Plot buster denies affair with blonde
NEW YORK (UPI)—Raymond A. Wood, a New York City policeman who infiltrated an extremist group that allegedly plotted to blow up three U.S. National monuments, denied in Federal Court Tuesday he had an affair with the Canadian blonde who delivered the dynamite.
Wood, 31, under cross-examination by Mark Lane, an attorney for one of three men accused in the conspiracy, also denied that he had suggested the plot to the defendants as an "agent provocateur."
Lane asked Wood if he had had an affair with Michelle Duclos, 26, of Montreal, during the early hours of Feb. 1, 1965.
"No sir", Wood replied.
MISS DUCLOS, who has pleaded guilty to smuggling New York City, is scheduled to be sentenced June 9.
Wood also testified Tuesday that he told the woman that he planned to recruit persons for the extremist movement, but he said he did so to maintain his cover.
Robert Steele Collier, 26, leader of the Black Liberation Front; Walter Bowe, 32, and Khaleel Sayyed, 22, are charged with conspiracy to destroy the Statue of Liberty, the Washington Monument and the Liberty Bell.

Haitian Consul indicted for plane experts
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rudolpho Baboun, Haitian Consul in Miami, and four other men were indicted Wednesday on charges of exporting two surplus U.S. Military airplanes to Haiti.
The indictments, returned by a Federal Grand Jury in Miami and announced here by the Justice Department, charged the five with violating Munitions Control Regulations by exporting the planes without State Department approval.
The five men were accused of sneaking the planes out of Florida last September and flying them to Haiti for $10,000 each.
THE JUSTICE Department said they intended to take a third plane, but the craft was seized at the Opalocka, Fla., airport by federal officials on Oct. 1.
Other defendants named in the indictment were: Robert Dorsey, an airplane broker in Opalocka, and three pilots, Randall Lee (Tex.) Ethridge of West Palm Beach, Robert E. Spining of Hollywood, Fla. and Robert Vincent Smith, also known as Robert Walker, of Miami.
All five men were named in one count charging conspiracy to export the planes. All but Smith were listed in the second count charged delivery of one of the planes. All but Spining were charged with delivery of the other plane.

TO BE EQUAL
By WHITNEY YOUNG
By flouting all the rules of bureaucratic inertia, Project Head Start — a new, $62,000,000 chance for the children of the poor — will break like summer lightning on the American landscape in the days ahead.
If successful, the Federal program will rain a torrent of educational vitamins on some 500,000 pre-school children from disadvantaged homes.
By the end of the month, more than 2,600 individual projects are expected to be authorized by R. Sargent Shriver, director of the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO).
IN PAYING out up to 90 per cent of the cost of an eight-week summer program, his office hopes to reach half of the 1,000,000 youngsters whom Mrs. Lyndon Johnson described as being "lost in a gray world of poverty and neglect" and to "lead them into the human family."
Of them, Mrs. Johnson said, "We don't know even a hundred words because they have not heard a hundred words. Some don't know how to sit in a chair because they don't have as much as a chair. Some have never seen a book or held a flower."
Some social workers have been critical of the OEO's speed in devising and funding the projects. But this necessity was prompted by the failure of the public old and staid methods to accomplish the same ends.
THUS, IN 261 of the counties with poorest counties, church, welfare and health agencies, schools, settlement houses, fraternal, sorority and women's clubs are preparing to open the doors to Head Start operations in the weeks ahead.
This effort goes beyond traditional day care services—a field in which American lags behind many industrialized nations. Its aim is not merely to baby-sit but to create the child's mind to the world around him, to prepare him for success when he or she begins first grade or kindergarten in the fall.
All children enrolled will get at least one hot meal daily. For some, they will get their first dental and medical examinations. Others will get eyeglasses their parents could not afford.
DR. JULIUS B. RICHMOND project director, says Head Start will attack the health deficiencies of the children enrolled; emphasize communication skills; expose them to art and music and reading; motivate them to learn; and expose them to the wider world beyond their slum or rural shanty town.
One thorn in Head Start's side is nettling racial bias against colored and other children of minority groups.
To underscore its determination to impartially administer the grants, OEO sent trouble-shooter Jack Gonzales and a staff of investigators to check applications from 17 southern and border states.
HIS STAFF told applicants that car pools or buses which picked up white youngsters would be required to pick up colored youngsters. One staffs, also, would have to be mixed, Gonzales said, or not be funded.
"The hill country of northern Louisiana, southwest Georgia and coastal South Carolina," he said were among the "worst areas" from the standpoint of compliance. Surprisingly, he found that in Mississippi "they want the money" and were willing to integrate.
In too many cities, North and South, by the time school children from disadvantaged backgrounds reach the sixth grade, they are years behind their counterparts on the achievement ladder. They are the dropouts of the future, tomorrow's failures.
Operation Head Start, could be an imaginative answer to open the doors to creative and constructive citizenship for these youngsters. The nation will watch it carefully to see whether it can help the children of the poor break the cycle of poverty and stand on their own two feet.

CARE MISSION CHIEF'S REPORT ON POVERTY

WASHINGTON
By MARY STRATFORD
CARE representatives from four continents came together this week and took a look at the poverty in the world.
Their view included Israel and Poland for mission chiefs from these "poverty stricken countries" were among the 44 CARE mission leaders and doctors discussing the "challenges posed by mass hunger."
Mission Chief Robert G. Trott has found Israel's high immigration rate, estimated at 250,000 persons in the past four years, contributes greatly to the problem of poverty in this small country. About 90 percent of the immigrants are destitute.
"The Government establishments set up to receive them are overworked," said Trott, whose job, through CARE, is to supplement the country's efforts.
MISSION CHIEF Charles L. Sykes, on the other hand, is confronted in Poland by poverty created mainly because of the devastation left by World War II.
"The country had to start almost from scratch again," Sykes stated, reflecting, "It would be difficult for us (Americans) to understand their situation.
"We (CARE) felt we could be effective where the Government is reconstructing its economy and in a small way, we have tried to be of assistance."
BUT POVERTY, no matter what the different causes, wears the same face of hunger. The purpose of the CARE conference was to plan new measures to combat it.
Because of the different needs and structures of various Governments, CARE programs may vary.
IN ISRAEL, CARE is conducting a self-help program in addition to food distribution, with emphasis on vocational training.
The reason for this becomes clear, Trott says, when one realizes Israel is unique in that there is a brain bank, such as an excess of doctors. At the other end there is an excess of unskilled labor.
Israel's Government is beginning to realize this fact and efforts are being made to develop the "middle" worker, technicians and skilled laborers.
Israel's Ministry of Labor has 15 vocational centers.
"We assist them in establishing courses and modernizing those already in operation.
Courses are geared toward industrialization and graduates have no trouble finding work because of the large textile industry.
ISRAEL'S PROBLEM is not so much unemployment as "under-employment," Trott observed. "New immigrants are constantly coming into the country. Many of these persons have very little education and have to be trained so the state can assimilate them."
When Trott receives a request from Israel for CARE support of a program, he "goes out into the field" then makes a recommendation to the large families without economic support organization on whether CARE should support the project.
Sewing is one of the projects supported by CARE which furnishes and needle trade kits.

ROBERT G. TROTT

sewing machines, manliquins, irons port to provide the proper food."
IN POLAND, the mission headed by Sykes has four major food programs.
"In three years, 400,000 packages have been distributed to invalids and Institutions in Poland receiving CARE support are schools, preschools and health institutions.
Families and individuals who receive CARE packages are recommended to the organization by Government agencies similar to this country's Department of Public Welfare.
MISSION CHIEFS serve 39 countries and come from many areas. Trott is from Teaneck, N.J. and Sykes is a Baltimorean.
Trott, who believes in community involvement in the areas he serves, recently was elected to Israel's school board as secretary-treasurer, although he has been in the country only 15 months.
An aviation enthusiast since taking a pre-flight course in high school, he served with the 99th pursuit squadron in World War II. Subsequently, he was a captain in the U.S. Air Force Reserve and was one of two pilots assigned to the 369th Artillery, New York Army National Guard.
Formerly in India, he was a flight instructor in India's flying club. Since his assignment to Israel, he has done little flying because of the country's close borders.
"It is too restrictive," he explained.
Trott formerly worked as an insurance claims adjuster for the Government but "I felt I wasn't getting anywhere."
He went to New York as a flight instructor until a fire at the hangar destroyed 12 planes.
"I came out of work and saw a CARE ad in the newspaper."
Trott started with CARE as a clerk, became supervisor of files, then assistant officer manager and now, mission chief.
In 18 years with CARE, since July, 1947, he has served both in New York and overseas. His first foreign tour was in Yugoslavia as a field observer in 1953 and '54.
He returned to New York and held various posts, including supervisor of contributions, until October, 1961, when he went back to Yugoslavia as assistant mission chief. He was transferred to India and named mission chief for Israel in January, 1964.
SYKES FOUND romance and a bride in Poland. His mother, sister and one of his brothers went to Warsaw for the wedding. His parents are Dr. Frank Sykes and Mrs. Alice Sykes of Baltimore.
