College PR delegates cheer Wilkins talk

(Special to AFRO)

CINCINNATI, Ohio — "If they are going to have a voice in this, they should stop fooling around."

"Let's stop talking about Civil Rights in education conferences and talk about education.

"If the people can get the ballot in their hand, they can take care of Civil Rights."

Roy Wilkins, executive director of the NAACP was speaking to over 700 delegates to the American College Public Relations Association here Wednesday.

* * *

MR. WILKINS, who received a thunderous ovation following his talk, told the delegates, "It is a miracle that anybody escaped from Mississippi," as he explained how colored people there were denied the ballot, and how college students all over the country demonstrated against that denial.

"The students found out for themselves that they couldn't reconcile this with their idea of democracy.

"Right here under our nose is Hitlerism," they said and they asked 'why this is so?'"

Mr. Wilkins urged the public relations people to get their colleges to "widen admission policies, recruit colored students and faculty and revise teacher - training to include an awareness of urban problems and the teaching of Negro History.

As an example, Wilkins told of a former NAACP official who although a graduate of Yale, did not know that colored men had fought with George Washington at Valley Forge.

He urged the delegates to stop thinking of giving the colored man something he didn't earn for "This is our country as well as the white man's."

Among the over 700 delegates in attendance are:

Curtis A. Wood, Prairie View; Mrs. Thelma T. Gorham, Florida A and M; John C. Price, Howard University; Robert M. Batcelle, Ohio College; Burke A. Little, Georgetown College;

Dorsey F. Murray and Walter G. Cooper, Smith; Mrs. Catherine L. Smith, Mahaffey Medical College; Portsmouth Branch Knoxville College;

Mrs. Ruth Sounders Dilworth, Lane College; Jackson, Tenn.; Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Flowers, Morgan State College.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

When buying outdoor furniture, look for weather resistance and stability combined with portability.

Put a lump of sugar in a pint of water for roses or sweet peas. Both types like sweet water.

Step - saver: Relives in a cupboard add space and make it easy to see what's stored in the back.

New superintendent turns deaf ear on school rumors

Dr. Laurence G. Paquin, Baltimore's new 52 - year - old superintendent of schools, is turning a deaf ear on any word that the system here presents a grave problem.

When asked what is his attitude at the start of his administration, the likable, soft - spoken man, fresh from three years as New Haven, Conn. school superintendent, told the AFRO:

"I am optimistic. Oh, sure, city schools have problems. The schools of all cities have problems. But, I am conscious of Baltimore's long tradition of good schools.

"I am also conscious of the strength and capability of this school staff and of the many citizens interested in good public education."

Continuing, school - teacher like, with effort toward diplomacy, Dr. Paquin added:

"There is no easy solution to any problem. But, that is to me the most challenging, most interesting part in public education. That is the reason I accept the challenge, eagerly and with bright outlook."

* * *

DR. PAQUIN began duties Tuesday morning and states he will be on full time "from now on."

He succeeds Dr. George B. Brain who resigned in 1964 to return to his state of Washington to become dean of the Washington State University.

DR. LAURENCE G. PAQUIN

"There is no easy solution to any problem . . ."

The new superintendent's offices are at the 3 E. 25th St. Administration Building where he said he will be available from "early morning" until 4 p.m. each day.

* * *

ABOUT CORE and the "Dunbar situation," a fermenting problem linked with Baltimore's inner city schools and racial imbalance, Dr. Paquin said he was not in full possession of all the facts.

He said in response to a letter from a CORE official, he had informed the spokesmen by return mail that he would be glad to arrange an early appointment.

On the subject of the many ancient school buildings that are inadequate for a modern, broad curriculum, Dr. Paquin said:

"One method we may explore is to phase the school redevelopment program in with the Urban Renewal and where there are urban renewal projects."

* * *

ON THE 2-AFTER of insufficient budget to meet the program the Board of Superintendents requested at a June meeting, Dr. Paquin said he had not been informed of the situation.

However, he said, "When there is not enough money, you do what you can with what you have. Of course, there are some things you can't do anything about without money."

One of the pressing issues of Baltimore schools, "as I see it," Dr. Paquin said, "is to maintain a high level of education."

How does he expect to do it?

Dr. Paquin stated, "with the money we have to operate the schools, we would want to attract talent, teachers. Then, we will want the support of the public."

Dr. Paquin said he would rely on citizen cooperation, volunteers, an effort that does not require money.

He stated: "The important thing is bringing to bear the best kind of education by capitalization on the great resources; the human type, the people."

On other points, Dr. Paquin said he believes Baltimore, as well as some other large cities, is not prepared for a year - round program of instruction.

He said that transporting children by bus to make schools have a greater degree of racial balance is not as harmful as "many would have us believe it."

On teachers' salaries, he commented generally, "To attract the kind of teachers we need, we need to offer commensurate salaries".

Summing up his first press conference, Dr. Paquin stated "The job of the superintendent of schools is to carry out the policy established by the Board of Education."

DR. PAQUIN said he spent Monday night in his new home in Northwood after arriving in Baltimore for a two - day vacation.

His New Haven house is now for sale.

City Hall under face lifting job

Baltimore's City Hall is now getting its first real face-lifting cleaning in its 90-year history.

Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin Thursday afternoon as the first phase got under way Keldin helped to get matters off to a start publicity-wise on the Guilford Ave. side beginning at Lexington St.

The job is expected to take between three and four months, and is costing taxpayers $28,000 via a city contract with Better Buildings Inc., 815 S. Hanover St.

Cleaning is with steam and detergent, and will cover the entire outside structure, with the exception of the dome.

City Hall was dedicated Oct. 25, 1875, and the nearest anybody can remember an exterior cleaning job was done before World War Two, when the Fire Department hosed it down.

School days not mere rule days for Frisbys

By Lula Jones Garrett

The romance started in high school. This year (last Wednesday to be exact) it reached the half century mark. This, of course, the marriage of Dr. Herbert M. Frisby and the former Annie Russell.

They went through all of high school together. That was when Douglass was on Pennsylvania Avenue. She always managed to occupy a seat just behind him.

He (sez he) was the keener, so he did all of her lessons as well as his. She was the smarter . . . she let him do them. They graduated together in the class that was the largest up to that time . . . 56 graduates! And the commencement was held in the Albaugh Theatre, then on North Avenue.

Then he went off to Howard University, and following his graduation there, came back to Baltimore. Their wedding in Allen A.M.E. Church was an event of the year.

Mrs. Frisby has gone right on being smart and letting him take care of her, which he has been as efficient at as at his other projects, as shown at their golden wedding anniversary reception.

The couple's son and daughter-in-law hosted the affair . . . said nothing of it being an anniversary affair. They intended to eliminate the gift giving angle. But there were too many who counted down the years and reached a conclusion. A downtown department store supervisor says that their entire stock of "gold" items in the gift shop was depleted ere the reception.

And folks who had withdrawn from the social whirl for eons, returned for the affair. As, for instance, Mr. Ralph Recklin, Sr., Mrs. Edith Savage, Mrs. Alice Pulley, Mrs. Ada Butler and Mrs. Nellie Sampson. And Almira Miller, who had been their flower girl, was in the receiving line. As was his brother, Edgar, who had been best man.

And what of the interim? Dr. and Mrs. Frisby have a talented son, H. Russell Frisby, and an attractive daughter-in-law, Katherine, who goes around boasting all of the time, that she is the luckiest gal in the world to have such "other" parents. They have a grandson, H. Russell Jr., an accelerated student . . . and the warmest home life in ten counties.

Mr. Frisby completed a career in education and went on to become a renowned explorer of the Arctic, and the man who brought civilization to Matthew Henson, the explorer. One of the accomplishments, by the way, which brought him an honorary degree.

WHEN THE faculty and staff of School No. 35 gave their "Tribute to a Great Lady," Dr. Mary N. Brooks, recently, they set up a perpetual shoe fund in the name of the honoree.

This fund will provide shoes for needy children of the school.

The testimonial to the school principal was in the form of a luncheon at One West Restaurant, and was in token of her being recipient of an honorary degree of pedagogy from Morgan State College.

Mrs. Brenda Thorington was mistress of ceremonies. James Walker greeted the group, and Lester B. Wallace made the award.

A delightful musical program included an instrumental solo by Percy Brown, and a musical selection "Allah's Holiday" by Mesdames Evelyn Blackwell, Sarah Bundy, Ellen Johns, and Brenda Thorington. A reading was by Mrs. Arnethia Williams.

The tribute was given by Mrs. Rosalie Jenkins.

Dr. Brooks geared her response to the needs of children of the "Inner City."

Mrs. Verniece W. Reynolds Was chairman of the hospitality committee which hosted the luncheon.

Guests included Mrs. Beatrice T. Rawlings, area F director; Mrs. Lillian Ross, elementary supervisor; Mrs. Percy Brown, Maurice Murphy, Frank Thorington and the faculty and staff of the school.

IT COULD rain all it wished and storm it it pleased, but not too many invitees were going to forego the Franklin (Willa Mae) Deshields' annual beach party.

It did rain and it did storm, but a goodly group who had spent the very pleasant afternoon on the grounds, under the trees, merely dashed for the porches when the showers came.

Among them were Fr. and Mrs. Donald O. Wilson, Messrs. and Mesdames Theodore Hayes, James H. Murphy, William Day, Ronald Rayne, James Wright, John Weatherford, Edward Wilson, Paul Roller, Jesse Gaddis, William Roller, William Stanford;

Mesdames Minnie Davis, Rebecca Brown, Martha Snowden, Elizabeth Phillips, Jenny Tilghman, Lula Patterson, Maude Stratton, Lucy Stratton, Doris Bruton, Virginia Mohammed, Ethel Davis;

Misses Inez Redmond, Hattie Tyler; Lee Ames, Houston Snowden, Charles Brown, Cliff Mackay.

THERE WERE parties all over the place.

The W. Eugene Paynes held forth at their annual Third-of-July party . . . this year at their town place on Denlyn Road.

There they had cards on the lawn and on the porch, and decorated their garage in the gayest of Independence Day colors as a background for the lavish buffet dinner they served.

The Paynes, of course, have scores for this traditional affair, and those around on Saturday included:

Messrs. and Mesdames Cephas Rawlings, S. Leroy Taylor, Wilton Webb, Douglass Brown, Edward Hardy, Jerome Buck, William Hutchinson, Frank Walker, Edgar Frisby of New York.

Messrs. and Mesdames Abdella Campbell, Jonathan Eugene of Washington, Dorsett Hightower, Albert Wright, W. Matthew Payne, Ronald Rayne.

Messrs. and Mesdames Elihu Norris, Alonzo Lancaster, Howard Hucles, John McGuire; the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Howard Cornish.

Drs. and Mesdames Charles R. Campbell, Bernard Christmas, Herbert M. Frisby;

Mesdames Ann Moore, Mamie Williams, Mildred Seaborne, Carrie Scott, Anne Payne, Thelma Ashe, Carl Murphy, J. Nelson Fortune; Misses Adelle Holden, Phoebe Goff, Carrie Johnson, Ruth Russell, Hermione Wharton, Beatrice Hall; Channing G. Moore, J. Carey Taylor, Algernon Jackson.

AT THE Edgar Ewings, in Catonsville, 'twas the usual gathering of very old friends for what they call their "family picnic."

Having fun there were Hilyard and Bee Butler, Yvette and Jim Murphy, Marguerite and Louis Harmon, Etta and Ted Philler, Edna and Bill Stanford, Catherine and Charles Law and Ada and Frank Veney.

Chick Webb band to hold auditions

The Chick Webb Recreation Center Concert Band, sponsored by the Bureau of Recreation, will hold auditions for new members on Monday evenings from 6:30 to 8:30 at the center, Eden and Monument Sts.

The band, which will give musical concerts throughout the summer, is looking for older teenagers and young adults who have had band experience and would like to play with an organized group during the summer.

Practice sessions are held on Monday evenings. Howard Smith, band director at Dunbar High School, leads the group.

MR. AND MRS. FRANK A. WESTON Jr., center, married in St. Cecelia Catholic Church, Saturday, were shown with attendants, Miss Elaine Cornish, maid of honor, and Leroy Comegys, best man. Mrs. Weston is the former Miss Jo Ann Rose.

Weston-Rose ceremony held

Miss Joann Cecelia Rose became the bride of Frank A. Weston Jr., in a double ring ceremony in St. Cecelia's Catholic Church, Saturday.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Dolores R. Bellfield, R. Bellfield, and her husband and her husband the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Weston Sr.

Fr. Palick officiated at the ceremony.

* * *

HENRY "RONG gave Miss Rose in marriage.

She was attended by Miss Elaine Cornish as maid of honor. Misses Alice Jones and Sylvia Harrison were bridesmaids.

Joe Fortune was a ring - bearer.

Mr. Weston had as best man, Leroy Comegys.

Ushers were Robert Spence, James Scott, and Sonny Jenifer.

* * *

THE BRIDE wore a floor-length gown of white silk linen. Her veil was held by a coronet.

Miss Cornish was gowned in pink silk empire line dress, made with lace top sleeves. Bridesmaids wore identical ensembles.

A reception was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Freddie Slade of 4205 Kennison Avenue.

Miss Linda Jenkins, Charles Brown wed

Miss Linda Corrine Jenkins, daughter of Mrs. Naomie Jenkins and the late Bennie R. Jenkins, and Charles Edward Brown, II, were married in St. Francis Xavier Catholic Church, Saturday.

The double - ring ceremony took place at 11 a.m.

Mr. Brown is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Brown of Washington.

* * *

GIVEN IN marriage by her brother, Benjamin L. Jenkins, the bride was attended by Miss Lauretta Chavis, maid of honor.

Her bridesmaids were Misses Barbara Dance, Tywanna Perry, Julia Johnson and Casandra Jenkins.

* * *

MISS JENKINS wore a gown of white taffeta with Chantilly lace bodice. The bodice featured long sleeves, and the full skirt swept into a chapel length train. Both skirt and train were appliqued with lace.

Her bouffant veil was attached to a flower petal cap which was trimmed with sequins and seed pearls.

Her processional flowers were white carnations and yellow roses with white satin streamers ending in love knots. Her reeessional arrangement was a white orchid on a white Bible with white satin markers tipped with lilies of the valley.

* * *

MISS CHAVIS wore a floor length gown of yellow taffeta with Chantilly lace jacket trimmed with seed pearls. A yellow taffeta headpiece and net veil completed her ensemble.
