Baptist Cente r to get new site, to offer AB degree

By ELZABETH M. OLIVER

The Rev. W. H. Thompson president of the United Baptist Missionary Convention of Maryland for three years, was unanimously elected to a fourth term at the conference in session at Mt. Pleasant Baptist Church this week.

The Rev. Mr. Thompson's return to office was greeted with weeping and loud acclaim Tuesday afternoon by more than 200 delegates representing over 16,000 members of 80 churches across the state.

He is pastor of Whitestone Baptist Church at Baker and Poplar Grove.

The convention marked its 30th consecutive year and recorded many new milestones in the 5-day session that ends tonight, Friday, with the 7:30 p.m. meeting. Total attendance was more than 1,500.

AMONG OFFICIAL greetings from the public Monday night were those that came from Gov. J. Millard Tawes, Mayor Theodore McKeldin, John H. Murphy III, AFRO president; the Rev. Frank Williams, president, Interdenominational Ministerial Alliance; the Rev. Donzel Wiley, executive secretary, Maryland Council of Churches; Samuel Daniels, Masonic Grand Master.

The Rev. T. J. Jemison, National Baptist Convention secretary, gave the opening address.

AS A forecast of an historic year ahead, the convention on Tuesday unanimously adopted the Rev. Mr. sion School for the A.B. degree in Theology at the Baptist Center and School of Religion. McCulloh and Mosher Sts.

Arrangements with the American Baptist College, Nashville, Tenn., will begin immediately.

Also, underway are plans for a new site for the Baptist Center, established in 1943 by the late Rev. George A. Crawley Sr., convention president 11 years.

The Building Fund Committee, the Rev. W. L. Clayton, chairman, is searching for a building or may construct one. The fund, on deposit at Advance Federal Savings and Building Loan, has the Rev. A. J. Payne as treasurer.

During Baptist Center Night, Tuesday, a special Fund Rally was led by the Rev. Mr. Thompson and the Rev. Mr. Clayton who made the appeal.

NOTEWORTHY among institutions established by the convention since its founding in 1926 is the Maryland Baptist Home For The Aged, 2601-3 Rayner Ave. The Rev. Montague J. Bracket, president; the Rev. Gentry McDonald, executive secretary.

Retiring the last year were George Lottier, secretary; and Daniel Ringgold, treasurer, both with 25 years service. Due to rising costs, an appeal for monthly contributions from each church was made. The 1964-65 expenses of the Home totaled $15,369.

The Rev. George A. Crawley Jr., keynoted the financial year ahead, at the Tuesday opening session, with a talk on "Economic Problems of the Church" and necessity for planned economy under the Bible law of tithing.

Members must come to church with their money, not send it, he said, since salvation cannot be purchased.

The convention theme, "God's Message for Today's World," was introduced by the Rev. Mr. Thompson. The Revs. D. Paige and N. H. Wicks and J. Green led memorial services for deceased members and minis-

Bridge home —Provident workers

9TH WARD REPUBLICAN Committee members recently received certificates after completion of a precinct action course sponsored by the 2nd District Citizens Action Organization. Among those awarded were, lef to right: Charles Minor, Pernel Jones, Barbara Anderson, Warren Jones, and Nathaniel Graham. Chairman of the 9th Ward Club is Marshall A. Jones, Park Board member.

are only three residents at Bridge House, each recommended by a hospital, the Prisoner's Aide Society or the Department of Mental Hygiene.

"There would be more persons helped by Bridge House, if we had more financial support from the community," Mr. Henson d clared.

Anyone interested in contributing to Bridge House should send donations in care of:

Roland D. Henson, 3112 Mondawmin Ave., or Joseph D. Delliger, executive director, Prisoner's Aide Society, 109 Old Town Bank Building, Gay St. and the Fallsway.

George L. Russell and Samuel Hecht co-chairmen of the campaign along with Louis J. Grasmirk; vice chairman have hailed this effort as a compliment to Mrs. Adams' leadership ability.

The campaign got off to a great start on Sunday when the churches of the area marked the day as Provident Hospital Sunday.

THE CHURCHES have become a conspicuous source of encouragement to the fund. They are helping on three additional fronts.

The ministers are making individual pledges. The ministers are encouraging the members of their congregations to make individual pledges and the churches are making pledges in the church's name, thereby memorializing the names of the church in the New Provident Hospital.

Committeemen, those people who are doing the solicitation on a block by block basis, are leading the way in getting the remainder of the necessary funds.

THE JOB is a mammoth one under any conditions.

The bulk of the money must come from a community where the greater part of the income is average or below average

$5,600,000 will be received from federal, state and local funds, while $2,400,000 is needed from public subscription. Reports coming in indicate that the fund is now close to $2,000,000.

A tentative report day for door to door solicitation was held on Thursday, May 20 and a subsequent report will be held on Monday, May 25.

The committeemen are equipped with a committee man's "kit and proper identification.

The goal of the committeeman is to secure a pledge for $150 from each family — with five years allowed to pay each pledge. The training program for the solicitors was an intense one, encompassing several months of planning.

To insure the effectiveness of the program, a need for 1,000 volunteers was anticipated. Response to the call was heartening. There is, however, a need for more volunteers as the last hours of the campaign loom.

If no one has come to your door yet on behalf of the Provident Hospital Development Fund, perhaps it is because no one volunteered to help in your area. At this moment, on the threshold of its finest hour, Provident Hospital needs support from every quarter volunteer.

Call I.A. 3-2224 to volunteer to help.
