issued a statement to make that will make us all glad," he said. "Judge Johnson has just ruled that we have a legal and constitutional right to march from Selma to Montgomery."

The demonstrators roared their approval, and then turned and marched back to a church on King's orders. The original crowd of 3,000 on the courthouse steps had dwindled to only 700 by the time the announcement was made as a heavy rain discouraged many participants.

JOHNSON'S lengthy order enjoined Wallace, Lingo and Clark from "harassing, arresting, threatening or in any way interfering" with the march, or "otherwise obstructing, impeding or interfering" with it, and from "failing to provide protection" for the marchers.

The order came after five days of hearings, in which the state objected to the march on grounds it would not be safe and would block the highway.

A long opinion tacked on to the order accused Clark, his deputies, his civilian possemen and the state troopers with "harassment, intimidation, coercion, threatening conduct and sometimes brutal mistreatment toward" persons demonstrating for voter registration.

A MARCH 7 attempt to march from Selma to Montgomery, Johnson said, was broken up by state troopers and mounted possemen with tactics "similar to those recommended for use by the United States Army to quell armed rioters in occupied countries."

"This court recognizes that to afford the necessary protection for these marchers there will be a considerable burden imposed upon the law enforcement agencies of Alabama," Johnson said.

"Recognizing this and recognizing the absolute necessity for providing this protection, this court, after inquiry, has been informed by the attorney representing the U.S. in this case that the U.S. Government stands ready, if requested by the governor of the State of Alabama, to assist in providing police protection for this proposed march."

JOHNSON PUT the number of injured in the March violence at 75-80, and said the rout did not enforce "any valid law of the State of Alabama, or further any legitimate policy of the State of Alabama."

Instead, he said, the march was broken up "for the purpose, and had the effect, of preventing and discouraging colored citizens from exercising their rights of citizenship."

That march, he said, "involved nothing more than a peaceful effort on the part of colored citizens to exercise a classic constitutional right."

THE MARCH PLAN submitted by rights leaders, and approved by Johnson, calls for the parade to start at 11:30 A.M. EST Friday at Selma.

However, it was still uncertain Thursday as to what day the march would begin. There was some feeling it would not be possible to start the march Friday, and leaders were to meet to discuss the matter.

The number of marchers over the first two-lane portion of the highway is not to exceed 300 persons, but when the highway turns four-lane there will be no limit on the number.

The plan designated each stopping place and the number of miles to be covered, and said "large tents will be erected at the campsites by professionals. Meetings and songs festivals may be held at the campsites."

ADDING to the plan, the marchers —expected to number about 1,000 along the four-lane section —will provide themselves with food, a truck carrying washing and toilet facilities, litter and garbage pickup vehicles, ambulances, first aid vehicles, and walkie-talkies for communication along the line.

The marchers will walk in groups of 50, the plan said, each with a leader. A mass meeting will be held in front of the capitol when the march gets to Montgomery, and a delegation will try to get an audience with Wallace.

IN HIS OPINION, Johnson ranged over the details of the racial turmoil in and near Selma for the past few months.

He noted that "harassment, intimidation and brutality to demonstrators by Clark and his men "has ranged from mass arrests without just cause to forced marches for several miles into the countryside, with the sheriff's deputies and members of his posse herding the demonstrators at a rapid pace through the use of electrical shocking devices (designed for use on cattle) and nightsticks to prod them along."

Johnson said the state troopers, with "Sheriff Clark as an 'invited guest,' have extended the harassment and intimidating activities to Perry County."

He went on to detail the Feb. 18 rout of a band of marchers in Marion, in which the demonstrators were "pushed, prodded, struck, beaten and knocked down."

"THIS ACTION resulted in the injury of several persons," Johnson said, one of whom, Jimmy Lee Jackson, "was shot by an Alabama state trooper and subsequently died."

The judge mused over the problems of blocking the highway to motorists when demonstrators march along it. But he noted that by Alabama law, the highway is open to pedestrians.

"It seems basic to our conruled, "that the extent of the stitutional principles," he stated, "of the right to assemble, demonstrate and march peacefully along highways and streets in an orderly manner should be commensurate with the enormity of the wrongs that are being protested. In this case, the wrongs are enormous."

Wallace's order against the march, he said, was unconstitutional.

sage of the bills.

At that time, Gov. Tawes pledged his full administrative support to the bills banning discrimination in employment, the sale and rent of housing and to open all places of public accommodations to all people.

Since, the House's Judiciary Committee gave all three unfavorable reports, which was tantamount to killing them.

Gov. Tawes stepped into the picture though, and there was a reconsideration of the unfavorable vote on the bills covering employment and public accommodations.

Under pressure from the governor, Del. Thomas H. Lowe (D. Talbot), committee chairman, appointed a subcommittee to amend the bills, sponsored by Del. Clarence M. Mitchell 3rd (D. 5th Balto.), to insure passage.

Chief attempts were aimed at bringing them in line with the similar provisions of the National Civil Rights Act.

There was general agreement that the housing bill could not possibly be passed at this General Assembly session.

The subcommittee had amended the two bills late Thursday to conform with the national law, and may place them before the full Judiciary Committee for a vote either today (Friday) or early next week.

Birthday Tributes

CURTIS — A birthday tribute to the memory of my daughter, BETTY, who died her birthday, March 20, and who passed away March 20, 1956.

If I could have my fondest wish, the most wonderful in the world today,
I would wrap it up in loving words
And send it on its way.
And when your birthday morn at dawn
I'll whisper soft and low:
"Please, God, let the love my loved one back,
Because I miss her so."

The FAMILY.

NOLLIE — A birthday tribute to our loved one, LEE, on his birthday, March 17, and who passed January 30, 1956:

Birthdays were gay, when you were here—
A treasured gift, a kiss sincere.
Now you're gone, we miss you so.

WIFE, DAUGHTER And GRANDCHILDREN.

In Memoriams

ADAMS — A tribute of love to the memory of my husband and our devoted father, WILLIAM T., who entered into eternal life two years ago, March 17, 1963:

Two years have passed since that sad day;
When the one we loved, was called away.
God took him home,
It was his will,
Within our hearts,
He lives still.

Loving Wife, THERESA And CHILDREN.

ARTER — SMITH — In memory of my dear father, WILLIAM, who passed away, March 20, 1957; mother, SARAH M., who passed away March 20, 1958; and husband, JAMES SMITH, March 12, 1959:

Gone and forgotten by some you may be,
But dear to our memory you ever will be.

Daughter and Sister, MARGUERITE BROWN
Grandson, LEROY M.

BLAY — In loving memory of my son, LEROY M. BROWN who passed away March 18, 1964:

He has solved it, life's wonderful problem,
The doubts, the strangest, the last,
And into the school of angels
With the answer forever has passed.
How strange he should sleep so profoundly,
So young, so unworn by the strife,
While those he left behind, of hope's nectar
Unpassed stood the goblet of life.
God knew all about — how noble,
How gentle he was and how brave,
How bright his possible future,
Yet put him to sleep in the grave.
God knew all about those who love him,
How bitter the trial must be
And right through it all God is loving and knows so much better than we.

MOTHER.

BALLMAN — In memory of our loved one, ANNIE who passed away, March 16, 1961:

A wonderful mother, woman and aid.
One who was better God never made.
A wonderful worker, so loyal and true
One in a million — that, mother, was you.
Just in your judgment, always right;
Honest and liberal, ever upright;
Loved by your friends and all you knew.
Wonderful mother — that, mother, was you.

DAUGHTER, COUSIN And GRANDSON.

BALLMAN — In loving memory of my wife, ANNIE, who passed away March 16, 1961:

Today my heart is heavy,
My thoughts are all of you,
Oh, how I miss you, ANNIE, dear.
None but God in Heaven can see.
Some say time heals an aching heart,
But time isn't true.
For two long years have passed, dear,
And my heart still aches for you.

Husband.

BEGINALD GRIFFITHS
Children, DESMOND, CONSTANCE, BERNICE, BERNARD, LOIS, JAMES, ROSE, DELATOUR, ISIAH.

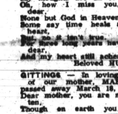
JENKINS — In loving memory of my husband, ISRAEL, who passed away March 17, 1961:

We walked together, you and I, in sorrow and in joy.
We shared our pains and happiness
With love without alloy.
And death shall never end our love
For this the what I see
Our glad reunion in the sky
For all eternity!

WIFE AND FAMILY.

JEWS — In loving memory of RAYMOND, who passed away March 18, 1960:

A silent thought,
A secret tear,
Keeps you a memory ever dear.
Time takes away the edge of grief,
But memory, Ray, is your relief.
Every deed,



MADAM.

CARTER — In loving memory of our dear sister, LAVONIA GOLDY CARTER, who passed away one year ago, March 22, 1964:

We will never forget that night
God called you home to stay;
Our hearts were filled with sadness.
Our eyes were filled with tears.
Sometimes it's hard to understand
Why some things have to be
But in the wisdom God has planned
Beyond our powers to know.
We placed flowers on your grave
And said a little prayer
We pray that God has blessed you
And will keep you in His care.—

Always Remembered by your Sisters — OLIVIA, RUBY, BERNICE, MANDELL And Brothers — ALFREAD, LEROY, JOE.

LEWIS — In loving memory of my mother, MARY, who passed away March 20, 1954:

My love cannot tell what is say;
My heart cannot tell what to say;
My lips cannot tell how I miss her.
In a home that is lonesome to day.

Loving DAUGHTER.

MOSELEY — In loving memory of my father, IRA D. MOSELEY, who passed away March 20, 1956:

Upon a lonely grave, there sleeps a dear, sad form.
We tried so hard to save
His life, but God knew best.
A helping hand to all in need,
A pleasant smile, a heart of gold
No finer son this world could hold.
The blow was hard, the shock severe
We little thought his death so near.
He bade none a last farewell, he said goodbye to none.
The Heavenly gates were opened, a lovely voice said come.
Don't ask us if we miss him.
Only God knows our sorrow.

Sadly Missed
Loving MOTHER
And FAMILY.

MOSELEY — In memory of my husband, IRA D. MOSELEY, who passed away seven years ago, March 20, 1956:

Peace be thy rest, dear IRA.
It is sweet to breathe thy name,
In life I loved you dearly
So in death I do the same.

Loving Wife, LILLIAN

SCOTT — In loving memory of our dear sister, ALLIE H., who passed away three years ago March 13, 1962:

Her pleasant way and smiling face
Are a pleasure to recall
She was a kind word for each
And died beloved by all.
Some day we hope to meet her,
Some day, we know not when,
To clasp a loved one's hand in the better land,
Never to part again.

Loving Sister,
ANNIE M. MOSELEY
Brother, ERNEST HACKETT
NANCY, EZZIE

SEWELL — A tribute to the memory of our mother, MARY R., who passed away March 16, 1962:

More and more each day we miss her.
Friends may think the wound is healed;
But they little know the sorrow
Lies within our heart concealed.

Devoted Children,
HELEN, LUCKAZE, ROSE And OLLIE R.

SEWELL — In loving memory of our dear brother, RUSSELL P., who passed away February 26, 1962:

You know, death does not sever
Love and memory, they live forever.

Loving SISTERS And BROTHERS

TILGHMAN — In memory of MAYME M., who passed away March 14, 1961:

We often sit and think of you,
When we are rain dis-
For memory is the only thing,
That grief can call its own.
God knows how much we miss you,
Never shall your memory fade,
Loving thoughts shall ever wander,
Near the spot where you were laid.

THE FAMILY.

WILLIAMS — In loving memory of our dear son and brother, ROBERT, who passed away March 21, 1964:

You are not forgotten, dear son,
Nor ever shall you be
We all miss you so much,
But God knows best.

The FAMILY

WILSON — In loving memory of my wife, ALTHEIA A., who passed away March 18, 1964:

We walked together, you and I,
In sorrow and in joy.
We shared our pains and happiness
With love without alloy.
And death shall never end our love
For this the what I see
For this the what I see
Our glad reunion in the sky—
For eternity!

Husband, JOSEPH.

YOUNG — In loving memory of my dear husband, EARL LEROY YOUNG, who passed away March 19, 1963:

Everyday, my heart is heavy,
My thoughts are all of you.
Oh, how I miss you, EARL, dear.
None but God in Heaven can see.
Some say time heals an aching heart,
But, no, it isn't true.
For two long years have passed, dear
And my heart still aches for you.

Loving Wife, ANNIE.

YLANZ — In loving memory of our dear niece, COZETTA DENISE, who departed this life, March 21, 1960:

The Lord has you in Heaven,
To be His own.
But we have loving memories,
To keep at our own.
