Md. League of Women's Clubs supports local car washers

By ELOISE RICHARDSON

When the Maryland League of Women's Clubs held its 22nd annual Spring Conference at the Sheraton - Belvedere Hotel on Saturday, the organization unanimously went on record petitioning the Board of School Commissioners to name the forthcoming public school in the Walbrook section of the city in honor of Mary Church Terrell.

According to the petition, Mary Church Terrell was the first colored woman in this country to be named a member of a school board and she served eleven years in the District of Columbia.

She also was one of the first colored women to graduate from an institution of higher learning, Oberlin College, in 1884 and she was founder and first president of a national colored women's organization, the National Association of Colored Women's Clubs in 1897.

She was a champion of civil rights.

Then in 1963 a new elementary school in the District of Columbia was named for her.

The League also sent telegrams to Gov. J. Millard Tawes and Senators Joseph A. Bertorelli, Joseph V. Moch, J. Joseph Curran Jr., Verda Welcome, Paul A. Dorf, William L. Hodges and Frederick C. Malkus, chairman of the Judiciary Proceedings Committee and Delegate Marvin Mandel, chairman of the Baltimore City Delegation, requesting their support and votes for Civil Rights legislation without "crippling" amendments.

• • •

TELEGRAMS were also sent to Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin, Thomas J. D'Alesandro III, president and Frank Gallagher, vice-president, Baltimore City Council, and William D. Schaefer, chairman of the Judiciary Committee, urging that the Minimum Wage Law be passed without any "crippling" amendments, and that car wash attendants be covered under the law.

The conference, which had as its theme "The Club Woman's Responsibility in the Civil Rights Movement," presented as its speaker for the luncheon program, Samuel Allen, chief counsel to former Gov. Leroy Collins of Ohio for the Community Relations Service, U.S. Department of Commerce. He is also legal counsel to the U.S. Information Agency.

Allen spoke on the Community Relations Service of the Civil Rights Act, which serves as a new concept of the Federal law.

During the conference a panel participated in a workshop entitled "Talk on My Tongue." Panel members were Mrs. Lane Berk and Barry Greenstein of the Maryland Commission on Interracial Problems and Relations; Gene Noble of the Baltimore Community Relations Commission, and Thomas Kenney, U.S. attorney for the Maryland District.

Another workshop was the showing of the film "Walk in My Shoes," with Mrs. Emily Cralle as discussant.

THE CONFERENCE Committee consisted of Mesdames Mabel Scott, Eloise Ricardson, second vice - president; Ruby Gill, parliamentarian; Agnes Brown, treasurer; Margaret Ross, exhibits and Cora Gibson, hostess; and Misses Marian Jones an dVivian Young, registration. Miss Shirley Kyle, first vice president, served as chairman.

Officers of the League are Mrs. Gwendolyn C. Lee, president; Miss Shirley M. Kyle, first vice - president; Mrs. Evelyn Benston of Centreville, second vice - president; Mrs. Irma Roy, recording secretary; Mrs. Alice Holt Battle, Lothian, assistant recording secretary; Mrs. Frankie Henchen corresponding secretary; Mrs. Vivian Young, financial secretary; Miss Marion Jones, treasurer; Mrs. Bernice White, publicity chairman; Mrs. Gloria Romas, historian; Mrs. Violet Hill White, sargeant - at - arms, and Mrs. Rubye Gill, parliamentarian.

The nominating committee consisted of Mesdames Emma Dudley, Naomi Camper, Cora Gibson, Isabelle H. McDonnell, Gwendolyn Herbert, Lilly Strother, Ethel Smith, Mabel Scott and Dorothy Washington.
