›y Scouts seeking ner-city members

drive to bring more into scouting is being hed by the Baltimore Council, Boy Scouts of America.

Part of a nation-wide ef- fort being made by the Na- tional Council of Boy Scouts, the drive was emphasized by the arrival in Baltimore this week of Alfred Hill, as- sistant director of public re- lations for the National Council.

The program, called a "Break-Through for Youth" is geared toward improving communication with people of the inner city. The Coun- cil expects to make broader use of news media, includ- ing newspapers, radio and television, to reach the boys and parents.

"WE WANT them to know that scouting is available to all youth, regardless of where they live or what economic background they may have," said Mr. Hill. "We want all parents to become aware of the scout- ing program and the work of the Boy Scouts of Ameri- ca in building good character in our youth.

"Boys who become scouts seldom get into trouble. They are too busy with wholesome things—they en- joy scouting activities."

According to local scout officials, there are 169,000 boys of scout age in the Baltimore area. Of this number, some 32,000 are al- ready participating in scout- ing programs. There are now 1,200 scout units encom- passing boys between the ages of 8-17 years.

Scouting covers a wide range from cubbing to ex- ploring. As the boys grow and their interests widen, so does the program widen to bring them into more varied interesting activities.

Also, in this area there are more than 3,000 acres of land that are used year round for camping and other scouting purposes.

"THIS BOY Scout pro- gram is for everyone," said Marion L. Rudd, of the Bal- timore Area Council. "Just let a boy say 'I want to be a Scout,' or his parents say 'I want my boy to be a scout.'"

"Tell it to your pastor, a teacher or school principal, the manager of your housing project, or to any scout leader. As soon as word is passed to us, we will take the necessary action to get your boy into America's greatest youth organization—the Boy Scouts of America."

Ashram Retreat opens 9 am tomorrow at First Baptist

The Interdenominational Ashram Retreat will open tomorrow, Saturday at 9 a.m. at First Baptist Church, Caroline and McElderry Sts., and continue through 4 p.m.

The meeting is sponsored by American Christian Ash- ram, a world group founded by Dr. E. Stanley Jones.

Miss Estelle C. Carver, the Bible Study Hour teacher of Keuka Ashram seven years will address morning and after- noon sessions.

Highlight of the one - day event is the Hour of the Op- en Heart, where all may ex- press their needs and desires. Later Miss Carver will give the answers in her address.

Further help will come at Family Hour around the lunch table, within the small prayer bands, at Consecra- tion Service and during the Hour of the Overflowing Heart from 3:10 p.m. to 4 p.m. At the conclusion, thanksgiving will be given for blessings experienced.

The retreat carries out the directive which has empha- sis on youth groups and the healing effect of love to the mind, spirit and body through unification of Chris- tians everywhere.

A prayer vigil for the suc- cess of Ashram and the needs of the world extends through today, Friday, from 9 a.m. and through Saturday until 4 p.m.

The Rev. Gus Roman, pas- tor of First Baptist, will bring greetings. Lunch is from 12 noon to 1:15 p.m. at the Dunbar High School cafe- teria.

Arthur Alexander

BOSTON —Arthur Alexan- der, baritone, will be pre- sented in concert on Palm Sunday, April 11, at the Un- ion Methodist Church, 485 Co- lumbus Ave.

The concert will be spon- sored by the Alpha Chi Pi Omega Sorority. Alexander is a graduate of the National Conservatory of Panama and is currently a senior at Bos- ton University, and a soloist at the St. Peters Episcopal Church.
