but remember, this list does not include votes received Wednesday and Thursday.

However, the list does show major shifts among the pre-deadline leaders.

TUESDAY'S AFRO (April 6) will carry the names of the winners of the top 14 prizes in this $1,000 contest as well as a complete vote count for all teachers in the finals.

By April 10 the two lucky "favorite teachers" will be on their way to Nassau and a week's vacation in the Bahamas aboard the luxury liner S. S. Homeric.

Now that the contest is over and the work has been done, all you can do is sit back and relax — and hope that your favorite teacher has won the deed to a never-to-be-forgotten vacation and a week's fun in the sun.

If your teacher has not won the much-needed vacation, he—or—she may have been lucky enough to win one of the 72 cash prizes for runners-up.

The third place teacher will receive a cash award of $150. For fourth place there is $100 waiting, and there are 10 prizes of $10 each.

• • •

AND IF you are lucky enough to be in the homeroom of the winning teacher you will be feted to an exciting theatre party, compliments of the AFRO.

In addition, the school of the winning teacher will receive a handsome plaque to mark their praise-worthy contribution to the contest.

As the contest draws to a close and the winners are about to be announced, the AFRO would like to acknowledge the many heart-warming letters it received from students and teachers alike.

THE LETTERS showed that pupils thought enough of their teachers to try to win a prize for them and that they had fun doing it.

They also showed that, win or lose, the teachers gained something that is invaluable—the respect and recognition of their pupils.

In the end, every teacher some pupil thought enough of to fill out a ballot for is a big winner.

the boycott cannot work.

As the demonstrators marched, the elderly minister joined them to sing, "I'm Praying for You."

As the singing demonstrators disbanded about 2:30 p.m., amazed white spectators were heard commenting about "all those colored people picketing Dr. King."

COMMENTING ON the picketing by Michaux's group, Julius W. Hobson, chairman of the Associated Community Teams (ACT), exclaimed:

"Michaux's action against Dr. King confirms the axiom that men in his profession are taught to have faith and not think.

"The Elder is in no position to criticize the civil rights movement because he has been in Washington as long as I, but has left no support to any social action program."

Hobson said Michaux's whole history centers around "the head in the sand approach."

"He is not a man of action," the ACT leader said adding:

"I don't personally agree with Dr. King's selective dying list which sends people into the South to get beaten and killed in order for the President to do what he's constitutionally supposed to do anyway.

"I approve of Dr. King's objectives . . . he got the Civil Rights Bill of 1964 which still is not enforced, and he will get a voting bill.

"The question is, when is the Justice Department going to quit lying and saying it has no power to do anything but investigate?"

EDWARD HAILES, executive secretary of the District's NAACP unit, termed it "very unfortunate that the picketing should occur."

"I am certain that the pickets are not conscious of the facts in the matter. If they were they would not picket blindly."

Hailes said it is "regrettable that we cannot have unity at this point simply because there are those who feel they must maintain leadership status at any expense, even through attacking a positive approach from a negative standpoint."

CORE leader Herbert Wood called Michaux's action "a prostitution of the dignified idea of a demonstration."

He suggested that the picketing of Dr. King "is apparently for the sole sake of publicity and nothing else."

Most colored Americans will ignore him, Wood said, "but because he is colored some newspaper columnists may try to make more of the picketing than it is."

The Elder's action, Wood projected, "is indefensible."

the program:

8:35 p.m. The toastmaster, Samuel T. Daniels, grand master of Prince Hall Masons, explained the purpose of the event in honor of the 1964 Nobel Peace Prize winner.

8:37 — The Rev. Marcus Wood, Providence Baptist, said the invocation in which he described Dr. King as the 20th Century Moses. Dinner followed.

8:40 — Guests at the head table were introduced. In addition to those who spoke, these included Morgan President Martin Jenkins and Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Logan (he is Dr. King's personal physician);

9:15 — The Morgan State College Octette sang.

9:25 — Coppin State President, Dr. Parlett Moore, lauded the honoree's contribution to education.

9:37 — Mrs. Coretta S. King, who had entered a few minutes earlier with her husband, was presented to the audience which gave her resounding applause.

She wore black with small sequin clips at each shoulder, and long matching earrings.

Her radiant smile charmed the audience. Comments of, 'oh, she's pretty,' could be heard in the area where we sat.

9:30 — Bayard Rustin, described as Dr. King's right-hand man, was presented. His greying hair matched his grey suit.

Baltimore's Warren Shaw, the real estate man, moved into view to get a closer picture.

9:39 — Rabbi Morris Liaberman gave a 'welcome on behalf of the Jewish community ...you are a servant of the living God...you do not walk alone....'

9:41 — Cardinal Shehan, Archbishop of Baltimore sent an aide who said:'...we thank you, Dr. King for having served well...'

9:45 — Oliver Singleton, AFL-CIO regional representative read a statement explaining the union's dispute with the hotel and explaining that the union did not call a strike out of respect to Dr. King.

9:47 — Audience gave a standing ovation to the honoree's father, Dr. Martin Luther King Sr., and his brother, Dr. A.D. King.

9:50 — Mayor McKeldin opened his remarks with 'My fellow alumnus of Morgan College', referring to fact that both he and Dr. King were presented honorary degrees.

Before presenting a key to the city and making Dr. King an honorary citizen, he brought thunderous applause when he told how he had been asked why civil rights demonstrators went to Alabama.

His answer to them he said was: They went because they had to go. Their beliefs compelled them to go.

'They believed in human dignity, in mutual respect among men...in equality of opportunity...they believed so deeply in these great truths that they had every right to go.they had no right not to go.

9:56 — Announcement Dr. King's Thursday speech at Coppin changed to 2:30.

9:57 — Elner Johnson, Governor Tawes aide presented the chief executive's certificate of citizenship. He described himself 'a very fortunate young man' to break bread with Dr. King and Vice President Humphrey all in one week.

10:00 — Toastmaster Daniels joked that since Gov. Tawes' representative found it 'tough' to follow Mayor McKeldin on a speakers' platform, a 'possible solution' might be for him to stay in Annapolis and help return Mr. McKeldin to the Governor's chair.

10:02 — The Morgan Oclette sang, 'I've Been Duped And I've Been Scorned,' and 'Good News.' Afterwards, they shook hands with Dr. and Mrs. King.

10:03 — Guest at a rear table slumped. Friends fetched water, began hunting for doctors. She was revived and remained at her seat.

10:08 — Dr. Lawrence Reddick, Coppin professor and close friend who has traveled abroad and walked the demonstration lines with Dr. King, rose to introduce, 'our noble, noble reformer.....'

10:13 — The Rev. Ralph Abernathy, chief aide to Dr. King, walked to the platform from the rear where he had been standing and then there was a hush as the thunderous standing ovation to Dr. King subsided.

10:14 — The honoree began by thanking those members of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference who are assembled in Baltimore . . . the Rev. J. Logan Kearse, Cornerstone minister and chairman of the dinner . . . Grand Master Daniels . . . the clergy, the Governor, Mayor.....

10:15 — I regret so much that Governor Wallace has not seen fit to make me an honorary member of that state . . . but I'm glad there are great lights of hope in other areas.

10:16 — City Councilman Walter Dixon leaned over the balcony rail, Democratic leader Lloyd Randolph stood with eyes fixed as King described his Nobel Peace award as 'a note of encouragement. True to my promise, I haven't spent one penny of it for Martin Luther King. . . .'

10:18 — Some of us here tonight out of great trials and night come out of great trials and tribulations. . . we will take a brief respite to assess the developments of the last few months.

'We have seen the multitudes. Now for two or three days, we are going up into the mountains in order to get a broader prospective . . . to see where we are going and exactly what the movement will do from here on in.

10:21 — Let me say to you my friends, Alabama is everybody's struggle. No one who lives inside the United States can be considered. . . outside of this struggle . . . until Alabama gets right no section is right . . . a threat to justice anywhere is a threat to justice everywhere.

10:23 — Every colored person is fighting a constant battle of nothingness. . . .

10:28 — We are through with segregation, now, henceforth and evermore.

10:29 — There are those who say things will work themselves out . . . the cautious say wait on time, time will solve the problem . . . can be but time is neutral, it can be used constructively or destructively . .

10:29—The hour is late . . . the clock of destiny is running out . . . we must act now before it is too late.

10:30 — This is not just a colored man's struggle, . . . not a struggle between white and colored but against the forces of darkness . . . between justice and injustice.

10:33 — Something has happened today in the churches . . . in Selma ministers of every denomination, rabbits, priests and those wonderful nuns are giving new life to our struggles Somehow the church has decided to get on its feet.

10:37—The Civil Rights Bill of 1964 was written by marching feet and we are going to write a voting bill with our feet on the streets of Alabama in 1965. . . .

'But we have a responsibility to say to Congress there is no need for a lot of talk. Everybody knows even Justice Warren couldn't pass that test given in Alabama. We don't need to get bogged down in the paralysis of analysis . . . let's get the bill passed.

10:39 — 'Ten people were brutally murdered during the administration of Governor Wallace. There is virtual reign of terror in Alabama . . . murder is a favorite pastime . . . this must stop.

10:41 — Decent white people have abandoned responsibility. We must prod the good people, to cause the moderates to rise up.

If it takes economic pressure (boycott) to do this, we have a moral responsibility to do it. . . . Alabama suffers from the silence of the good people.

10:42 — We are not out to put anybody out of business. We are seeking to put justice in business . . . we shall overcome. . . . believe our movement is morally right, ours is a struggle to transform the dark yesterdays into bright tomorrows . . .

10:43 — The Rev. Mr. Abernathy was introduced.

10:44 — The Rev. Edgar Silver presented a silver tray 'on behalf of the citizens of Baltimore and the Baptist Ministers' Conference.'

10:45 — The Rev. Mr. Kearse thanked all who supported the testimonial.

10:50 — The Rev. Harold Carter, New Shiloh Baptist said the benediction in which he called King 'our courageous friend.'

The lady at the table next to me, said loud and clear, "Amen."

There were tears in eyes of many as they remained in their seats until the 'Noble, Noble Moses' and his party left the banquet hall.

Symphony concert proves 'great night for singing'

By ADAH K. JENKINS

The ninth Saturday evening concert by the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Elyakime Shapiro, proved to be "a great night for singing."

Judging by the applause of the large audience, the "Rodgers and Hammerstein Nite" was a huge success.

The event marked the Lyric debut of Baltimore's latest vocal ensemble, the Eubanks Chorale.

The group, which is conducted by Joseph Eubanks, assistant professor of music at Morgan State College and a well known soloist in his own right, performed in a highly satisfying style.

In addition to superior vocal technics, the intercultural group lent to the familiar choruses an expressive glow as well as professional polish.

The chorale personnel includes professional and semi-professional singers from the Morgan faculty, alumni and student body, students from Notre Dame College and from the local community.

Members are: Warrenie E. Hall, Ora Williams, Judy Schaffern, Veronica M. McCrode, Regina Hilady, Annie White, Mary Ruzicka, Marie Shmilewsky, Jacqueline Miles, Richard McKinney, Alan Blackwell, William Blackwell, Mack Statham, Alton P. Scott Jr., Willie Howard, Richard Barkely, Robert L. Hooker, Paul Baptop, Anthony Hawkins and James N. Jones.

Soloists, who were in excellent voice, were Gladys Callahna, soprano, and Frank Whitmore, baritone, both experienced vocalists who have appeared often with the Symphony and in the Baltimore Opera Company.

The orchestra entered into the occasion with verve and zest under the purposeful and imaginative baton of Mr. Shapiro.

The sourvenir program was prepared by the Exchange Club of Towson, special patrons of the concert, along with the Lancers Boys Club and the Russell Sage Alumni.

ALLISON NELSON and Harry Neal (Mr. and Mrs. Neal) presented in the fourth Morgan State College Concert Hall Series one of the most revelatory piano recitals we have heard.

Their performance was marked by a rapport and sensitive interpretation that are seldom displayed in duo piano programs.

Mendelssohn's "Overture to Midsummer Night's Dream", played in its original form, for a duet act one instrument, was a delight in some color.

Brahms' works - "Serenade" in five movements; Five Waltzes and Five Hungarian Dances - were rich with many-colored textures and striking contrasts in rhythm and voice leading.

In the Brahms "Variations on a theme by Haydn" and the Shasta Kovich encore there was ample proof of the brilliant technical equipment of the artists.

The Concert Series will close Friday, April 23 at 8:15 p.m. with the opera "La Boheme" (sung in English) by the Turnau Opera Players.

THE 11TH Annual Talent Hunt sponsored by Pi Omega Chapter of Omega Psi Phi Fraternity was held Thursday at Lemmel Junior High School.

First honors were won by Barbara Pinnick, pianist, playing Beethoven's "Sonata Pathetique," were a $50 Savings Bond, a trophy and gold certificate and a trip to represent Baltimore in the district auditions in Plainfield, N.J. on April 23.

Marilyn Graham, soprano, singing "Calm as the Night", garnered the second prize - a $25 Savings Bond, a trophy and gold certificate.

Playing a Handel "sonata for Saxaphone", Benjamin Barksdale was awarded third prize.

Other contestants included Charles Stroehrs, clarinetist; Laura Williams and Harold Williams, pianists; Willie Jordon, trumpeter; Nicholas Smart, clarinetist; Evelyn Dildy, Carla Glover and Patsy Hemphill, sopranos; Edward Lee and Rodrick Ross, tenors and Ronald Robinson, baritone.

Cortex Puryear, second prize winner in the 1964 Talent Hunt, was guest artists, playing "Two Guitars".

Judges for the event were Mesdames Katrine White and Genevieve Wisner and Joseph Eubanks. Earl Hagan, of the talent hunt committee, presided; William F. Henderson was chairman.

THE MONTROSE Players prepared for a recent appearance a one - act play for three voices by Charles R. Kennedy. William Myers, the director of the group, wrote a processional opening, in which all of the members participated.

The theme, which involves the Easter story, will be portrayed by: Sophonia Willis, Shelia Gilliam, Kathryn Frazier, Deane Young, Patricia Payne, Carol Coleman, Mary Keavney, Janet Copeland, Marcelena Mowell, Eleanora Van Rye, Irma Sondericker and Kathy Wallace.

The next performance is April 9 in the Field School Gymnasium.

NEW Old Fitzgerald 86.8 proof mild, 8 years mellow!
Old Fitz PRIME STRAIGHT is the most flavorful Bourbon ever bottled at popular proof!
Here's why the first "new" Fitzgerald in 70 years can bring you such mellow "smoothed-out" flavor at gentle 86.8 proof:
We took time to make PRIME. Eight full years in the oak give it a rich, vintage flavor which only our kind of sour mash Bourbon can ever achieve.
Look for the handsome new gold-capped bottle with grey-green Limestone label. You can't mistake it for the familiar Bonded OLD FITZ bottle, which remains the same.
Compare it with any whiskey, American or foreign. (You'll have trouble matching its age and pedigree at anywhere near the price.) Mighty mild . . . mighty mellow! We think you'll want to adopt OLD FITZ PRIME, unless you're already a Bonded OLD FITZ man. In that case, carry on!
