New bill would create equal job commission

WASHINGTON (NNPA) —A bill introduced in the House June 8 would create an Equal Employment Opportunity Commission with power to conduct hearings and issue enforceable compliance orders in employment discrimination cases.

The bill, designed to repeal Title VII of the 1964 Civil Rights Act, is aimed at employers and labor organizations who discriminate in their hiring practices on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, or national origin.

Barbers told to cut hair of everyone

WASHINGTON — (NNPA) The District of Columbia Commissioners announced a new law Thursday that prohibits barbers from discriminating on the basis of race or color.

Two years in the making, the new rule will not go into effect until Sept. 13. The regulation is based on police powers granted the three commissioners.

When public hearings were held on the question of barber shop discrimination, many barbers complained that they lacked the necessary skill properly to cut the hair of colored patrons.

To help alleviate this situation, Washington public schools will offer a free barbering clinic to all white D.C. barbers who desire instruction and practice in the cutting of non-white's hair.

Barbers found guilty of violating the non bias regulation face loss of their licensing privileges.

Discotheque debuts at the Kleeco Club

Walter Thomas, the diminutive owner-operator of the Kleeco Club, has scored a coup in uptown nightclub circles.

Beginning Tuesday his Kleeco Club will become the first uptown Discotheque center. Discotheque is the excitingly new kind of entertainment that swept the European continent before being imported to this country a little over a year ago.

Basically it consists of a kaldiscope of gay new dances accompanied by appropriate stereophonic music recorded especially for Discotheques (pronounced Disco - tay).

Music for this unique brand of entertainment is selected by a Disquaire, who in this case will be none older than "Mr. Personality," Eddie Morrison.

Discotheque revolves around two basic dances — one where the feet travel while the body stands still as in the Rully Gully and Watusi; and the other where the feet stay still while the body travels as in the case of the Hitchhiker, Monkey, the Chicken and Chickenback — all variations of the two basic dances — are also big favorites with Discotheque devotees.

It all begins Tuesday at the Kleeco and Walter has extended a standing invitation to all those looking for the newest rage in the world of entertainment.

When Mr. and Mrs. Howard Locklear voluntarily ended their marriage, this week, he kept their two sons 8 and 10 years old, and their four-year-old daughter went to the mother.

Mr. Locklear testified that they were married on Dec. 2, 1952, and the union ended in July, 1958. The wife Mrs. Fayden Locklear, he said, wanted to live a less conservative life than they were living at the time, and also wanted to return to the home of her mother in Lumberton, N. C.

Health Fair slated for Harlem Park

On June 2, the Harlem Park Neighborhood Council will sponsor its fifth annual health fair in Lafayette Square, Harlem Park, from 1 p.m. to 8 p.m.

This annual community-wide project sponsored by the Harlem Park Neighborhood Council, whose president is Charles R. Curtis Sr., mobilizes the enthusiasm and ingenuity of the majority of the Harlem Park residents, and the 20 some block clubs in the area.

Also contributing heavily to the planning and success of this project are the various schools and agencies within the area such as the Harlem Park Recreation Center, Lafayette Square Community Center and the Brotherhood Pilot House.

Approximately 25 health health and social service agencies will be represented by exhibits and volunteers distributing information about their services.

The Harlem Park Health Fair also is an all-day neighborhood - family fiesta complete with fun, food and gay decorations.

Highlights of this year's entertainment program will be a teen talent contest and the appearance of a well-known singing celebrity.

To kick-off the Health Fair festivities, there will be a parade on the evening before (June 23 from 7 p.m. to 8:30).
