The image shows an open notebook with two pages. Both pages are ruled with a grid of vertical and horizontal lines, typical of a ledger or account book. The left page has some faint handwritten notes in the left margin, including what appears to be a date '20' and some illegible characters. There is also a curved line of dots at the top of the left page. The right page is mostly blank with some faint markings.

Handwritten text in cursive script, appearing to be a list or account. The text is written on the right page of an open book. The words are difficult to decipher due to the cursive style and fading, but appear to include phrases like "Received of" and "for".
