Jim Parker serious about retiring after '65 season

BALTIMORE

Jim Parker, all-pro lineman of the National Football League's Western Division champion Baltimore Colts, is seriously considering calling it quits at the conclusion of the 1965 NFL campaign.

Unlike many athletes who drop hints of retirement at a time and place they think will suit the purpose of getting lucrative pay raises, Parker offers sound arguments to prove that this is not the case with him.

"MONEY IS not important," he told the AFRO Thursday following his return from Menosha, Wisconsin, where he was honored as 1964 pro lineman of the year by the NFL's One Thousand Yard Club.

"It will not be a factor when my decision is finally made. That won't come about until I have had a chance to talk with Mr. (Don) Kellett sometime next week.

JIM PARKER

• • •

"THE COLTS have treated me very well, and I feel that I have an obligation to be sure that they have an opportunity to make the necessary adjustments before I pull up and leave them.

"The talk with Mr. Kellett," Parker went on, "is not designed to press for more money. Again, I say money doesn't matter. He knows this. He also knows what my reason is for thinking retirement."

• • •

THAT JIM is not making the threat to quit for the purpose of swelling his pay envelope is borne out by the fact that he has already signed his contract for the coming year.

"Mr. Kellett sent me a blank contract," Parker disclosed, "and told me to fill wanted. I signed it and sent it back with nothing pertaining the amount of money. I ing to salary, letting him know that I will be entirely satisfied within whatever figure they decide upon."

• • •

PRESSED FOR his reason for considering retirement at the peak of his career, Parker explained:

"My wife (Mae) wants me to quit. For the past two years, she has urged me to give it up and devote full time to our liquor store business at Liberty Heights and Garrison.

"We have four kids—Pamela, 8; Sheri, 7; Jimmy 5, and Diane, 3. I want very much to be able to spend more time with my family.

"AS THINGS are now, I am not around because the business and the personal-appearance assignments from the Colts keep me going from January to July.

"In July, I report to training camp with the Colts. And from then on into January, it is a case of dividing my time between football and the store.

"WHEN I CAME here from Ohio State, I planned for four years in the pro league, if I could last that long. I've been fortunate in making it through eight years.

"I know how much battering takes out of a man and both Mae and I would much prefer to face the future physically sound as well as financially secure."

—SAM LACY
