Charles E. Brown to become K.S.C. Sunday at Cathedral

Charles Edward Brown is among 35 persons in the Baltimore Archdiocese who will receive honors at the Convocation on Sunday, June 27, at the Cathedral of Mary Our Queen.

Lawrence Cardinal Shehan will present Papal and Archdiocesan awards to 35 priests and laymen, including three non - Catholic clergymen.

The Convocation begins at 3 p.m., with a solemn procession into the Cathedral at 5300 N. Charles St.

* * *

MR. BROWN is among lay leaders to be invested with the rank of Knight of St. Gregory. He is principal of Harlem Park Junior High, and a member of the Archdiocesan School Board.

Membership in the Order of St. Gregory is conferred by the Pope for "distinguished service" to the church.

Knights of St. Gregory are given a place of honor at certain Diocesan functions, and are entitled to use the initials K. S. G. after their names.

* * *

ANNOUNCEMENT of the selection of Mr. Brown was made last April. At the time, he said, 'Not in my wildest dreams, did I think this would happen to me.'

He is a lifelong member of St. Peter Claver Parish, where he started as an altar boy.

He credits part of his success to his service as an AFRO newsboy. "I sold AFRO's from 1938 - 42, in my neighborhood."

He said this experience prepared him to know the value of money. "In fact, I opened my first bank account with the money I saved selling AFROs," he recalled.

* * *

IN HIS parish, Mr. Brown heads the Federal Credit Union, the Holy Name Society program committee, the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine, and is active in the Cursillo Movement.

Onetime intramural champion at Morgan State College, he was graduated there in 1936, earned his master's degree at Columbia University, has done doctoral work at New York U., and at Loyola College.

A year ago, he was appointed to the 16 - member Archdiocesan Board of Education. (School Board.)

He is principal of Harlem Park Junior High, a four and a half million dollar school in Northwest Baltimore, where he directs a faculty of 102. There are over 2400 students.

Mr. Brown is 51, lives at 3514 Ellamont Rd., with his wife, Mrs. Dorothy Edwards Brown; and their daughter, Miriam, 12.

His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Claude H. Brown of N. Appleton St.

Catholic Church's 'new face' startles some of the members

By ELIZABETH M. OLIVER

An average of 5,000 Catholics a day from all areas of the Eastern seaboard attended the Liturgical Conference at the Civic Center here from Monday through Thursday.

The occasion was historic. It took place in the Archdiocese of Baltimore, the oldest Catholic See in the nation over which the new Cardinal, His Eminence Lawrence Cardinal Shehan, presides as Archbishop.

The event marked the first time members of these Catholic parishes in this area were able to get a good look at the new, modern Catholic Church.

All four days were crammed with lectures and discussions by bishops, priests, laymen and church authorities who wanted each person to understand what's taking place in the church.

* * *

ACTUALLY, many of the leading church authorities admitted they had a difficult task trying to interpret the "renewal of the Catholic Church" to the ordinary member.

For 100 years, the Catholic Church has planned the reform. Beginning with the Ecumenical Council's historic meetings in 1962, plans were made to introduce the changes now visable.

Up to this point, the most outstanding phase of the "new look" is revealed in the Mass.

Here was a highlight of the Conference.

During the four days, members of the Catholic laity took part in the new Mass which has the peoples' dialogue, the hymns, prayers and Scriptures in English. Only the priestly prayers remain in Latin.

* * *

FATHER JOSEPH M. CONNOLLY, assistant pastor of St. Gregory the Great Parish, Gilmor and Baker, a leader at the Conference, explained:

"Now the Mass is a symphony of the priest, the lay leader members, the reader, the songs, the choir and the congregation."

To dramatize the layman's part for 7,000 persons attending Wednesday's Mass, Mathew Fraling, head of music at St. Gregory's, led the singing.

Also helping to accept the new functions of the people, Thomas Ross Jr., St. Gregory's lay reader, assisted at the Wednesday Mass.

* * *

HOWEVER, the highlight of the Conference was the unusual reaction of the average Catholic member.

Roaming through the vast halls of the Civic Center, they viewed with awe more than 100 exhibits of the new translation of the Bible, the new arrangement of the old Catholic altar, the new hymns, prayers, Psalms, music, art and architecture.

"Startled" describes the prime impression. Expressions such as "Well, I guess we'll get used to it," and whispers such as "isn't it awful!" were heard.

They read from hundreds of free samples the new marriage ceremony, last rites for the dead, the new prayers to the saints.

They buzzed behind their hands about the new Christmas greeting cards with Mary and the Infant Jesus in zig - zag lines of the modern artist.

* * *

THEY GULPED down hard at the sight of the Three Wisemen with square heads and blunt pen lines for whiskers.

The new interpretation of the Miraculous Medal, the Crucifix:

"I don't know," said some, and "Awful, grotesque," said others.

"Gee," for example, was the exclamation about the new sanctuary with the altar at the focal point of the congregation's attention, but not mathematically "dead" center, with communion tables on either side.

The departure from the old Roman Basilica to the modern architecture (which could mean thee most extreme designs modern artists can dream up) brought the expression:

"Isn't it wild?"

But these were the signs of misunderstanding the Conference was designed to explain away, it was explained.

* * *

FATHER CONNOLLY said in his talk on Wednesday: "Whenever the church enters into a reform or a renewal, two reactions occur. Some are delighted with the prospect of the on - going life of the church and a change.

"Others are shocked at the change and appalled at it.

"But, in general, the cause of fear before reform is ignorance.

"If people have not kept up with the on - going life of the church, change appears sudden.

"Like the mother of a growing child sees it when she lets down the hem, keeps abreast of change and growth, the church thus must keep abreast of its constant renewal and change."

* * *

HIS EMINENCE, the Cardinal, was prime host for the Conference and responsible for bringing th historic occasion to Baltimore.

Sponsors were the Liturgical Conference, an association of some 6,000 bishops, priests and laymen with headquarters in Washington, D.C.

Rev. Graves honored on sixth anniversary

The members of the Calvary Baptist Church recently celebrated the 44th anniversary of the church and honored the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Lorenzo Graves Jr., at a reception which marked their six years of service to the church.

Each organization of the church presented the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Graves with gifts. There was also a gift from the church presented by John W. Cooper.

Extending greetings were: attending Wednesday's Mass, Mathew Fraling, head of music at St. Gregory's, led the singing.

Also helping to accept the new functions of the people, Thomas Ross Jr., St. Gregory's lay reader, assisted at the Wednesday Mass.

Dorchester gets food stamp plan

The federal food stamp program is to be initiated in Dorchester County on July 12, replacing the donable food plan for needy families.

The program also authorized for Baltimore has been indefinitely delayed, due primarily to lack of sufficient staff personnel to administer it at the city's Department of Public Welfare.

The donable food program will be continued in the city, under the stamp program, eligible needy families use the money they normally spend for food to purchase coupons with an additional monetary value, enabling them to buy substantially increased food supplies.

EXEMPT FROM such purchases are non - food items like alcoholic beverages, tobacco products, soaps, pet foods and vegetable seeds.

This program is favored over the donable food plan, for it allows the family selection, thus a better balanced diet and more food.

The Dorchester County Welfare office, 412 Muir St. in Cambridge, will determine the eligibility of low income families.

The food stamp program was scheduled to open in Baltimore Aug. 1. Raleigh C. Hobson, DPM state director, has said it is not known whether it can be realized here this year.

The city DPW, with a critical shortage of personnel and an increasing backlog of unattended cases, is now in the midst of a concentrated program to clear as much back work as possible by Nov. 1.

Leontyne Price 50th Spingarn medalist

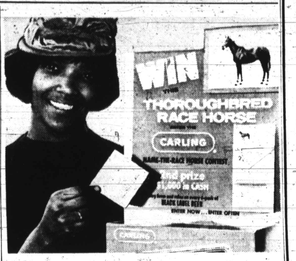
NEW YORK, N.Y. — Leontyne Price, celebrated opera singer, has been chosen 50th Spingarn Medalist, NAACP Executive Director Roy Wilkins announced this week.

Because Miss Price will be unable to attend the NAACP annual convention in Denver, June 28 to July 3, presentation of the medal will be made at a later time, probably this fall.

The Spingarn Medal was instituted in 1914 by late J. E. Spingarn to be awarded annually to colored Americans for distinguished achievement.

Among previous winners of the coveted gold medal are: Wilkins, Ralph J. Bunche, Martin Luther King, Carl Murphy, Marian Anderson, Thurgood Marshall, Jackie Robinson, Mrs. Daisy Bates and the Little Rock Nine, Langston Hughes, Robert C. Weaver, and Duke Ellington.

Miss Price has won worldwide acclaim for her performances in leading opera houses of Europe and America.



PRETTY PATRICIA Stobal of 3101 Walbrook Avenue, Baltimore, smiles cheerly as she shows off handsome promotional piece for Carling's "Name-the-Race Horse" contest, which is open to persons over 21 who live in Maryland or the District of Columbia. Winner gets a 2-year-old colt at Pimlico on November 27, and runner-up gets $1,000 cash note.

THE SPECIAL feature for the evening was presented by Soror Carrie Staten, who is a member of Contemporary Trends Housing Committee Inc. She talked of the purpose of their organization and introduced Thomas Juliana, a member, who spoke on "Your Part in Open Occupancy."

He stressed the point, that choosing a home should be a careful decision and should be done only after viewing as much of the housing market as possible.

Contemporary Trends Housing Committee will give information and assistance to organizations and persons interested in better housing.

Following the meeting a social hour was enjoyed by the following sorors:

Sorors Rebecca Brown, Alice Catlin, Elmira Collins, Emma Davis, Orangie Epps, Ethel Hunter, Geneva Johnson, Louise Jones;

Sorors Fannie Lawson, Rosalie McGuire, Sedonia Merritt, Sue Nuler, Anne Payne, Thelma Rice, Bennie Roev, Carrie Staten, Gladys Wallace, Dorothy Washington and Carolyn Willis.
