Army quota up, more draftees seen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Defense Department last week issued a call for 17,000 men to be inducted into the Army during June.

The quota marked another increase in a steady climb from a low of 3,000 for February.

Draft calls since February have been for 7,900 men in March, 13,700 in April and 15,100 for May.

The increased need for draftees has been attributed to a falling - off in enlistments lengthened training period, and to increased needs for replacements in odd years because of a two-year cycle begun during the Berlin buildup of 1961.

Football Jim Brown helps launch new youth job program

WASHINGTON — Jimmy Brown of football fame joined government officials and several outstanding fellow athletes in "kick-off" ceremonies in the Labor Department, for a special employment program for high school boys who want work this summer in the harvest fields and fruit groves.

The program will provide healthful outdoor physical conditioning for young athletes and at the same time is designed to help meet peak seasonal farm labor demands which are higher than usual because of substantial curtailment of foreign farm labor.

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman and Chairman Stan Musial of the President's Council on Physical Fitness announced the new program.

Named to the Advisory Committee in addition to Jim Brown are: Red Auerbach, Clifford B. Fagan, John Huarte, Rafer Johnson, Sandy Koufax, Mickey Mantle, Bob Mathias, Joe Namath, Ara Parseghian, Bob Richards and Warren Spahn.

JIMMY BROWN, introduced at the ceremonies by Secretary Wirtz, faced the massed battery of microphones, TV news cameras, photographers and newsmen, and stated:

"Thank you very much Mr. Secretary, and thanks to all of you out there. When I was approached about endorsing this Program I did so readily because as an old athlete who tries to maintain a certain amount of physical fitness during the summers, I realize that our young athletes have to do the same thing.

They also have to maintain a certain standard of living and I think that this program offers them both of these things. It think that the program is one that will develop their physical fitness. It will also give them an ability to work with each other and I think that overall it will be a very fine thing for the young people of our country.

Finally, it is something that is needed. We need labor and we have a lot of unemployment, so overall, it is a very fine program."

The groups will be called A - TEAMS — Athletes in Temporary Employment as Agricultural Manpower. Many of the supervisors will be athletic coaches, and it is expected that most of the boys who are interested will be athletically inclined. Special emphasis will be placed on the physical conditioning which the farm work will provide.

HIGH SCHOOL AND college students who are interested in summer farm work are urged to get in touch with local Employment Service offices.

"If you are serious about it", Secretary Wirtz announced, "write to us about it—Department of Labor, Farm Labor Service, Washington, D.C. — and we will put you in touch with the nearest employment office."

There were 55,000 young people 16 to 21 years of age who were listed as "unemployment" last June in those States where 70,000 foreign workers were being used on these farm labor jobs.

Almost 20,000 of these young Americans were boys on vacation from high school or college. Sponsors of the A-TEAMS believe they can do asked 70 executives of major national corporations to help him deliver the message to youths.

STARTING May 12, a task force made up of the executives will fan out across the Nation to urge youths to prepare themselves for, in Humphrey's words, "new economic opportunities now open to them."

They will visit predominantly nonwhite colleges and high schools to point out that, race aside, job opportunities are open to qualified persons at many levels in American business.

The task force also will attempt to "spark the ambitions of young students" by exposing them to persons who hold responsible positions in large corporations.

Tutors wait to aid elementary pupils

Elementary school students can find a willing ear —and also help with their new math and reading —at the Bethel AME Church, Lanvale St. and Druid Hill Ave., every Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday afternoon.

The homework and study group program begun at Bethel on Tuesday, will be held every week until the end of school from 4 to 7 p.m.

According to Mrs. Ethel Mitchell, one of the adult workers in the program, it is designed to give first through sixth graders in the area a quiet place to study and help with their homework.

She emphasized that all elementary youngsters are welcome and that the program is "not a play period."

THE CHILDREN meet in the church's Sunday school room where 10 junior high school students—nine girls from Booker T. Washington —are ready and eager to help them with their studies.

An adult advisor is always present and a teacher at Booker T. Washington gives assistance to the young helpers if they have any problems — or reach a stumbling block with the new math.

Mrs. Mitchell states that the program is being started this year "so that it will catch on and we can do it in full force next year."

She noted that the surrounding elementary schools from which most of the pupils will be drawn and for whom there is a special invitation to attend, are Schools 103, 118, 122 and 125.

Chairman of the Bethel women's social group, which is sponsoring the homework program, is Mrs. Frachetta Wright.

FOR SUMMER . . . A NELL SHERIDAN original. Pink roses in varying shades from pale to deep rose nestle on deep rose silk peau de sole. Nell Sheridan hat salon is located in Pauline Brooks', at 2137 W. North Ave. Mrs. Sheridan is President of the National Association of Fashion and Accessory Designers and Regional vice-president of the South Atlantic Area. National convention will be in Los Angeles this year, July 14-19.

Foreign students ready for picnic

For the third year Senator Daniel B. Brewster will play host to the foreign students of all colleges and hospitals of Baltimore and surrounding Maryland.

The International Students Association of Maryland will hold the annual picnic — convention at the Senator's picturesque Worthington Valley farm.

After a welcome by Mr. Brewster (2:30 p.m.) there will be a short business meeting to elect student officers and to announce the group's affiliation with Baltimore's Red Cross.

Afterwards there is a Latin American folk music concert by a band composed of sailors from the Venezuelan ships Admiralty Union and General Flores now in port, followed by sports, games and tour of the farm.

Supper is donated by local businesses as arranged by the Reisterstown Junior Chamber International and served by JC wives.

The International Students Association of Maryland, to be known next year as International Students Council, is a non - political international group for educational, cultural, social and service purposes which strives to help international understanding by making the foreign student a part of the Baltimore community, to benefit from and to contribute to its resources.

For example, last year 88 of the students went to the Red Cross to donate a pint of blood to the community in memory of President Kennedy.

Last year there were 350 guests from 49 countries.

Outgoing vice - president is Llewelyn Somerall, a graduating senior in economics at Morgan State College, from Bermuda.

Tuna Bake

A rather ordinary tuna casserole moves into the extraordinary class with just a few additions to the usual recipe. Fresh mushrooms, herbs and wine bring about the transformation.

To be at its best, the casserole should be both flavored and accompanied by wine. It takes about one - third cup of it to season the sauce for the noodles and tuna; the rest of the bottle should be chilled in the refrigerator until serving time, then poured as the mealtime beverage. A dry white dinner wine like California Sauterne serves both purposes admirably.

Make easy tuna bake with three cups broad noodles; two green onions, one and one - half cups sliced fresh mushrooms one - fourth teaspoon thyme; three tablespoons butter; three tablespoons flour; three-fourth teaspoon salt; one cup milk; also dash pepper; one-third cup California Sauterne, Chablis or other white dinner wine; one - third cup chopped parsley; one-fourth cup grated Parmesan cheese and one (7 - oz.) can tuna.

Cook noodles in boiling salted water, as package directs. Meanwhile, slice onions. Saute onions, mushrooms and thyme in butter. Stir in flour and salt. Add milk and pepper, and cook, stirring constantly, until sauce boils thoroughly and is thick. Stir in Sauterne, parsley and half the cheese.

Drain noodles and turn into shallow baking dish. Drain tuna, break into chunks and arrange over noodles. Pour sauce over all, and sprinkle with remaining cheese. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) for 20 minutes, until thoroughly heated.
