LUN LUNCHEON GUESTS noted and ed and aahed as Miss Dotson and o and other Pauline Brooks models models paraded with the latest latest garments for at home casual casual activities right on through through to the right thing for "elega "elegante" occasions and even evening evening affairs.

Com Commentator Odell Rea was in her usual rare form and delighted guests with her pert comments.

Nell Sheridan wu designs hats for the Salon showed imagination and talent in the chapeaux she provided to complement the outfits.

A champagne party preceded the luncheon which was emceed bh Mrs. Mabel Gee. She wore a shocking pink silk suit with matching nylon bouffant hat.

MRS. BROOKS was elegant in blue with a snazzy blue straw highlighted by a bright red rose.

She was as happy as a little girl at a birthday party —introducing the scores of guests who came from D.C. Va., N.Y. and Pa. and nearby Maryland points.

Among them: Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Wilson (the Co. representative); Mrs. Lottie Brooks, Owings Mills, her mother - in - law; and Mrs. Mattie Roscoe, Mrs. Mabel Williams, Mrs. Evelyn Morris and Mrs. Roberta Pope, all of D.C. The latter was with her mother, Mrs. Willie McGuinn, whom many present commented was 'looking pretty as a picutre,' and she was.

Also there: Mrs. Helena Harris and Mrs. Lucille Ricks, both of Newport News, Va.

Music for the occasion was most unusual — Meredith Birche and his combo delighted guests throughout the afternoon. Mr. Birche showed real talent as he moved from the piano to the organ which had been provided by Mrs. Brooks' nephew, Sterling Frances.

Mr. Birche also featured an original song, 'Welcome to Spring.' Typical words, "welcome to spring, new styles that will swing."

Soloist George Milburn offered an original song, 'Welcome to the luncheon, guests offered a moment of silent prayer for Mrs. Irma George Dixon, the Fourth District Legislator, who remains critically ill in Sinai Hospital.

Flowers were also presented in absentia to Mrs. Florence Murray, who had hoped to attend, but was kept home by the snow.

Mrs. Helena T. Edmonds was chief greeter. Other hostesses were Million Abidissa, Mary Fitts, Gloria Fleet, Frances Ladmirault and Fiorella Tsige. Wardrobe mistresses were Geneva France and Lois Clark.

Other models, in addition to Miss Dotson, were: Mabel Burton, Edith Harrison, Joan Stevenson, Ella Talley, Tenyo Wiggins, Melinee Yerrell, Leatrice Hubbard and Barbara Kutch —B. M. Moss.

Responsibility theme of League's sessions

"The Club Woman's Responsibility in the Civil Rights Movement" will be discussed by Samuel Allen, chief counsel of the Community Relations Service, U.S. Department of Commerce, at the annual conference luncheon of the Maryland League of Women's Clubs.

The conference will be held Saturday, at 12 noon at the Sheraton Belvedere Hotel, Charles and Chase Sts.

Mr. Allen, brother of Joseph Allen, former executive secretary of the Baltimore Urban League, is also legal counsel to the USA, headed by Carl Rowan.

IN HIS speech, the native Ohioan will also point out the interrelationships of the civil rights legislations, passed by the Federal government, the state of Maryland and Baltimore City, as they apply to public accommodations, employment and education.

The luncheon will highlight the 22nd annual conference of the League. Last minute reservations may be made with Miss Marion Jones at the hotel no later than 10:30 a.m. Saturday, according to Mrs. Gwendolyn Lee, president.

DELEGATES will convene at 8 a.m. for the breakfast session which will feature election of officers, club reports, and a brief memorial service for the late Mrs. Mary McKim who died last year.

Two workshops, to be held at 10:30 a.m. and 2 p.m. will consist of a film "Walk In My Shoes" and a panel discussion "Talk In My Tongue."

DISCUSSANT leaders will include:

Miss Lane Berk and Barry Greenstein of the Maryland Commission in Intergroup Problems and Relations; Gene Noble of the Baltimore Community Relations Commission, Arthur Murphy and Joseph Kaplan, assistant U.S. attorneys of the District of Maryland. Mrs. Emily Cralle, of the League, will lead the discussion on the film.

On Friday at 8:30 p.m. at the hotel, the League will entertain the delegates, guests and city and state officials at a pre - conference reception.

Miss Shirley M. Kyle, first vice president of the League, is program chairman.

MRS. LORETTA VALENTINE
She salutes others with flowers

For Mrs. Loretta Valentine, flowers are a way of life

Mrs. Loretta Oliver Lewis Valentine, 1013 N. Appleton St., not only turns her fancy to flowers in spring but in every season, for, to her, flowers are a way of life.

Blossoms have been her business over 20 year, and, she's known about town as The Flower Lady as she sends pretty posies to friends who need a bit of cheer.

Now in semi - retirement, Mrs. Valentine still takes many orders at home from long time friends and customers for Summers Norwood Florists where she was employed regularly until a recent illness.

The fact that Mrs. Valentine's creed is, and always has been flowers, was brought to light recently by her Summers firm co - workers.

Carl Norwood, owner, and the Rev. William E. Hamilton, manager, along with their wives and Mrs. Valentine's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Morsell, wished her happy birthday, March 18.

You guessed it, they sent her flowers, accompanied by many tributes.

They said, "We give her flowers while she lives, so she may see their beauty and so she may know our gratitude for the many kindnesses she has shown us.

"She is a person who will go without, to help her fellowman, for, it brings her joy, just helping another.

"To us, she is one of Baltimore's outstanding designers and an exceptional business woman, known for her skill with flowers. And, like flowers, she is beautiful. In fact, she has always been one of Baltimore's lovliest ladies."

They recalled she studied at Bowie College and then gave others, as Mr. Norwood, the benefit of her training.

Summers Florists also voted Mrs. Valentine, "Mother of the Year."

* * *

MRS. VALENTINE has the proverbial "green thumb." inherited, she says, from her grandmother, the late Elizabeth Oliver of Pikesville, who was Indian and taught her grandchildren that certain art. Another granddaughter, Miss Mary Burns, is also a florist.

At home, Mrs. Valentine has roses in her yard but her favorite flower is the large mum, which, she says, makes such a regal, majestic bouquet.

Mrs. Valentine began as one of the first local florists of her race in the 1930's at 1816 Pennsylvania Ave. with her cousin, Miss Burns, as Floral and Gift Shop at the partner.

Then she opened Loretta's home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Morsell, 513 Sanford Pl.

Later, at her 2121 Madison Ave. shop, she gave one of her orchids to Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, then the First Lady of the Land.

The most memorable design, she says, was the blanket of white mums and lilies for the casket of the late Bishop W. A. C. Hughes.

MRS. VALENTINE is married to Harry Valentine, son of the late Rev. Harry Valentine, former Sharp Street Methodist Church pastor. They will have been married 25 years Sept. 27.

Her children are Mrs. Kennard (Zerita) Adams; Detective Walter S. Lewis Jr., by a former marriage; Michael Valentine, sophomore at Morgan State College.

Her sisters are Mrs. Katherine O. Johnson and Miss Madge Oliver. Grandchildren are Edward Williams Sr., Wanda and Karen Lewis, Kennard and Ronald Adams and great grandson, Edward Williams Jr. A cousin is Mrs. Marion Hitchinson. Dr. Carson Carl Johnson Jr. is nephew who resides in Boston, Mass.

COOKING IS FUN

Pears score in spring cookery

For a quick and easy salad, serve canned pear halves on a bed of shredded lettuce, garnished with a cream cheese or cottage cheese ball.

For an unusual luncheon dish, combine cottage cheese and diced canned pears with chicken chow mein. For a breakfast fruit, combine chopped canned pears with plumped pitted prunes.

* * *

Misted canned pears make an excellent garnish for roast lamb. To prepare drain liquid from canned pears. Add green food coloring to juice, and bring liquid to boil in a sauce pan. Remove from heat and add mint extract or mint jelly. Blend well.

Then place drained pears in a refrigerator dish, add syrup and cover the dish tightly. Refrigerate overnight. Serve chilled with a hot lamb entree.

* * *

PORK CHOPS and glazed pears go well together. To prepare glazed pears, melt butter in a fry pan, add well-drained pears, sprinkle with brown sugar and cook slowly until pears are well glazed.

Here's a recipe for PEAR SEAFOAM SALAD, a dish to serve at both family and company meals. It's recommended by USDA home economists.

Use 1 cup cottage cheese, 1 package lime-flavored gelatin, 1 and ¾ cups hot liquid (pear syrup plus water), 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 6 to 8 canned pear halves, 2 tablespoons pimento, ½ cup crushed pineapple, undrained; and 2 tablespoons green pepper, chopped.

To prepare: Dissolve gelatin in liquid; add lemon juice. Cool. Pur a thin layer into round oiled 1-quart pan; allow to set. Cool remaining gelatin until syrupy. Drain pears.

Place pimento strip in top of each pear cavity before placing pear cut - side down in gelatin. Combine pineapple, cottage cheese, green pepper and remaining pimento and fold into remaining gelatin.

Pour mixture over pears; chill until firm. Unmold onto serving plate. Garnish with a ring of cottage cheese around edges and in the center, and parsley sprigs around edge. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

* * *

PEAR CHEESE CAKE makes a satisfying mealender. It's a "no - bake" cake.

Use 1 cup milk, 3 cups cottage cheese, sieved, 1 cup dairy sour cream, 2 tablespoons gelatin, 1 cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 eggs separated, 2 teaspoons grated lemon rind, 3 tablespoons lemon juice, 4 canned pear halves, and 1 crumb crust.

Mrs. Alice Bryant, ex-Silhouette head

Funeral services for Mrs. Alice H. Bryant, 1830 16th St. NW, were held Monday at St. Luke's P.E. Church, followed by interment in Lincoln Memorial Cemetery.

Mrs. Bryant, wife of Samuel R. (Slim) Bryant, died March 19 at Freedmen's Hospital after a lingering illness. Funeral arrangements were conducted by the Jarvis Funeral Home.

* * *

MRS. BRYANT was a former president of the Silhouettes - an organization of wives of the Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity, and active in local civic and church circles. Members of the Silhouettes were honorary pallbearers.

In addition to her husband, Mrs. Bryant is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Agnes Walker of Holidaysburg, Pa., and Miss Marjorie Matthews of New York City; a brother, John Hughes of Steubenville, Ohio; and nieces and nephews, Marjories, Harriet and James Harper Jr.; Elizabeth House and George Walker of Camden, N.J.

Why Young says city is in trouble

Figures compiled by the Urban League, covering 19 major cities, show that Baltimore ranks low concerning decent jobs, family income and home ownership for its colored citizens.

With a median Baltimore family income of $3,123, only New Orelans, Atlanta and St. Louis fall below this figure.

With 31.8 percent of Baltimore families in the poverty class ($3,000 or less per year), again it is only these same three cities that have a higher percentage of poverty families.

The 66 per cent of colored workers who hold unskilled jobs in Baltimore places it near the bottom of the list of major cities: Here, only New Orelans with 84 per cent, and Atlanta, with 77 per cent, have a higher percentage of unskilled workers among those cities included in the study.

Despite figures showing some 25 per cent of the families here rate middle class ($6,000 a year or over) still the median male income in Baltimore is $3,124, compared to $3,763 for Chicago, $3,858 for Cleveland, and $3,332 for New York males.

All of which adds up to Whitney Young's statement: "Baltimore is in trouble".

Mr. Young made the statement here at the annual Urban League dinner last Sunday.
