man of the Washington Conference.

No report on all banks is available as yet.

Baltimore building and loan firms that held a total General Fund of $77,000 as of 1964 are American National, $16,423; Aurora Federal, $10,000; Druid Hill, $6,165; Edmondson Federal $7,746; Liberty, $10,000; State Mutual, $10,000; Traders Savings and Loan, $2,398; Uptown Federal, $1,132; West Baltimore Building and Loan $10,000, and Wyman Park Federal, $10,000.

The report of retiring Baltimore Conference Treasurer, Mrs. Thelma Skilling, showed the net worth of the Baltimore Conference at $2½ million with a checking account of $36,000 at the Baltimore Equitable Trust Bank. A Board of Pensions Fund is $553,000.

Kenneth Jones, Methodist public information officer said no minutes are available from, for example, the Methodist Home for the Aging, Gaithersburg, which he revealed has an endowment of "around $7 million."

MOST Methodist churches and institutions are separate corporations with reports available only to the Boards of Trustees. Because of separation of church and state, no report to the government is necessary.

THE Baltimore Conference also reported that as of May 31, 1965, total money raised for all causes (except by the Woman's Society of Christian Service) is $3,084,492.11.

The WSCS reported $269,897 for Missions and other funds of $320,763. Property value and other assets $88,126,413. Church Buildings: $9,157,871, parsonages and other assets $8,523,324.

A total of $2,001,055 was paid in pastors' salaries. The grand total income from all Baltimore Conference churches was $14,018,555 through May 1965.

Local churches contributed $28,306 to the Gaithersburg Home for the Aging.

INQUIRY began Tuesday morning as the all-colored conference held its last principal session at Metropolitan Methodist Church. Under consideration was what to do with a $229,000 audited balance "before the books were closed."

The Rev. J. Lloyd Garrison, acting president of the Commission on World Service and Finance, put the motion that (1) $50,000 be deposited in the Advance Federal Savings and Loan, a colored - owned Baltimore institution.

(2) That $15,000 be given to St. Luke's Methodist, Gilmor and Riggs, that was destroyed by fire this spring.

(3) That $500 go to the Rev. I. R. Berry, treasurer for 20 years; $300 to the Rev. N. B. Carrington, secretary; $300 to the Rev. I. W. Hall, statistician, for services.

THE REV. Mr. Roscoe Williams, pastor of Baltimore's Orchard Street Church, spoke in favor of the first proposal:

"We should see that money goes to Advance in Baltimore. The investments of the Baltimore Conference are in 10 concerns in Baltimore where not a single colored person is hired. The Advance Federal is colored. It is fully insured.

"Our young people graduating from college have a right to be hired up front. The only way we can do it is to put our own up front."

Thurman L. Dodson, Washington attorney and Conference Lay Leader assured "Advance is insured like any other institution."

He added: "Such a move will give opportunity to see the whole church in democratic action and set a good example to follow in the future.

The Rev. Mr. Kelly Jackson, pastor of Sharp Street Church, Baltimore, proposed "At least $25,000 go to Advance, our own institution, that has full Federal insurance."

The Rev. Edward Carroll, district superintendent, suggested that the proposal lie set aside until the fully merged conference committee on finance complete the study and added, "Maybe Advance will receive $100,000 or more."

The Rev. Mr. David H. Eaton, director of the Wesley Foundation at Howard University assured:

"After the merger is completed the good men the church has placed in high positions will not make any resolution that does not show practice of Christian principles."

BISHOP LORD then revealed "A study is being made by a committee to see that all investments are in agencies that practice Christian principles of employment."

For further assurance he added at one point, "Tomorrow at 2 p.m. (Wednesday) every penny becomes yours."

Final decisions were:

(1) The disposition of funds to St. Luke and Advance were left with the combined committee of World Service and Finance.

(2) The Rev. Mr. I. R. Berry is to receive $1,000 and his wife, $500, and the Rev. Mr. Carrington and the Rev. Mr. Hall $300 each.

The treasurer was given until Aug. 1 to close the books.

Concluding the discussion, Bishop Lord said: "Let's forget all except we are working together as Christians."

Other results of the last session of the Washington Conference included the plan to merge with a deadline set at July 1.

THE TUESDAY night session that ended the all-colored conference's history began at 7 p.m. with the Rev. J. D. Foy, pastor of Asbury Church, Washington, presiding.

Presented to Bishop Lord were the following retired ministers whose service to the church spanned most of the historic era: Bishop J. Edgar Love; the Revs. Charles Briggs, the oldest; John Peters, V. T. Key, R. E. Burnett, Christopher Scott, Thomas H. Reed, C. E. Smallwood, Estella Brooks and Edgar D. Hall.

Bishop Lord said: "I want to express gratitude for what you have done for the great Washington Conference. You had the kind of faith long ago that we are using now to go ahead. We hope that we will be as well qualified in the future as you have been in the past."

The Rev. N. B. Carrington said in the final address:

"We love our conference. We did the best—we could with what we had. In the merger, we take it all and lay it at the feet of God. It is never too late to seek a newer world."

What colored methodists want "that they do not now have", he said, "is fellowship, equality, acceptance, brotherhood."

The Rev. Mr. Carrington pastor of Union Memorial in Baltimore, also reviewed the Washington Conference history from 1864 and pointed to instances where white churchmen used religion to divide colored citizens.

"Now we use it to unite the church", he stated.

WILLIAM H. ALEXANDER
Wins in Ga. election

Thompson said "I'm proud of the way they voted and I hope I will be able to represent them adequately."

ATTORNEY J.C. DAUGHERTY who won unopposed in from the 13th District, said the election "rounded off some of the ragged edges of political, economical, and social affiliation for colored people in Georgia."

"I think it will have a salutory effect on the rest of the South," he said.

Two others unopposed in the election were Mrs. Grace Hamilton, (137th Dist.) who became the first colored woman to serve in the legislature; J. C. Daugherty (134th Dist.), and John Hood (124th Dist.).

All of the eight except Thompson are from Fulton County, where a court order requiring reapportionment of the Georgia House raised Fulton County seats from three to 12.

Georgia has two colored state senators, elected since 1962, are Leroy Johnson and Horace T. Ward.

inch butcher knife, was found in a clothes hamper, he said.

The slain man's wife took the stand on the first day of the proceedings and tearfully recalled for the court the terrifying night's events.

She testified that her husband and the convicted man had been childhood friends and schoolmates in their hometown of Waynesboro, S. C.

Shortly after Brice was released from the penitentiary he met Richmond, who owned and operated a supermarket in the 600 block Dolphin St.

She said her husband invited Brice to live with them.

ON THE night of the slaying the woman said she was seated in a chair in the living room reading a letter or book when the convicted man came down from the second floor and went to the kitchen.

Her husband was sleeping not far from her on a couch, she said.

She was attracted by a noise and looked up to see Brice stabbing her husband with the butcher knife "again and again".

She told the court she went to her husband's aid but the convicted man threatened her with the knife and ordered her, "to go upstairs.

"I wanted to live. Everything he told me to do I did . . . I was like a mummy. I didn't know what to do. I just prayed to come out of it alive," the woman testified

She said Brice followed her upstairs with the knife in his hand.

The woman said she looked back and saw her husband crawling up the stairs behind Brice.

"Blood was shooting out of him like a fountain," she recalled, breaking down into sobs.

While the widow was being held in a second - floor bedroom by Brice, she recalled hearing her husband pleading for help from an adjoining bathroom.

She testified her assailant got up and went to the bathroom, declaring "I'll finish him off."

BRICE ABOUT six hours later forced her to turn over to him her purse containing $140, then made her drive him to a house on the eastside of town, she said.

Soon thereafter she managed to escape her assailant and call police.

The convicted man was later arrested in a tavern at Lexington and Pine Sts.

Brice testified that he stabbed the dead man "only once" during an argument over a pistol he had found earlier in Richmond's brief case.

He said he wanted the pistol in order to "cripple" a woman who he claimed had robbed him of $200.

He said during the argument Richmond began yelling at him.

"When somebody yells at me I just lose my head. I lost control of myself," he told the jury.

Brice claimed he and the dead man's wife had been carrying on an affair.

Although Mr. Moylan did not ask for the death penalty he requested the jury to return an unqualified verdict of guilty.

Brice faces either a death sentence or life imprisonment.

The decision rests in the hands of the two presiding judges, Dulany Foster and James A. Parrott.

The court - appointed defense attorney was Andrew J. Graham, a former assistant state's attorney.

Mr. Graham's contention throughout the tiral was that Brice was attacked first by Mr. Richmond and killed him only in self - defense.

—Revival

ficial organ reported.

"They" were Inspector Battaglia, night commander of the Police Department, and Lt. Vincent Serio of the Southwestern District, in whose jurisdiction the giant tent is located.

When the Rev. Mr. Eply and his assistants were unable to locate the permit, Inspector Battaglia ordered a halt to the proceedings.

IT WAS later learned that the roving religious crusade had secured a permit from the Bureau of Buildings before setting up shop June 6.

The Rev. Dowell said securing permits and checking other city regulations is the duty of Miss Sandra Lane, who was in Allentown, Pa., Wednesday night making arrangements for a visit there.

Miss Lane told reporters she purchased the document before the revival began. "Since it cost so much—$204 —I didn't want to leave it laying around," she added.

Late Thursday the Rev. Mr. Dowell said one of the assistants who was not on the premises had the permit.

"It was very embarrassing and Rev. Eply was very disturbed," the editor said while commenting on the episode.

"They didn't give him a chance to explain to the people what was happening. The police first said they would close him to finish out the service and close the tent until we could produce the permit.

"Then one of the officers changed his mind and told us to 'close it up — now.' "

One middle - aged woman, who declined to give her identity, said she was near the front of the 200-feet long; 100-feet wide tent when police came in.

"They are agents of the devil and are doing the devil's work," she declared after listening to the Rev. Mr. Dowell's statement to the press.

SHE PUT A similar label on Lt. Charles Gregg of the Fire Department Fire Prevention Bureau, who inspected the tent Thursday for fire hazards and ordered several corrections.

"The devil is busy in the land, but God will take care of his children," said the middle-aged woman voluntarily as she brushed rain-drenched hair from her face.

After the permit issue was resolved, the evangelist and his followers still had to contend with more.

Lt. Gregg is highly suspicious of two portable fuel oil heaters used to warm the chilly air that circulates in the religious big top.

Sawdust shavings used to cover the ground are going to be analized to determine if they are fireproof, the fire inspector told the AFRO.

Should the heaters prove to be in violation of Fire Department regulations and if the shavings are not fireproof, both—"will have to come out," Lt. Gregg promptly room showed the shavings were not fireproof, Lt. Gregg promised.

An unofficial test in the city Room showed the shavings are not fire proof.

He also ordered the posting of "exit" signs at various openings in the tent and advised the Rev. Mr. Dowell to make sure the patrons are urged to "walk — don't run — to the nearest exit in case of an emergency." before services begin.

The Rev. Dowell, who served as spokesman for the evangelist, who was not available for comment, said he believes the problem had its beginning shortly after the tent opened.

A WOMAN in the neighborhood has been complaining about the noise. When she first complained, we cut it down. That didn't do any good.

"The next day we brought in sound experts who installed special equipment at cost of $1,000. That didn't work either.

The Rev. Mr. Dowell, who came in here wearing shorts and cussed out some of the ministers."

Now the speakers are lodged near the top of the tent and pointing to the ground to reduce sound travel, the editor said.

"The devil sure keeps busy," said the revival partisan as she trudged in the red mud, dodging water puddles to enter the tent.

Five to select Allen U. head

COLUMBIA, S.C. — Allen University's Board of Control named a five member committee last week to recommend a new president for the institution. Last month Dr. Howard E. Wright, president, submitted his resignation to the board of trustees. They accepted it.

Also last month an accreditation committee from the Southern Association of Schools and Colleges (SASC) visited the Allen campus. Allen lost its accreditation several years ago.

At the board meeting, Bishop C. A. Gibbs, chairman, said the board were grateful and indebted to Dr. Wright for his services. It was also announced that the Rev. L. L. Farmer of Summerville would be chairman of the five - man nominating committee.

The board also reported that the school was in good financial condition and that more than 300 students are expected at the summer school.

Considering third political party in Fla.

SARASOTA, Fla (NPI) —A third political party, known as the Constitutional party of Florida, is in the throes of formation here under Dr. William C. Douglas.

The party, "anti - Communist, anti - Socialist in concept, hopes to field candidates in the next state election. Florida will elect a governor and a number of other state officials in November.

Dr. Douglas, the founder of a "Let Freedom Ring" movement in 1962, said his new party will support conservative candidates of the Democratic parties if offered.
