First honor flag goes out July 16

Who will get the first large, 3 feet by 5 feet, red white and green Honor Flag to be awarded at the 31st annual award winning AFRO Clean Block Jamboree?

The answer will not be known until Friday morning, July 16. This question will be on the minds of hundreds of Clean Blockers, representing almost 200 blocks enrolled thus far in this year's campaign.

Clean Block director, Jeanette B. Leath, encourages all Clean Blockers to work hard. Workers are never notified in advance when the block is to be inspected. Many times strangers pass by and call the AFRO to tell just what work is being done in their respective blocks.

On Friday morning, July 16 at 10 a.m. in the Willard Allen Auditorium of the Masonic Temple, when captains and advisors and Clean Blockers gather, the answer will be known.

One dozen of the flags are presented during the campaign and those beautiful banners of distinction are displayed with considerable pride.

Absent three years, graduates on time

Miss Lena C. Bailey, 18, of 33 Dunbar Ave., Catonsville, was able to be graduated with fellow classmates at Catonsville Senior High even though she had not attended school for three years.

A cyst caused Miss Bailey's illness which took five operations, before she assumed normal activities. Prior to the last one in November 1964, most of her time was spent in bed either at home or in St. Agnes' Hospital.

Twice a week Miss Bailey was visited by two tutors, one for mathematics and science and another for history and English.

"I did satisfactory work and did a lot more reading than I would have ordinarily in school. My favorite subjects were history and biology," she explained.

HER PREFERENCE for history is incorporated in her future plans. Miss Bailey plans to enter the political education, she has no plans. "I do not plan to go to college because my spinal operation does not permit me to sit for a long periods of time," the said.

She plans to spend most of her time in the hospital "Listening to music, mainly jazz. Music has always interested me even though I cannot play an instrument."

Miss Bailey was asked if she felt that she had missed out on a great deal by not being in school regularly. Her quick response was, "It's hard to say — I never really had time to sit down and think about it. I do know that I appreciate things more now."

• • •

IN THE fall, Miss Bailey plans to work in the area. She will be surveying young people who have reached their 21st birthday and registering them to vote.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fairfield Bailey. He is a stationary engineer employed with the federal government at Fort Holabird.

Mrs. Lena A. Bailey, mother, is assistant recording secretary of the Baltimore County political league.

There is one brother, Frederick Bailey, a Korean veteran. The family attends St. Marks Roman Catholic Church.

Light Housekeeping

By LULA JONES GARRETT

Whether you are for or agin pants, its six to one that your wardrobe will contain a few pairs if you can, even by the wildest imagination, convince ourself that your figure can stand them.

The particular fashion gamblit, this season, will be straight, narrow little trousers that stop just short of the ankles.

They will be worn with grandma's bracelets, here as anklet . . . and for evening be made of the most magnificent fabric you can find and underpinned with elegant decorative gold shoes, on Louis heels, and trimmed just as far as your purse will allow.

• • •

THE FACT is that the fashion deal, this fall, is matching the dress to the shoes. You are going to find the shops filled with numbers that will cost you as much as you paid for last year's evening gown You will buy your shoes first, then shop for the dress to go with them. They just will no longer be "accessories," My Deah!

• • •

BUT TO more mundane things, as, for instance, saving thos pennies to hel, pay for the shoes.

Starting with the beauty bit, how about saving on powder puffs? Now that they have gone up to three for a dollar, and remember, that they can become grubby looking with a couple of days use, do something!

Just wash them with your clothes, put them in the dryer, and they will come out looking like new. It's a good beauty deal, too, for nothing can so dull the complexion as the rubbing back in of the oil of the skin and the soil of the puff.

Another sanitation bit: do not remove the cellophane that covers the top of your box of face powder Instead, soften the cellophane with a hot cloth and prick holes in it with a large needle. Then you can shake enough powder for instant use into the cover of the box, and the puff you are using will never touch the remainder of the powder.

WHAT'S NEW on the housekeeping front? If you haven't looked into the paper business recently you are likely to be surprised at your aid-to-the party department.

You can get double layer towels whi ehave one side rough for scouring and the other side smooth for dusting and polishing. They make good wash clothes and picnic place mats, too.

You probably already know of the double thickness dinner napkins which sub for baby bibs, and the disposable tissues that are indespensable for cosmetics, cold, etc.

And there's a versatile paper towel which can be used as a pressing cloth. Place the lint-free towels over skirt or dress, sprinkle lightly with water and press carefully to avoid iron shine.

Use three egg yolks, a tablespoon grated lemon rind, a fourth cup lemon juice, a fourth cup honey, three egg whites, a fourth teaspoon salt, a fourth cup honey, a cup whipping cream, a fourth teaspoon vanailla extract and two-third cup vanilla wafer crumbs.

In a saucepan, combine egg yolks, lemon rind and a fourth cup honey. Gradually add lemon juice, stirring until smooth. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly until thickened, about five minutes.

Beat egg whites with salt until they hold their shape. Continue beating and slowly drizzle in a fourth cup of honey. Beat meringue until stiff and fold into warm mixture. Cool. Whip cream until stiff, adding
