SNIPER KILLS A 'MARCHER'

White Mother Of 5 Slain—Mate Sobs, 'What Kind Of Rats Live Down There?'

NOW MOTHERLESS children of Mrs. Viola Gregg Luizzo wept and sought to console each other after learning of death. They are, left to right: Anthony Jr., 10; Sally, 6; Penny, 18, and Tommy, 13. A married daughter lives in Georgia.

HUSBAND Anthony Luizzo shows strain of tragedy after leaving of wife's murder just before she was scheduled to return home.

MURDERED — Mrs. Viola Gregg Luizzo of Detroit was slain while driving from Montgomery to Selma Thursday night after taking part in historic protest against racial discrimination in Alabama.

Murder

SELMA, Ala. (UPI) —Col. Al Lingo, head of the Alabama state police, said a white woman from Michigan who took part in Thursday's racial demonstration in Montgomery, Ala., was shot and killed tonight while driving back to Selma.

Lingo identified the victim as Viola Gregg Luizzo, 39, of 19375 Marloye Street, Detroit, Mich.

Lingo said papers on the woman's body indicated she was either a teacher or student at Wayne University in Detroit.

Other papers indicated she was a member of the transportation committee to the Selma-to-Montgomery "Freedom March" which ended today when more than 30,000 demonstrators gathered in front of the statehouse in Montgomery.

Lingo said the woman had made one trip from Montgomery to Selma with a load of colored persons and was returning to Montgomery with a colored boy in the car.

The boy was identified by the Southern Christian Leadership Conference as Leroy Moten.

LINGO SAID the shooting took place about three miles west of Lowndesboro, Ala., crossroad on U.S. 80, the Selma - to - Montgomery march route.

The colonel said two shots were fired at the car but that police did not know whether the shots came from another car or from the side of the road.

One bullet reportedly hit the tip of the car, the other going through the window on the driver's side and striking Mrs. Luizzo in the head.

Lingo said the car ran off the road and travelled about 300 feet before it stopped. He said the colored youth left the car and apparently hitchhiked back to Selma where he was being held in custody as a material witness.

The woman's body was in a

Giant Rally

By FRANK HUNT (AFRO Staff Correspondent)

MONTGOMERY, Ala. —To the thundering applause of some 30,000 persons from all over the country, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., in effect declared war on forces of segregation in Alabama, Thursday.

The Nobel Peace Prize winner, in what was perhaps his finest hour, delivered an eloquent appeal to the poor whites of the South and to the rest of the nation, to throw off a conspiracy of oppression in which they were shackled by a post civil war power structure which once sought to profit from segregation.

Black and white together, he said, could, through "creative non-violence, rebuild Alabama's image and make her a state in which all citizens could be proud.

White Alabamians leaned from windows in the Capitol building and several other state office buildings surrounding the confederate court.

Their faces were intent as the nation's top rights leaders, entertainers, and churchmen, of both races, provided a living witness for the cause of racial equality.

The area was surrounded by soldiers. Helicopters circled overhead. A line of Capitol police barred the en-

Local marchers hear Selma man

35 "freedom in Selma" sympathizers walked in a rainy mist from Lafayette Square to City Hall Plaza Thursday led by members of the Baptist Ministers' Conference.

The three-mile trek took just 35 minutes.

The purpose of the march, according to Rev. I. Logan Kearse, was a gesture of sympathy and unity with the more than 10,000 marchers led by Dr. Martin Luther King, who entered Montgomery, Alabama Thursday after a 50-mile trek from Selma.

Speaking to the small but enthusiastic group at the completion of the march here, the Rev. Harold Carter, pastor, Shiloh Baptist Church, declared:

"The struggle going on in the Southland today is not just the fight of the Southern Christian Leader-

Dr. King's dinner here is changed

Dr. Logan Kearse, chairman of the banquet for Martin Luther King to be held here Wednesday, announced today it has been switched from the Masonic Temple to the Main Ballroom of the Lord Baltimore Hotel and 410 more seats are available.

Dr. Kearse said he had been swamped for tickets and the dining room capacity of the Temple had been surpassed.

CORE calendar has ring around April 1 deadline

The Education Committee of Baltimore CORE is calling a planning meeting for April 2 at the Knox Community Center, Broadway and Gay Sts. to determine next steps in the Dunbar High School situation.

Dennis Crosby, a Dunbar teacher, is chairman of the CORE Committee.

James Griffin, president of Baltimore CORE told the AFRO Thursday the meeting agenda will not be set until the evening before.

Whether picketing will be resumed or not hinges on what happens between now and April 1, he stated.

Specifically, CORE wants the Board of School

Teacher Up 90,000 Votes In Week

There is just one week left in the AFRO's "My Favorite Teacher" contest.

There will be just one more coupon with which to place your teacher at the top of the list for the two trips to Nassau.

Next Tuesday's AFRO will carry the last voting coupon and all ballots must be postmarked or brought to the AFRO at 628 N. Eutaw St. by April 1.

Voting since the last issue was highlighted by an amazing surge in the vote count for Joseph Press of Madison Square Elementary School.

Mr. Press tallied a total of 90,000 votes since Tuesday to lead the 14 top teachers with 161,400 votes.

* * *

THE OTHER leaders contending for the 14 top prizes (the two luxurious cruises in the Bahamas and 12 cash awards) are listed on Page Two.

A newcomer to the list today is Miss Gwendolyn Bennett, a teacher at Beale Elliott Elementary School, who has piled up 45,700 votes.

If the favorite teacher from your school is not among the 14 leaders, you have just today's and Tuesday's issues with which to place her or him there.

Remember, all ballots must be submitted by April 1 and the winners will be announced April 6.

The two top winners will sail on their spring vacation tour of the Bahamas aboard the liner U.S.S. Homeric on April 10.

For the runners up there will be a third prize of $150, a fourth prize of $100 and 10 prizes of $10 each.

BUT WIN or lose, most finalists have written to the AFRO that the high esteem in which their students hold them is reward enough.

A number of these heart - warming letters are printed in today's paper.

As a bonus added to the $1,000 worth of prizes, the AFRO will present a handsome plaque to the school of the winning teacher and will throw a theatre party for her or his homeroom class.

Veney Brothers are least excited as manhunt ends

By GEORGE W. COLLINS, AFRO City Editor

The Brothers Veney — Sam and Earl — set foot on home soil at 2:43 p.m. Thursday, ending the first leg of a long journey to the day of reckoning.

The uneventful, heavily guarded arrival climaxed an equally uneventful and at times boring three hours, five - minute trip from the world's largest cement jungle — New York City.

If Sam and Earl were affected by their highly heralded arrival, which climaxed the most sensational manhunt in the city's history, they didn't show it.

Their reactions can be capsuled in a minimum of words.

Seated on the north side of the ancient and dingy Pullman car, and facing the rear, Sam stared and smoked, smoked and stared, stared and smoked.

Earl, seated on the south side facing north, slept and smoked, smoked and slept, and more of the same.

If they were cognizant of the facts which brought them special attention from nine crack detectives and railway V.I.P. treatment, it was not apparent.

SO QUIET, docile and apparently disinterested was the brother duo, it was difficult to associate them with the accused desperadoes who claim the dubois honor of being the first brothers to share star billing on the FBI's

Rights bill moves step in House

By MAX JOHNSON AFRO Political Analyst

ANNAPOLIS — The House of Delegates, after a week of delaying arguments, gave tentative approval late Thursday night to a public accommodations bill, patterned generally to bring Maryland in conformity with the national law.

The H. B. 334 faces final passage by the House either today (Friday) or Saturday, and then moves to the Senate.

However, the very vital matter of time arises as a key factor in its ultimate passage, for this General Assembly's first annual 70-day session ends Tuesday.

With a jammed backlog of key measures still to be acted on, interested Assembly members are questioning whether the bill can clear the Senate's Judiciary Proceedings Committee and the Senate before adjournment.

The Senate Committee, headed by Sen. Frederick C. Malkus Jr. (D.-Dorchester) had not acted at AFRO press time on the fair employment practices bill, okayed by the House and sent to it Monday evening.
