'Give, take' seen key in Browns' marriage success

'Give and take is the secret,' say Mr. and Mrs. George A. Brown of 3602 Chesholm Ave. who celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary, Sunday.

Of their half century partnership, Mrs. Brown explains, "You just don't jump at every small thing. You make things pleasant for the children."

Nodding in agreement, Mr. Brown assed: 'I enjoy socializing with the children, playing pinochle together.'

* * *

THIS FAMILY togetherness has meant that the Browns worship at the same church. For over 40 years, they attended St. Pius. Today, they belong to St. Cecelia's.

They have also created what they themselves call Brown's Row.

Most of the family, which included 10 children, 26 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren, occupies four homes in the 3600 block Chesholm (Ches - home) in Northwest Baltimore.

This is a neighborhood of colorful shingled houses with neat lawns located off Clifton Ave. near Chelsea Ter.

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE A. BROWN

* * *

BEFORE MOVING to Chesholm is 1957, the family lived for 42 years at 1317 Myrtle Ave.

'All of my ten - children were delivered at home on Myrtle Ave. Then we didn't believe in hospitals,' Mrs. Brown recalled.

'We were very happy in that old house. Most of our friends moved out.

'Then, when our daughter, Hilah, moved to Chesholm, we visited her and fell in love with the neighborhood.'

Today, the Browns own five houses in the block. They rent one of them.

* * *

WOODROW WILSON was president then the former Sarah Smith and George A. Brown exchanged vows at old St. Francis Church on June 29, 1915.

They rode home from the church in a horse and buggy. She was 17, and he was 21.

How did they meet?

'His sister introduced us,' Mrs. Brown said with a sparkle in her eyes. 'It was love at first sight', Mr. Brown sighed.

'He flirted at me, but then it wasn't proper to flirt back,' Mrs. Brown explained.

'No, she didn't respond, but I said, all right, little girl, I'll get you, and I did,' Mr. Brown grinned.

'He proposed on a St. Mary's excursion, sitting out on the deck on a moonlight night. He was always so romantic,' Mrs. Brown reminisced.

Both seemed shy as they recalled their courtship, but daugrter, Hilah, shouted, he fell in love with Mama when he saw her grey eyes.

Patting her father's bald head, she smiled, 'and she fell in love with Daddy's black wavy hair.'

'She always said she would leave me if I ever got a bald head and a big stomach,' Mr. Brown said thoughtfully.

* * *

TO WHAT does Mrs. Brown attribute her success in rearing 10 children?

'Being a housewife, the children always knew where I was, and we all confided in each other on all important decisions.'

When it came to punishment the Browns used the old - fashioned method of making their offspring stay in a week.

Who is boss of the household?

Daughter Hilah said: 'Daddy was boss for the children, as far as we were concerned. We could always give Mama.'

* * *

'AN EMPLOYEE of the Post Office for 34 years, Mr. Brown retired seven years ago. He now goes from house to house (in Brown's Row) painting and repairing.

'I like people around me; I love my home, and I love pinochle', Mr. Brown said pensively.

'I love to cook, I don't like to shop. His favorite food is chocolate cake. He eats anything I cook,' his missess said proudly.

'Yes, indeed' Mr. Brown said, 'she was a good cook and good housekeeper even when we first got married.'

* * *

'I COULD go to the market and get a week's food for $3. Eggs were 12 cents a dozen,' Mrs. Brown recalled.

'Oh, yes,' broke in Mr. Brown, 'you could go down to the farm and get two cracked ones for one cent.'

'Potatoes were five cents a pound, a loaf of bread was five cents (now a loaf is 15 cents), and a quart of milk was eight 'cents,' mused Mrs. Brown.

'Tell her how much you made when we first got married she smiled lovingly.

Hesitant at first, he finally said, 'I was a chauffeur then, making $12 a week. Rent was only $4 a week.'

'And we were still living reasonably well,' Mrs. Brown added. 'Then when he went to the Post Office making $25 a week, we really thought we were hitting on something.'

* * *

FOR AS long as they have been married, the Browns have been reading the AFRO. 'We have clippings saved from old ones. It is the only way to keep abreast of what's happening, Mother Brown said.

'Our daughter, Augustine, is in Africa with her husband, and we see that she gets an AFRO every week.'

The Browns did not learn until two months ago that the Sunday celebration was being planned for them.

'All of my children, were here except Augustine. Her husband, Jack, was in the States and presented us with a gift from the children. It was an invitation to our own anniversary party.'

* * *

THE PARTY, attended by 200 well wishers was at the Elegante Room, with music by the Mae Daniels Trio.

Gifts lined the wall. Mr. and Mrs. Brown stood in a receiving line and smiled greetings to old friends.

For the occasion, Mrs. Brown wore a gold frock of shastung with a lace top. Mr. Brown wore a dark suit.

Mr. Brown is a native of Baltimore and he attended the Colored High School on Pennsylvania and Dolphin, which later became Douglass High.

He is a former member of the Empos, a club for the employees of the Post Office.

Mrs. Brown was born in West River, Md. She is a member of the Kings and Queens Pinochle Club which is composed of friends and relatives.

* * *

MR. BROWN'S grandfather, Nelson Moquette was one of the first physicians in Baltimore.

The six Brown daughters and for sons are: Mrs. Jackson Glaze (Hilah), who was mentions above is a house wife, who was the former 'Miss Morgan' State College technician at the Aberdeen Proving Ground.

Mrs. Clarisa Richardson, the oldest girl, is employed at the Maryland Children's Center;

Mrs. Vernon C. Press (Dorothy,), housewife, he is a teacher at gwynns Falls Elementary School No. 60;

Mrs. Robert Carpenter (Jullette) works with the State Department in Washington;

Mrs. John Gloster (Augustine) is a coppin graduate living in Africa with her husband who is assistant to the ambassador of Ethiopia and

Mrs. Golden Roche (Betty), housewife, is the youngest. He works in the control tower at the Washington National Airport;

George, 42, who is manager of the Casino and married to Catherine; Harold 'Cookie', 40, who is a salesman for the Green Spring Dairy and married to Haryette;

Thomas Elroy, 33, who is single and a city fireman; and Earl, 30, who is a policeman and married to Shirley.

Of the 26 grandchildren, 16 are girls and 10 are boys ranging in age from eight months to 32 years.
